IKE ACTS FOR VETERANS OF AFRICA-EUROPE

Army Begins Shift to Pacific

PARIS, May 12 [Saturday]—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower has ordered that American combat soldiers who have fought in both Europe and North Africa are not to be sent to the Pacific war zone, supreme headquarters revealed last night.

In a letter to generals of his command, Eisenhower said yesterday: "We must be sure that no soldier is sent to the Pacific who has fought in both North Africa and Europe. It may be that some soldiers in this category will not have sufficient points to be eligible for discharge.

"However, these men should be retained in the European theater for occupation as they should not be required to fight another campaign."

Prepare for Prompt Action

Gen. Eisenhower's letter said he had received a personal letter from Gen. Marshall pointing out his "concern in the human problem which will arise in redeployment."

"I share his concern," Gen. Eisenhower said. "When the bell rings we must be prepared to release the high point men in each combat division who are eligible for discharge even tho it results in an immediate reduction of divisional strength below the authorized figures.

"We must not follow blueprint designs rigidly but must apply the established policies with human understanding. This requires the personal attention of the commander in all command echelons. The pattern of redeployment must be followed with utmost concern."

Pacific Shift Begins

Meanwhile America's war effort in the European theater slipped into reverse today when the army put into effect its vast redeployment plan to switch the bulk of fighting men in this theater to the Pacific.

Already some American service troops were moving toward French ports for the trip to the Pacific. Combat troops will begin moving in about six months.

"R" day will mark the beginning of tabulation of individual adjusted rating cards, which will determine who shall fight and who shall go home. Soldiers who have done enough toward conquering Germany to rate 85 points on their cards will just about have a ticket home.

Brig. Gen. G. S. Eyster, acting deputy chief of staff, said that in general troops going direct to the Pacific would sail from Marseille.

Combat troops will sail for the United States from the northern ports of Antwerp, Le Havre and Cherbourg.

GERMANY WON'T START 3D WAR, GOERING ASSERTS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

AUGSBURG, Germany, May 11—"The outcome of the war was decided by the uninterrupted air offensive of the united nations—aided by other factors," said Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, founder of Germany's luftwaffe and Hitler's would-be heir, when interviewed this afternoon, three days after he surrendered to the Americans.

"There will be no third war in this century for the Germans," he said. "Every one wants peace. It will take 100 years for Germany to recover from this war."

Hitler never believed America would enter the war in view of the depression in the United States which followed the last war, he said, and the entry of America came as a disastrous shock and surprise to Germany.

Goering said he realized the war was lost after D-day and became certain when the Russian offensive broke the German center on the eastern front. The outcome was decided when the Americans broke thru at Avranches, he asserted.

Credits U. S. Air Forces

"The American air force made the allied offensive successful," he added.

Goering admitted that he knew a "great deal about the American air force."

"There was only one surprise for me and that was the American long range fighter which played a decisive role in this war," he said. "When the Americans could send fighters from England to Berlin to accompany heavy bombers the whole picture changed."

[Army Lightning, Thunderbolt, and Mustang planes all took part in escorting Flying Fortresses and Liberators in bombing Berlin. On April 30, 1944, for instance, 1,000 fighter escorts took part in the raid, including all three types.]

One He Can't Answer

"What about the reichsmarshal's statement that 'if the allies ever bomb Berlin my name is Meyer'?" he was asked.

Hermann mopped his brow, blushed, and waited for the next question.

Goering has barely changed since I interviewed him last November, 1940. Only then he was bedecked with decorations, sported costly rings, and oozed self-confidence. This time he wore only platinum wedding bands and adopted an air of sweet reasonableness. He asserted that he and the members of the government knew nothing of the concentration camp horrors, tho they started in the days when he was in charge of the organization that later became the Gestapo.

He also disclaimed responsibility for handcuffing American and British flyers, tho the proclamations threatening these and other punishments for flyers were announced in his name over the German radio.

Ordered Coventry Raid

"The purpose of the German raids was to acquire air supremacy and to destroy the British air force by

Mother Visits Truman; Goes by Air at 92

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—Mrs. Martha Truman, a smiling little lady in a blue coat on which a big orchid stirred in the breeze, stepped from a huge army transport plane this afternoon to get an affectionate welcome from her President son.

Mrs. Truman, who came for a Mother's day visit with the chief executive, looked pleased about everything but the fuss made over her first plane ride and her first trip to Washington. She gazed at rows of cameramen and remarked to her son:

"O, fiddlesticks! If I had known that I wouldn't have come."

Truman Beams at Meeting

President Truman's face was wreathed in smiles as he gazed down on his 92 year old mother.

"And how are all at home?" the President asked when the first greetings were over.

"O, fine, just fine," she assured him.

Lt. Col. Henry T. Myers of Tifton, Ga., who flew the big C-54 here from Grandview, told reporters:

"She's certainly a grand lady."

Myers said the trip took four hours and 15 minutes and that "we had tail winds all the way."

"Mrs. Truman seemed to have enjoyed the trip very much," he said.

Was Roosevelt Pilot

The President shook hands with Myers, who piloted the same plane on the late President Roosevelt's trip to Yalta.

Mr. Truman told reporters his mother had often expressed the desire to ride in a plane and he was glad that facilities were available to carry her to Washington where she will participate in Sunday's day of prayers for the European victory.

The president in declaring the unconditional surrender of Germany last Tuesday issued a proclamation calling for a day of thanksgiving on Mother's day.

The trip was said to have been originally planned as a surprise for the President on his birthday last Tuesday, with his wife, Mrs. Bess Truman, as chief plotter. However, there was a slip-up due to pressure of events, that day also having been V-E day.

FREE AIR SHOW OPENS AT CITY PORT TODAY; HERE IS ITS SCHEDULE

Here is a time schedule of the free air show to be held over the week-end at Chicago airport in connection with the opening of the seventh war loan bond drive Monday.

Noon today: One hour simulated air raid on the city by bombers and fighter planes, five armadas taking part; a display of aircraft and equipment, including the XB-19A, largest bomber ever built.

At 2:30 p. m. today: The air borne attack on the airport will display combat tactics, mass parachute jumps, glider landings, aerial supply drops, and evacuation of "wounded" by "snatch" pickup of gliders by planes flying 120 miles an hour.

Sunday: Exhibition will be open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., the "air borne attack" taking place at 2:30 p. m. The same program will be followed Monday, except that the show will not open until noon. Inspection of all aircraft and equipment will be open daily.

CHICAGO TOPS TOKYO, BERLIN; NOW 4TH CITY

With Berlin reduced to a charred shell, and 3 million civilians evacuated from Tokyo, Chicago now stands fourth in the ranking of the world's largest cities, according to latest estimates.

Metropolitan Chicago now has an estimated population of 4,574,692. New York City's population is estimated at 11,690,000, London's at 8,700,000, and Paris' 4,934,000.

Yanks Capture Jap Diplomats and High Nazis

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, May 11 (AP)—Hiroshi Oshima, Japanese ambassador to Germany, and 130 Japanese diplomatic personnel have been arrested by 7th army troops.

With the Japanese were nearly 200 German ministerial personnel, including Dr. Walther Funk, president of the reichsbank and minister of economics; Dr. Hans Heinrich Lammers, chief of the reichschancellery, and Dr. Wilhelm Ohnesorge, postmaster general.

The brief announcement did not say where the roundup took place.

Wife With Oshima

The army's announcement said that besides Oshima, the Japanese included members of the Berlin embassy staff, personnel detached from the staffs in France and Italy, and the consulate general in Austria.

With Oshima were his wife; Lt. Gen. Mitsuhiko Komatsu, military attache; Maj. Gen. Osamu Otani, member of the mixed commission under the tripartite pact; Rear Adm. Mideo Kojima, naval attache; Maj. Gen. Yoshisada Mishima, member of the foreign office staff, and four newspaper men.

DYED-IN-THE-WOOL NAZI

Walther Funk, a dyed-in-the-wool Nazi economist, succeeded Dr. Hjalmar Schacht as minister of economics on Feb. 7, 1938, and took over the presidency of the reichsbank Jan. 10, 1939.

Funk, now 54, became closely associated with Hitler in 1931 when he was appointed head of the economic section of the Nazi party.

Funk was largely responsible for drawing the Balkans into the German economic sphere after Munich, and tho things went worse for the short, chubby bon vivant of the nazi cabinet after the outbreak of war, he later drew Romania completely into Germany's orbit. Under his direction, all southeastern Europe came under Germany's sphere at the height of the reich's successes in Europe.

Face Internment

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—Unofficial sources said tonight that the Japanese diplomats captured in Germany would be subject to internment. It was indicated they would have special diplomatic status and would not be treated as ordinary prisoners of war. These sources also explained that it might be possible to effect an exchange for Americans or other allied prisoners held in Japan.

Hear England to Get Italy's African Lands

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 11—Great Britain, it was learned today, intends to take over the Italian colonies in Africa and Italian possessions in the Mediterranean, under a trusteeship established by the new league of nations to enforce peace which is being constructed at the San Francisco conference.

These colonies and other possessions are:

1. Libya, including Tripoli, on the Mediterranean coast west of Egypt, a territory of 679,000 square miles and 900,000 population annexed by Italy in 1939; conquered by the British army in 1943.

2. Italian Somaliland, on the African coast of the Indian ocean, a territory of 194,000 square miles and 1,300,000 population; occupied by British colonial forces in April, 1940.

On Red Sea Coast.

3. Eritrea, on the African coast of the Red sea, a territory of 16,000 square miles and 600,000 population which became an Italian colony in 1890; occupied by British colonial forces in April, 1940.

4. Rhodes and 13 other Aegean isles with an area of 1,000 square miles and population of 141,000; occupied by Italy during war with Turkey in 1912; recently occupied by British forces.

5. Pantelleria islands, off coast of Tunisia; occupied by British forces in 1943.

The British proposals to the San Francisco conference on the new peace league's trusteeships were shaped with a view to the acquisition by Great Britain of this colonial empire as a trustee in the same manner that Britain acquired control of the former German colonies in Africa under a mandate of the first league of nations.

Three Classes of Territories

The British proposals, based on the agreement Prime Minister Churchill made with Mr. Roosevelt and Russian Premier Stalin at Yalta, enumerates three classes of territories to be placed under trusteeships. One of them is "certain territories which as a consequence of the present war may be removed from the sovereignty or mandate of states not members of the united nations."

In this class would fall the Pacific islands which Japan held under mandate from the first league of nations—the Marshall, Caroline, and Marianas archipelagoes, which American forces have wrested from Japan and which the United States needs for defense bases. Also in this category would fall the Italian colonies.

These Italian colonies now are being occupied and governed by British military forces. The Italian islands also are occupied by British naval forces.

After Japan's Defeat

The disposition of these Italian possessions will be made eventually by the allied powers at the peace conference after the defeat of Japan. The British expect little difficulty in getting an agreement awarding them the territories, despite the effort Italy may make to retain Libya, at least. Britain will be particularly insistent on a British trusteeship for the Mediterranean islands as naval bases for guarding the famous "life line of empire" connecting the British Isles with India.

The British in their proposals seek authority as trustee to conscript the population of trusteed territories for military service and to tax the population and employ the resources of the areas for military purposes. That is the significance of the paragraph in the British proposals which declare it the duty of the trustee "to insure that the territory shall play its part in the maintenance of international peace and security."

Law and Order

"To this end," the British proposals continue, "the state [administering the territory] shall be empowered to make use of forces, facilities and assistance from the territory in carrying out the obligations undertaken by the state to the security council in this regard and for local defense and the maintenance of law and order within the territory."

Under this provision the trusteed territory could be fortified, its population conscripted and its resources employed for military purposes, a privilege denied by the mandates of the first league of nations.

CHARGES YALTA PLEDGE BROKEN BY CHURCHILL

Sends Messages to Both London and Washington

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 11—Dictator Stalin startled his western allies today with an astoundingly outspoken note to Prime Minister Churchill in which he frankly declared there is no possibility of co-operation between Russia and Britain.

The soviet leader sent a copy of the note to President Truman and followed it with a personal note which clearly carried the implication that there could be no co-operation between Russia and the United States unless this country reversed its stand on the issues between the London and Lublin Poles.

London tonight was apprehensive and Washington startled by the diplomatic bombshell that struck the two capitals with disclosure of the impasse and its verification in responsible quarters.

Diplomats Amazed

The vigor of Stalin's language in his 1,000 word message to Churchill amazed career diplomats in both countries. It was reported on high authority that Stalin labeled Churchill a perverter of the truth and a welcher on the Yalta agreement. It was regarded as one of the most astounding documents in diplomatic history.

Tho its implications were considered to be of the widest scale, it primarily constituted a Red reply to the British protest against the soviet arrest of 16 leaders of the Polish underground, loyal to the British-American recognized government in exile in London.

Stalin allegedly charged that Churchill has consistently interpreted falsely the Russian position on Poland, has consorted with the Polish government in exile, blocked soviet efforts to solve the problem, and has opposed soviet policy thruout the Balkans, Germany, and all the soviet satellite nations.

Notice on Truman

In a covering message, which accompanied the copy of the Churchill note, Stalin told Mr. Truman that Russians could no longer trust either the British prime minister or his government.

Stalin's action in sending the copy to Mr. Truman was seen as serving notice on the new President that he could expect to be classed with Churchill if he did not swing to the soviet position.

The Red leader's personal note to Mr. Truman, however,

LUBLIN POLES BEGIN MOVING TO ODER RIVER

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 11—The Polish provisional government has begun to move into Germany up to the Oder river presumably with Moscow's approval, it was disclosed by the Lublin radio tonight.

Speaking on behalf of the Polish provisional government, it announced that "in connection with the resettlement of the people in the ancient Slav lands which now return to the mother country, the Lodz authorities have been entrusted with the carrying out of resettlement regarding Frankfurt-on-Oder. The first group of more than 1,000 persons will leave Lodz in the next few days en route for Frankfurt-on-Oder, where they will assume posts in administration, local government, industry, commerce, handicraft, and communications. This commercial city is waiting for Polish pioneers."

British Surprised

A British diplomatic source seemed surprised at this announcement. It was said that no formal arrangement has yet been reached among the allied powers regarding the extension of Poland's new western frontiers, and both the American and British governments consider the problem should have been left for the general peace settlement.

Russia's one sided technique in handling the Polish and other European problems has created considerable disquiet in diplomatic circles here.

Hailed by Army Paper

The Red army newspaper Red Star hailed the Lublin move into Frankfurt and the emergence of the new Poland as an outstanding factor in Europe. "The new guard has appeared on the Oder," it said. "If such a vigilant and mighty guard shall appear on the Rhine, then peace in Europe will be firmly assured."

Russia Starts Conversion of Vast Industry

MOSCOW, May 11 (AP)—Partial reconversion of Russia's vast industry went into effect today.

Clothing output for the second quarter of 1945 would be more than 60 per cent above the first quarter, the people's commissariat of light industry announced, as other plans for the swing to production of consumer goods were disclosed.

The newspaper, Evening Moscow, said local industry in the Moscow district in the second quarter would turn out 334,000,000 rubles worth of consumer goods—an increase of 13,000,000 over the last quarter.

The factories in this district were concentrating on the production of shoes, hats and knitted goods, but fresh production of much needed alarm and electric wall clocks also was begun.

Snack Shops to Open.

The commissariat of trade said 250 snack shops would be opened this summer in Moscow's parks. Cafeterias will be installed in 2,300 stores and more than 1,100 restaurants will be opened before September.

New farmers' markets are being established to handle produce in the Moscow district. Currently these markets are in direct competition with state commercial food stores.

The executive committee of the Moscow district of laborers announced a doubling in production of building goods, with special priorities given schools and hospitals. Plans were disclosed for hundreds of miles of new road construction.

LEND-LEASE TOPS 7 BILLION

From Oct. 1, 1941, when lend-lease began, to June 30, 1944, end of the third lend-lease agreement period, the United States had sent materials valued at $5,900,000,000 to Russia. By Dec. 1, 1944, the total had reached $7,436,767,000, an increase of more than 1½ billion dollars in five months.

May Try Millions for Atrocities

LONDON, May 11 (AP)—Penalties for Germany's war atrocities—concentration camps, slave labor, enforced prostitution, and planned starvation—may be imposed on 4,000,000 to 6,000,000 of the conquered reich's population in the form of personal punishment, it was learned today. This estimate came from a responsible source close to the war crimes commission.

He added that Rudolf Hess, onetime No. 2 Nazi who flew to England in 1941 on a reported peace mission; fugitive Hangman Heinrich Himmler, and Hermann Goering, captured air force chief, all were definitely on the allied war criminals list.

The source said there was little chance that Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, who succeeded Hitler as German fuehrer, would escape a similar fate. He held the belief that Doenitz, chief of nazi U-boat warfare, would be held accountable for the machine gunning of open, unarmed boats in violation of the international rules of war.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the question of setting up a tribunal for the actual trial of war criminals and their organizations awaited the attention of the foreign ministers of Britain, France, Russia, and the United States.

Simultaneously, it was established that neutral countries would not be given the opportunity to sit in judgment upon those accused of war crimes and that the trials would be held in public to impress on the Germans the magnitude of their crimes.

Strong sentiment also exists for the trial of industrialists who used slave labor as well as those who formulated the policies which made it possible.

Meanwhile, dispatches from the British 2d army front said that the removal of active Nazis from the civil administration of Germany was expected to take about six months.

Military government officials announced that about 2,000 arrests had been made so far in the British 2d army area, including nazi political suspects, collaborationists and members of the German intelligence services.

REPORT STALIN RIPS CHURCHILL, WARNS TRUMAN

Asserts British Leader Broke Yalta Pledge

was milder than his message to Churchill, presumably because the President was not a participant in the discussions at Yalta.

However, in a message nonetheless certain, he told Mr. Truman that it is futile to expect further discussion of the Polish problem from Russia on the basis of allied failure to stand by the Yalta agreement as interpreted by Russia.

This communication was reportedly confined largely to the statement that the Yalta agreement on Poland had been thrown out the window by events since agreement was made.

It also emphasized, it was said, that these events were beyond Russian control and implied that the British were responsible.

The personal note to Mr. Truman reached his desk this morning. No immediate reaction was available from the White House.

First word of the Stalin notes came from London in dispatches published by New York newspapers. It was believed here that the British government allowed the news to leak out in protest against the positions taken by the Russians.

BRITAIN IS WATCHFUL

New York, May 11 [Special]—A British attitude of tense watchfulness in the diplomatic flareup with Russia was indicated today by dispatches quoting London newspapers.

A United Press story that appeared this afternoon in the World Telegram and Evening Journal quoted the London News-Chronicle as saying that Stalin's "very outspoken" message was sent in reply to notes from Truman and Churchill relating to the soviet arrest of 16 leaders of the Polish underground.

The same story reported that the London Daily Mail asserted "there are unmistakable indications the attitude of the soviet government toward solution by negotiations is stiffening considerably."

Communication with Stalin

The New York Times quoted the Daily Mail's diplomatic correspondent as writing that Churchill had been in frequent communication with Stalin and Truman on the Polish question and that in one communication between Churchill and Stalin the latter had refused to continue negotiations on the same basis as between the foreign secretaries.

The New York paper's correspondent wrote:

ARRESTS CONDEMNED

LONDON, May 11 (AP)—Britain's weekly magazines, including the left-wing Tribune, generally condemned Russia's arrest of 16 Polish leaders in their issues appearing today.

The Tribune said Premier Stalin, by jailing the Poles, "was virtually declaring the Yalta agreement to be null and void," and added that "he apparently prefers exclusive Russian control over the so-called soviet sphere of influence to the joint responsibility of the Big Three."

While asserting it was justifiable to prevent the formation of any blocs or linkups that might have an anti-soviet edge, the Tribune continued that:

"All this does not give the Russian government the right to overstep the limits of legitimate self-defense and to raise false accusations which are an insult to the other allies and to British labor and to make the arrested Polish leaders and their followers in Poland scapegoats in a crude and dangerous game of power politics."

Threat to Collaboration

The New Statesman and Nation, a liberal weekly, said it was willing to await the evidence at a public trial of the accused Polish leaders, but voiced concern "lest the U. S. S. R., like the U. S. A. in its own sphere, be so determined at the moment to fashion its own security system that it may spoil chances of collaboration by refusing all concessions to liberal western opinion."

The influential and conservative Spectator remarked that "if these leaders who in good faith visited the Russians to discuss Polish politics were chargeable with sabotage and wrecking, it seems inconceivable that the whole facts should not have been placed at once before the British and American ambassadors."

The Spectator said it was even more serious that at "the moment when the united nations were building a security system based on cooperation of the great powers, the soviet government should abandon the cooperation agreed upon in the particular case of Poland."

Deny Big Three Meeting

A British government spokesman dismissed as "rumors and speculation" London press reports that a meeting of the Big Three was impending and also a report published in the United States that a meeting between Prime Minister Churchill and President Truman was imminent. He declared he had no knowledge of any preparations for such a meeting.

The Evening News diplomatic correspondent reported Churchill "believes that an early meeting of the Big Three is urgently required to deal with [1] final plans for allied occupation and government of Germany, and [2] to settle many differnces about European problems which, it must be frankly admitted, have come about between the western allies and soviet Russia since Yalta."

The Moscow radio said the presidium of the supreme soviet council has ratified the Russian Polish treaty of friendship, mutual assistance, and post-war collaboration signed in Moscow April 21.

Colonies Sought by the British

ASKS STERNER METHODS

BY E. B. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 11—The Economist, leading British financial journal, today urged the British government to adopt a much sterner line with Russia. It said the policy of appeasing Russia has not produced results, and the time has now come to try new methods.

The Russians, it suggested, may be unable to distinguish willingness to compromise in the interest of wider agreement from mere weakness. "Perhaps the best way to win their respect and friendship is to drive as hard bargains as they do themselves," it stated.

The British labor party organ, Daily Herald, called for an immediate Big Three conference to organize territorial adjustments in Europe and prevent nations from illegally jumping claims.

It was reported here last night that Stalin's attitude had stiffened considerably. He was said to have informed Prime Minister Churchill there was little prospect of any progress on the Polish issue on the present basis, and to have sent a similar communication to President Truman.

'MOST UNHAPPY NEWS'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 11—An indication that a grave international situation was in the making was seen at British Foreign Secretary Eden's press conference yesterday when he showed unmistakable bitterness in referring to the arrest of the 16 Polish leaders, which had put an end to discussions of Polish representation at the world security conference.

"This question lies heavily on my mind and yours," he told newspaper men. "The most unhappy news of the Russian arrest of 16 Polish leaders has made further progress in the conversations about Poland impossible under present conditions.

"I must emphasize that the list of Poles about whom we inquired were leading figures in the Polish underground. Four had held ministerial positions in the Polish government in Poland.

"Most of them were just the type we thought should be consulted about the new national government and who were truly representative of the Polish political life in accord with the Crimean decisions.

"Their arrest has put a stop to the work on Poland as far as the conference is concerned. Now we are going to take stock of the situation and determine our next steps thru our government—in London, not here.

"Inquiries which the United States and we have made indicated that 15 Poles were missing, whereas the soviet government says 16 were arrested.

"We stand entirely on the decision at Yalta. The new Polish government would include representatives of the Warsaw government and others outside and inside Poland. Our American allies are entirely in agreement with our interpretation of the Yalta agreement and the disagreement with Russia on the Polish issue lies in the arrests."

HISTORY OF CASE

In their official statement Feb. 12 on the results of the Yalta conference, which was held from Feb. 4 thru Feb. 11, Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt, and Dictator Stalin reported that the Lublin provisional government then functioning in Poland would be "reorganized on a broader democratic basis with the inclusion of democratic leaders from Poland itself and from Poles abroad."

The statement added that when a Polish provisional government should be formed in conformity with the Yalta reorganization plan, it would be recognized by the United States and Britain as well as by Russia, which already was maintaining diplomatic relations with the provisional group then in power.

It Partitioned Lands

Another decision of the conference was to give Russia a large part of eastern Poland, with the understanding that the Poles would receive a part of Germany to recompense them.

The Polish government in exile in London, which had been recognized by 45 nations, including the United States and Britain, assailed both the partition and the plan to establish a government dominated by the Lublin group. It asserted the Lublin provisional government was a puppet of Russia.

Churchill, defending the Yalta agreements in London, Feb. 27, said: "The impression I brought back from the Crimea and from all my other contacts is that Marshal Stalin and the other soviet leaders wish to live in honorable friendship and equality with the western democracies. I feel also that their word is their bond."

Yalta Formula Scrapped

Subsequently, Stalin scrapped the Yalta formula on Poland. It was disclosed March 29 that the official soviet publication War and the Working Class had denounced the London Polish government and asserted that no member of that exiled group would be permitted to join the Lublin government in Warsaw.

The Lublin group then sent a note to the Big Three and France and China asking the right to represent Poland at the San Francisco conference. Russia's Foreign Commissar Molotov himself brought the issue up at the conference but was soundly defeated. The London group did not receive an invitation to the parley.

Underground Leaders Seized

In the meantime, Poland's underground leaders, who had been in communication by secret radio with the London government, were invited to meet in Moscow with the Lublin Poles. They agreed to do so, provided they could confer with the London Poles first.

A Russian general offered to provide a plane for their journey to London and they accepted. The Polish leaders, 16 in number, disappeared March 27. Molotov disclosed May 4 that the group was under arrest in Russia.

CHARGES RUSSIA SEEKS DEATH OF POLES AS NATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 11—An international organization for perpetual peace cannot long endure if it is constructed on the tomb of Poland as its cornerstone, the Polish American congress, which claims to speak for six million Americans of Polish descent, warned today in a memorandum to State Secretary Stettinius.

Charles Rozmarek

The soviet puppet provisional government in Warsaw is committed to the destruction of the independence of Poland thru ruthless persecution of her people, it was charged by the congress, of which Charles Rozmarek of Chicago, is president. Soviet military forces which continue to occupy Poland use methods similar to those employed by the Germans for the enslavement and eventual extermination of Poles, Stettinius was informed.

Charges were made in the memorandum that: Mass arrests are being made, and 300,000 persons recently were deported into Russia from eastern Poland and 200,000 from western Poland; several million Poles will be deprived of their homes by a population shift commenced in eastern Poland; Poles have been deprived of all rights guaranteed them by their constitution; Polish industry is being moved to Russia; the country is being deprived of its Christian culture, and children are being taken from their parents and sent to schools in Russia for "reeducation."

BRITISH TO BEGIN PRODUCTION, CUT ARMED FORCES

EXETER, England, May 11 (AP)—Minister of Production Oliver Lyttelton said tonight Britain will begin "new peace production" now.

"We cannot, because of the great distances which separate us from the theater of war, bring the same weight, the same numbers to bear upon the Japanese as we brought upon the Germans," the text of a speech said. "Consequently there will be releases from the armed forces and, with the aid of this man and woman power, we must make a beginning in our life here at home."

Lyttelton said, "High wages can only be sustained in a competitive world by high production per man, which depends on hard work and good machines."

"SERVICE FLAG" FOR BOATS

Washington, D. C., May 11 [AP]—The navy today authorized small private vessels which have seen naval duty and have been returned to their owners to display a special service insignia. Such vessels may wear a chevron for each six months of service with the navy.

PARTISANS CUT GRAZ ROAD TO BLOCK BRITISH

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY IN AUSTRIA, May 11 (AP)—Yugoslav Partisans moving into southern Carinthia and Styria in an apparent effort to claim parts of the two Austrian provinces for Marshal Tito set up a block on a main road yesterday, forcing the 8th army to reroute traffic temporarily as it sought speedy occupation of its zone.

Partisans, dressed mostly in civilian clothes and wearing the Tito red star, cut the important highway between Klagenfurt and Graz just below Voelkermarkt by drawing up vehicles three abreast across the pavement.

In Voelkermarkt itself the Partisans gave the town administration 30 minutes to leave, and announced they would administer the municipality.

At Klagenfurt members of the new provisional government for Carinthia claimed that Partisans were attempting to participate in the occupation of the town. They said the Partisans had taken over control of the railroad station for a while and later the publishing house in which the official government organ is printed.

Eighth army troops now are patroling Klagenfurt and an 11:30 p. m. curfew has been imposed.

The areas into which the Partisans are moving have large Slovenian populations. In a plebiscite conducted by the allies in 1920 the Carinthia Slovene population voted to remain in the Austrian republic.

The roads of lower Carinthia were filled with a hodge-podge of nationalities or armed and disarmed soldiers and refugees.

A whole division of cossacks was camped with accompanying families in the Liens area.

RUSSIA INTENDS TO TAKE PART IN COLONY CONTROL

Backs Moves Toward Independence

San Francisco, Cal., May 11 [Special]—Soviet Russia served notice today that she intends to take an active part in the allocation and supervision of colonial areas and strategic bases under the new league of nations.

After two weeks of listening in the Big Five trusteeship meetings, the Russian delegation today distributed their own plan which emphasizes that the soviet union should be a permanent member of the proposed trusteeship council of the new league and that the security council, on which soviet Russia is also a permanent member, should be given a larger role than has been assigned to it by either the United States or Great Britain.

Provides New Complication

The Russian plan furthermore goes beyond the American or British plans in arguing not only that the colonial peoples of the world should be given an opportunity to work toward "self-government" but that the aim should be "full national independence."

This listing of "full national independence" as an aim for all peoples under the new league's trusteeship scheme raises another complicating factor among the Big Five.

The Russians, who had not sided with either the United States or Britain in their controversy over the structure and procedure of the trusteeship machinery, chose the United States plan as the basis of their own charter. They made several amendments to this, however.

Other Amendments

After emphasizing that "full national independence" should be an aim of the new league for peoples under its control, the Russian plan emphasized that the question of who should get colonial territories and strategic bases should definitely be a subject for future discussion.

Another Russian amendment seemed to emphasize this same principle: that the allocation of any colonial territories or strategic bases was a matter of concern to the soviet union.

The other Russian amendments stressed the desire of the soviet union to be part of all negotiations on this topic and to continue this interest thru the trusteeship council.

SMALLER LANDS BANK ON U. S. AS THEIR DEFENDER

See Full Participation in League by America

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 11—Small nations at the security conference here are convinced the United States will participate to the hilt in the revamped league of nations and they have no apprehensions that congress may repudiate the international organization as the "irreconcilables" did in the case of President Wilson's pet scheme after World War I.

With the United States a member the lesser countries feel their independence and freedom will be amply guaranteed and that America will be ready constantly hereafter to mobilize her incredibly gigantic war potential to rally to the aid of any power that is the victim of attack.

Thus, despite the campaign of Sen. Pierre Nothomb of Belgium, Walloon Nationalist leader, and various articles in Brussels newspapers demanding a revision of the 1839 treaty between the Netherlands and Belgium and a rectification of the frontier in favor of Belgium, this thorny problem which aroused a bitter quarrel during the Paris peace conference in 1919 will not be raised here.

They Separate

After the Napoleonic wars, at the congress of Vienna in 1815, the Low Countries, Holland and Belgium, were united as one state. The marriage failed, however, and after 15 years they separated. Nine years later at London a treaty gave Holland a strip of territory along the south bank of the Scheldt river below Antwerp and also the province of Dutch Limburg which projects outward as a deep salient into Belgium almost to Liege.

Over the years, and especially after World War I., the Belgian government pressed for changes in the frontier, asserting the boundary did not give them free access to the sea from Antwerp and that the Limburg salient prevented them from defending the line of the Meuse river. Today, however, despite the sustained demand of Sen. Nothomb and his adherents the Belgian delegation here asserted it will not put the matter before the confernece.

"Our relations with the Netherlands are entirely satisfactory and elements which might have made an alteration in the frontier desirable in the past no longer apply," said Walter Loridan of the Belgian delegation. "My country has just concluded an economic and trade agreement with the Netherlands and France, and this amicable solution of our common problem reveals our harmonious relations.

Protected by League

"Our security henceforth will be protected by the new world organization. Development of air warfare places an entirely new conception on the problem of defense against an aggressor, and, lastly, the old idea of fortified 'lines' and 'walls' has been pretty well shattered."

Adrian Pelt, delegate of the Netherlands government, said: "No mention of the 1839 treaty was made during negotiations of the trade pact with Belgium in March and I do not believe the question will be placed before this conference. There was no hindrance to the activity of the port of Antwerp during peace times, and in any future war, the importance of the Meuse river as a defense line will take on an entirely new aspect because of the security measures which the concerted powers will take to protect any nation from an aggressor."

MIDDLE NATIONS ADOPT 'NO VOTE, NO FIGHT,' STAND

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 11—The smaller nations today were battling for a voice and a vote on any proposal the proposed peace league might make that any of them employ their military or economic forces to prevent acts of aggression.

The middle nations—such as Canada, Brazil, New Zealand, Australia, and the Netherlands—were striving for a recognition in the machinery commensurate with the military and economic strength they have shown in the war and can display in efforts to prevent future wars.

"No fighting without a vote," was their theme.

The structure and procedures committee of the general assembly commission dealing with the makeup of the security council — core of the league—has adopted one of the Big Four proposals to amend Dumbarton Oaks by providing that the general assembly of the league in filling the six nonpermanent seats on the council should give due regard to the contribution of the several nations towards maintenance of peace and also to equitable geographical distribution.

Permanent Seats

The Big Five, which includes France, in addition to the four sponsoring nations, the United States Britain, China, and Russia — have permanent seats.

New Zealand strove to get thru an amendment which would provide that all security council decisions contemplating the use of economic or military force to preserve peace, except in the case of extreme urgency, shall require concurrence of the general assembly by a simple majority vote. Canada's proposal is that any nation not on the security council should sit as an invited member of the council before it is called on to provide military or economic forces by the council.

Big Four members argued that the New Zealand proposal would put the brakes on effective peace enforcement by the council.

Canada argued that its proposal would strengthen the council. It urged that if any nation is to be asked to use its military or other force against another state to preserve peace, it should be given full voice in the matter.

Want It Written In

It was argued by some that this possibly would be given by the council anyhow, but the reply was that it should be written sepcifically into the charter, so that the people can know they have been represented in any move requiring a state to exert military and economic strength and can back it up.

Canada has put part of its proposals thru in the Big Four amendment to give regard to the strength of secondary nations when the assembly picks the six nonpermanent seats on the council. Today Australia, the Netherlands, and other middle states appeared ready to back up the rest of the Canadian idea of a voice for any state on any action it might be required by the council to make against an aggressor.

The Big Four is unalterably opposed to any increase in the membership of the security council as asked by smaller nations, a spokesman for the American delegation disclosed today.

TITO FOE URGES YANKS BE SENT TO YUGOSLAVIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 11 — Constantin A. Fotitch, former Yugoslav ambassador to the United States and now a representative of the central national committee of Yugoslavia, pleaded today that British and American diplomats at the allied security conference here take a hand in the disposition of Yugoslav war prisoners and dispatch allied troops, "especially Americans," to Yugoslavia.

He said the troops were necessary to restore order and tranquillity in the country and thus assure free and unfettered elections thru which freedom and democracy will be restored in Yugoslavia."

Fotitch, who addressed a press conference attended by several hundred newspaper men, made public a petition to Secy. Stettinius, chairman of the American delegation, in which he charged that the communist partisan government of Marshal Tito is forcing Yugoslav prisoners of war to join Tito's national army of liberation or, as an alternative, "remain German soldiers, British prisoners of war."

These are the men, Fotitch said, who were members of the Yugoslav army, fighting the Germans from 1941 to 1943, when the Tito partisan government was established and won allied recognition. Yet, he said, they either have to pledge loyalty to the partisan Communists, or be regarded as Germans—their enemies.

Predicts Death Sentence

San Francisco, Cal., May 12 [Saturday] (AP)—Dr. Ivan Subasic, Yugoslav foreign minister, said today Draja Mihailovitch, Chetnik leader and former Yugoslav was minister, would be tried for collaborating with the Germans, and shot. In answer to a question as to what would happen to the Serbian guerrilla leader, Subasic said: "He will be shot." Then

KOREANS' PLEA TO BE STUDIED BY COMMITTEE

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 11—A resolution calling for representation of the Korean provisional government at the world security conference was accepted today for official consideration by the committee on membership shortly after reports were received here that President Truman had interested himself in the Korean demands.

Mr. Truman was said to have received a complete outline of the Korean case together with a report on agreements alleged to have been reached at Yalta between the late President Roosevelt and Dictator Stalin affecting the future fate of the strategically located country of 25 million population which has been in Japanese hands for 40 years.

Dr. Syngman Rhee, president of the provisional government, said he believed the President's intervention had resulted in the decision to permit consideration of his resolution by the membership committee headed by Alvaro Bonilla Lara of Costa Rica.

The state department previously had refused to extend any recognition to the Korean group. A spokesman today said no action had yet been taken on a demand by Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] that the question of seating Korea be put to a vote by the delegates.

The resolution noted that Korea was the first victim of Japanese military aggression and that the Korean people never had ceased fighting against the Japs since 1905. A provisional government was established by the representatives of the 13 provinces during the nation-wide revolution of 1919. It has been supported and maintained in China.

SEEK TO PLACE PEACE-KEEPING ON WIDER BASIS

Exclusive Rule for the World Council Hit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 11—Proposals to broaden peace-keeping powers of the proposed international organization's general assembly were debated today at a closed meeting of an allied nations conference committee.

Amendments have been offered to permit the assembly to act concurrently with the security council in investigating matters deemed likely to endanger peace and to call security council members to account for council actions.

Delegates representing the United States, Russia, and Lebanon argued against giving the general assembly any new power that would detract from the effectiveness of the security council. Belgium and New Zealand led the argument in behalf of strengthening the assembly.

Victor Andrade of Bolivia, chairman of the political and security functions committee of the assembly, which is studying the problem, said that more than 20 amendments proposed by various delegations have been rewritten into nine basic questions on which committee members will vote. All the proposals would increase assembly powers and assembly influence on the security council. Any amendments voted upon favorably by the committee must be passed by a confernece coördinating commission and then be submitted to a plenary session for enactment.

Security council decisions on matters relating to peace and security would be subject to ratification or veto by the general assembly under one of the proposed amendments to the original Dumbarton Oaks plan.

NAZI PRISONERS OFFER TO HELP U. S. FIGHT JAPS

A great many German prisoners of war at Fort Sheridan want to join the American army to fight the Japanese to earn the chance after the war to become American citizens, Col. George H. Cushman, commandant, said yesterday.

Col. Cushman said the request was made thru the prisoners' camp spokesman. He did not reveal how many prisoners were included in the group.

After the war, the spokesman told Col. Cushman, these prisoners would like to return to the United States, resume their status as prisoners of war and work as such for five years. They were curious to know, he explained, whether such service would not then entitle them to the privilege of United States citizenship which many of them are said to cherish. It is expected the offer will be rejected.

THINKS DOENITZ MAY HAVE BEEN ALLIES' CHOICE

Hitler Vanished to Clear Way for Surrender

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA

The United States state department on May 2 made public the fact that Heinrich Himmler, Nazi assistant to Hitler, had entered into relations with Sweden with a view to surrender on April 24. Himmler asked the Swedish government to arrange for him to meet Gen. Eisenhower.

No meeting with Himmler took place. Instead there were meetings at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters with other Germans. The inference is that Himmler was advised that in view of his classification as a war criminal he would not be received except as a surrendering criminal.

It also seems probable that Himmler was advised that no representative of Hitler would be acceptable.

Arranged Hitler Disappearance

Count Folke Bernadotte, the Swedish emissary, reported on May 1 having delivered the state department's reply to Himmler. He did not say where or when he had delivered it.

The German government accepted the terms of the American note. It immediately arranged for the disappearance of Hitler and his close arch criminals. There was precedence for such action, for President Ebert, the first president of the Weimar republic, was removed in 1925 by what appears to have been political murder, his services then being superfluous. As in the case of Ebert, Hitler's disappearance was made to appear in an honorable light.

As soon as Hitler had disappeared and the allies were reasonably sure he was dead, which may be the fact, no difficulty arose as to Gen. Eisenhower receiving German representatives. They arrived at his headquarters May 4.

Why So Long?

The French Gen. Sevez, who took part in the meetings with the German representatives, said the discussions continued thru May 6 and late into that night. There must have been something to discuss other than a willingness to surrender, which the Germans had agreed to do before they arrived.

When Hitler "disappeared," Adm. Doenitz took his place, asserting that Hitler had appointed him to replace him, should the occasion arise. This seems doubtful. Hitler had appointed successors but always did it openly. Nothing like this happened this time. No document has been produced, or its existence claimed.

Doenitz' broadcast May 8, in which he reported a willingness to stay on as fuehrer, should the allies agree, leads to a suspicion that when Himmler was turned down the allies may have suggested Doenitz as one with whom they were willing to deal.

Not Linked to Atrocities.

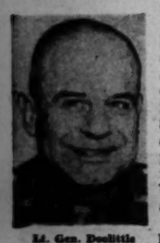
Just after Doenitz' assumption of the office of fuehrer was announced, British press reports said that his record was clear of connection with Nazi atrocities. He had confined himself to his business of running the submarine campaign and was considered as an honorable adversary.

Doenitz' broadcasts comment on the fact that he took office solely to save as many German lives as possible by surrendering a hopeless situation. He went right about this, just as if he had been told in advance what steps to take. His principal efforts have been to direct the surrender of German troops to Americans and British, instead of to Russians.

2,400 B-29S MAY HIT JAPAN, SAYS DOOLITTLE AIDE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 11—Air warfare on a greater scale than the devastating attacks made in Europe is to be unleashed against Japan, and the armadas of raiders may include 2,400 Super Fortresses at a time, it was predicted here today by the United States 8th air force.



Lt. Gen. Doolittle

Lt. Gen. Doolittle, commander who led the famous Tokyo raid on April 18, 1942, forecast that the pattern of basic strategy in Pacific war will follow that of Europe—the weakening of the enemy's power to resist by air assaults and then occupation by ground forces.

It was Doolittle's deputy commander and chief of operations, Maj. Gen. Orville A. Anderson, who said that Japan will be hit by Super Forts on a scale exceeding even the more than 2,400 8th air force Flying Fortresses and Liberators which scourged Europe. The Forts and Liberators will be relegated to the medium bomber class in western Pacific operations, he added.

2 QUISLING AIDS END LIVES; THIRD YIELDS TO SIEGE

Allies Withdrawing 400,000 Germans

OSLO, May 11 (AP)—Vidkun Quisling's police minister Jonas Lie and Police Chief Henrik Rogstad reportedly committed suicide by shooting tonight in a bunker outside Oslo where they had barricaded themselves against patriot forces since liberation day.

Their companion, Quisling's minister of justice Sverre Riisnaes, walked out of the "fortress" to surrender to home front units and report that Lie and Rogstad had just shot themselves thru the head with pistols. Patriot leaders said he apparently had refused to join in a suicide pact.

Apparently Drunk

Home front leaders said Lie apparently was drunk when he shot himself. He was known to have taken 50 bottles of liquor with him when he and his cohorts retreated to the barricade, which was on a suburban estate.

[Dispatches from Oslo Thursday said a fourth Quisling aid, K. Kanerurd, justice of Quisling's high court, also was besieged in the bunker. His fate has not been revealed.]

The time of arraignment of Quisling on treason charges remained indefinite. He was reported alternately weeping and tearing apart the furnishings of his cell.

Josef Terboven, German commissioner in Norway, has committed suicide.

Nazis and Patriots Clash

A sharp fight between home front forces and a small group of German SS men and "Hirdmen" [Norwegian Nazis] took place in the downtown area of Oslo, where the Nazi group had hidden in a building. Patriots swarmed to the roof from adjoining buildings and killed an undetermined number of SS and Hirdmen in a four hour battle.

British Brigadier Gen. Richard Hilton, chief of the allied control commission in Norway, announced that the 400,000 Nazi troops in Norway at the time of its capitulation were withdrawing from all towns to concentration points thruout the country, where they will await return to Germany.

Hilton said a full air borne division of British and Norwegian troops had arrived in Norway and had taken posts at strategic points.

Russian troops in Norway's far northern provinces have stopped their advance in Finnmark, Hilton said, adding that a demarcation line had been fixed between the soviet union and the western allies.

B-29s Lay Blockade

GUAM, May 12 [Saturday]—(AP)—American Super Forts are sowing Japan's harbors and Inland sea with mines in a gigantic operation to disorganize Nippon's shipping while fleets of B-29s hammer the enemy's homeland factories and air fields.

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, commander of the 21st bomber command, said the Super Forts started on March 27th the first attempt in military history to lock a maritime nation in a complete aerial mine blockade. The largest operation was carried out in support of the Okinawa invasion.

The B-29s, each carrying about 10 tons of mines, in nearly a dozen night missions from Tinian bases have planted explosives in the Inland sea and the harbors of Tokyo, Nagoya, and other major Japanese cities.

Operations to plant the mines and maintain a close reconnaissance to replace explosives swept up by the Japanese, are directed by Brig. Gen. John H. Davies of Piedmont, Cal., with the coöperation of the navy which supplies the mines. Davies led the first mission.

Nearly 150 Super Forts from the Marianas yesterday blasted the Kawanishi seaplane plant near Kobe only a few hours after 400 B-29s devastated Japan's oil reserves and fuel plants at Tokuyama and Otake, on Honshu, and at Oshima.

A smaller fleet of the giant bombers also attacked the Oita and Saeki air fields on Kyushu Island, and later another force of around 50 B-29s bombed the Kyushu industrial cities of Miyakanojo and Nittigahara, and the oft-hit Miyasaki air field.

FORMER SPANISH PREMIER FREED FROM GERMANY

LONDON, May 11 [Reuters]—Don Francisco Largo Caballero, former premier of republican Spain, deported to Germany during the occupation of France, has been liberated by allied troops and will shortly arrive in Paris, according to the Swiss radio.

Caballero, once a plasterer who became minister of labor and leader of the Socialist party in Spain, was several times imprisoned for his views under the monarchist regime. He was a member of the administrative council of the international labor office.

Socialist Warns Umberto to Keep Away from Milan

ROME, May 11 (AP)—Prince Umberto of Italy has been warned by a Socialist member of the committee of national liberation that he might be executed if he returned to Milan. Addressing a Socialist mass meeting, Sandro Pertini declared: "Let all men responsible for our ruin know that there is a Piazzo Loreto in Milan." Piazza Loreto is where the bodies of Benito Mussolini and other Fascists were displayed.

German Camp Survivors Listed, Commons Told

LONDON, May 11 [Reuters]—Rolls of survivors in German concentration camps are being prepared and will be sent to the governments concerned, Arthur Henderson, financial secretary to the war office, told parliament today. He said he would arrange for supreme headquarters, allied expeditionary force, to be consulted as to the best way of making use of the records in tracing missing relatives.

CRUSH CZECH POCKETS, FIGHT BERLIN TERROR

LONDON, May 12 [Saturday]—(AP)—Russian armies, slicing up nazi troops resisting Germany's unconditional surrender in Czechoslovakia and northern Austria, made three junctions with American forces yesterday while the Red army wrestled with nazi sabotage in ruined Berlin.

Soviet forces in the German capital battled waves of fires set by nazi "werewolves" and extricated the bodies of hundreds of German civilians from flooded subways where they were drowned in last act nazi terrorism.

While fighting went on more than three days after Germany's official surrender, the soviet high command announced that along the entire former eastern front 560,000 enemy prisoners had been seized Wednesday thru Friday.

45 Generals Captured

The nightly soviet war bulletin revealed that the entire Courland peninsula of Latvia had been occupied following the total surrender of German forces in the Baltic states, while the Vistula river delta east of the port of Danzig also was freed of enemy forces.

Forty-nine German generals were among the thousands of German prisoners captured on all fronts in the last three days, Moscow said.

In Czechoslovakia, Marshal Konev's 1st Ukrainian army west of liberated Prague linked with American troops near Rokycany, nine miles east of Pilsen, while Marshal Malinovsky's 2d Ukrainian army also made a linkup below Prague in the area northwest of Ceske Budejovice.

Wipe Out Last Pockets

Malinovsky's troops also occupied Gmuend and Zwettl in Austria near the Austro-Bohemian frontier 45 miles northeast of Linz.

In this area, a third junction was effected with American forces, Moscow said.

The German resistance in Czechoslovakia was being offered by Field Marshal Ferdinand Schoerner's "middle army groups," but the soviet command threw powerful armored and storm forces into the battle to wipe out the last nazi pockets.

BUSCH ASSERTS HE'S IN CHARGE OF NAZI UNITS

LONDON, May 11 (AP)—Field Marshal Busch proclaimed over the Flensburg radio tonight that he had been placed in command of German forces in Schleswig-Holstein and northern Germany "to maintain order and discipline and assure supplies to the army and civilian population."

The broadcast by the Flensburg station, which presumably is under allied control altho it has been used repeatedly for official German announcements, said Busch had been appointed by Grand Adm. Doenitz "with the agreement of British occupation authorities."

There was no immediate explanation as to why a German general should be named to command troops who are presumed to be prisoners of war.

U.S. 40TH DIVISION LANDS ON NORTH MINDANAO COAST

Forge Pincer on Major Japanese Force

MANILA, May 12 [Saturday]—(AP)—Strong elements of the United States 40th division have made a landing on the north coast of Mindanao Island in a new move to entrap the principal Japanese force remaining in the southern Philippines.

This was the third landing on Mindanao to be made by American forces. Ir announcing the operation, Gen. MacArthur today said troops landed in the rear of an enemy force and caught it out of position.

This enemy force, in the interior province of Bukidnon, has been threatened by the second landing contingent which had been moving northward from its beachheads on the southwestern coastal area.

Between Two Forces

Besides being surprised by the 40th division attack, the Japanese elements had their local defenses disrupted by guerrillas. The new move, MacArthur reported, left them "incapable of serious resistance."

This puts the Bukidnon enemy between two converging Yank forces, one moving up from the south and the other down from the north. The new landing force quickly consolidated its beach positions and drove four miles inland.

An army spokesman disclosed that guerrillas under Col. Wendell Fertig landed two weeks ago at Butuan bay on the north central Mindanao coast in the first amphibious guerrilla operation under cover of American naval guns, and had been harassing the Japanese positions in that area. Other guerrillas were jabbing at the Nipponese in the Agusan valley, in far northeastern Mindanao.

Gain Two Miles on Tarakan

MacArthur also reported the Japanese garrison at Davao, in Mindanao, had been cut off from an escape route to the interior by the 31st United States division—the force moving northward—and is under attack by the 24th division, which captured Davao. The 24th also has been moving northward from the Davao area.

On Luzon Island two American columns converging on Ipo dam, one of the facilities supplying Manila with water, were less than four miles apart.

Australian and Dutch forces pushed forward two miles on Tarakan Island, Borneo, to within one and one-half miles of Karoengan, near the southern tip. The Japanese still were fighting stubbornly in the center of the island.

CHINESE SAYS COUNTER-DRIVE ON JAPS IS NEAR

CHUNGKING, May 11 (AP)—The smashing of the Japanese drive on the United States air base at Chihkiang and counter-attacks along the entire Hunan province front are only preludes "to a general Chinese counter-offensive," an army spokesman declared tonight.

Already, the high command declared, Chinese troops are six miles northwest of Paochinp, the big Hunan province base 125 miles east of Chihkiang from which the Japanese mounted their ill-fated drive.

The north and south pincers of a broad Chinese movement closed on the main highway about 40 miles west of Paoching, trapping large numbers of the enemy, the spokesman declared.

Paoching itself was in ruins after 100 U. S. air fore bombers unloaded 100 tons of high explosives on the ity Wednesday in one of the heaviest aerial blows of the war in China.

Nazi U-Boat Surrenders to Canadian Bomber

Swiss and Alsatians Riot; Border Closed

BASEL, Switzerland, May 11 (AP)—Rioting by Swiss and Alsatians attacking frontier guards from both sides in demonstrations for the resumption of free movement across the border resulted in the closing of the frontier at Lysbuechel today after several of a crowd of 500 were injured.

YANKS ADVANCE HALF A MILE ON SOUTH OKINAWA

GUAM, May 12 [Saturday] (AP)—Despite heavy Japanese aerial assaults and numerous counter-attacks and infiltration attempts Thursday night, the United States 10th army mounted a strong attack yesterday morning and advanced up to half a mile along the southern Okinawa front.

The 6th marine division advanced 800 yards south of the newly bridged Asa river mouth, which put it within half a mile of Okinawa's capital city, Naha.

The initial assault also carried leathernecks, presumably the 1st division, to rugged ground overlooking Shuri, Okinawa's second largest city, a little east of Naha. These marines probably were within half a mile of Shuri.

Hand to Hand Duels

Ground fighting was so fierce that 77th division infantrymen engaged in hand to hand duels with Japanese as they moved forward thru rugged terrain in the center of the front. On the east the 96th division, rested and returned to the front, was gaining slowly against strong resistance. This was the first announcement that the 96th division, taken from the front early this month, had returned to combat.

Yesterday's full scale offensive was launched at 7 a. m. despite many Japanese counter-attacks and infiltration attempts during the night. It was preceded by large scale artillery and naval bombardment and aerial bombing.

Three Ships Damaged

The series of Japanese aerial attacks on American forces both on and lying off Okinawa damaged three light naval units, Adm. Nimitz said in today's bulletin. More than 40 attacking planes were shot down.

Nimitz also reported 612 Japanese were killed Thursday, increasing enemy dead on Okinawa to 39,469.

He disclosed navy casualties from start of the Ryukyus campaign March 18 thru Wednesday totaled 6,853. These were 1,283 officers and men killed, 3,498 wounded, and 2,072 missing. His last report on navy casualties, May 2, listed 5,551 casualties, included 1,131 killed.

HELL ON WHEELS UNIT SLATED FOR TOKEN BERLIN OCCUPATION

Maj. Gen. White.

WITH THE 9TH ARMY IN GERMANY, May 11 (AP)—At least one American division, probably accompanied by a selected squad of war correspondents, will participate in the token occupation of Berlin in the near future, it was indicated here tonight.

There seemed to be reason to believe the outfit selected would be the crack 2d armored [Hell on Wheels division].

Commanded by Maj. Gen. I. D. White of Des Moines, Ia., the division fought in Tunisia, Sicily, and the campaign across Europe.

At first there were reports that correspondents would not be permitted to accompany the occupying division, but it was later indicated that a group of pre-war foreign correspondents with Berlin backgrounds would be taken along rather than field war correspondents who have been following the division's war activities.

TELL ARMY PLAN FOR STERN RULE OF BEATEN NAZIS

Gen. Clay Is to Supervise Military Control

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—A special intelligence section to detect and "ruthlessly" suppress any Nazi underground activities will be part of the United States military government in the American occupation zone of Germany.

Lt. Gen. Clay

This was disclosed today in a war department announcement of plans for the United States group which will form a part of the allied four power control council for Germany.

The American unit will be divided into 12 major divisions, corresponding generally to the ministries of the German central government.

Gen. Eisenhower will be the representative on the council as agreed upon at the Yalta Big Three meeting.

Lt. Gen. Lucius Clay will serve as deputy to Eisenhower and also will be "deputy military governor for Germany," the department said, without amplifying this latter reference.

Planned With Allies

Clay, a West Pointer, was attached to the office of war mobilization and reconversion until last month, when he was transferred to supreme allied headquarters.

The announcement said that United States army, navy, and air forces had perfected over a period of many months and in coördination with the British, Russians, and French a "program to impose a stern military government over all of Germany and to carry out the policies agreed upon at Yalta." It did not, however, officially define the area of American occupation.

[The American occupation area was published in The Chicago Tribune Thursday.]

The creation of the intelligence section was a sample of this decision for stern control.

All Responsible to Clay

Each of the 12 divisions will share responsibility in purging all public agencies and industries of Nazis, but the over-all intelligence section, "answerable directly to Gen. Clay, will maintain general supervision over the entire denazification program," the department said. Then it added:

"This intelligence section will also maintain surveillance over all German agencies and provide assurance that activities by Nazi underground, 'werewolves,' and the like will be ruthlessly suppressed."

Also directly under Clay will be two other sections, public information, and public relations. The former section, said the department, "will control all forms of public expression in Germany, including newspapers, radio, magazines, and other publications and motion pictures." It likewise "will deal with the dissolution of the propaganda ministry of the notorious Goebbels and the establishment of an unbiased and truthful press and radio system."

Foreign Publications Banned

OWI Director Elmer Davis yesterday announced that all foreign publications, films, and business enterprises will be banned from Germany.

Public relations will be concerned with issuing announcements, accreditation of correspondents, and press censorship. Regarding the latter, the department said:

"Censorship in the American zone will be solely on the basis of military security."

A reparations, deliveries, and restitution division will supervise carrying out in the American zone policies agreed upon in the control council dealing with activities "suggested by its title," said the department.

"Tremendous tasks lie ahead of the economic division, which will deal with such problems as food, agriculture, and forestry, fuel, and mining, price control and rationing," the department said.

Nazis to Feed Selves

"This division will see to it that the Germans are forced to exert all efforts to feed themselves, and also to ensure that the liberated united nations are given first consideration on essential commodities."

An internal affairs and communications division will include among other duties supervision of public safety and control of civil police forces. This unit, said the announcement, "will concern itself with elimination of the dreaded secret police."

Other divisions will include:

POLITICAL—Dealing with foreign affairs, domestic political matters, protection of American interests in Germany, and reporting political intelligence.

TRANSPORT—Regulation of traffic movements, supervision of rail, highway, and inland water transportation and port and coastal operations.

Problem of Repatriation

PRISONERS OF WAR AND DISPLACED PERSONS—"Millions of citizens of the united nations have been held prisoner in Germany" and these must be cared for and repatriated speedily.

MAN POWER—Charged with dissolving the "notorious nazi labor front and laying the groundwork for the normal growth of democratic labor organizations and practices."

LEGAL—Jurisdiction over prosecution of war criminals and the exercise of "proper control over allied military courts, German ordinary and military courts, and prisons."

2,500 Yanks to Start Home; How the Point System Works

Discharges Today

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—The first of 1,300,000 soldiers to be released from the army within a year under the new point rating plan will leave for home tomorrow.

The war department said today that about 2,500 men—long time veterans of the fighting on all fronts—will be handed their discharge papers during the day, little more than 48 hours after the point rating system was made public.

The men are among an estimated 216,000 troops eligible for discharge who are now in the United States under the rotation system for rest and recuperation.

All High Point Men

All of the 2,500, the war department said, have high point scores for length of service, overseas duty, combat and parenthood. A minimum of 85 points is necessary for discharge.

The 17 separation centers at which the men will be released are scattered thruout the nation. The men are sent when possible to the ones nearest their homes for discharge. Five additional centers soon will be placed in operation.

The war department, meanwhile, reported that a survey shows approximately 70 per cent of the men in the army probably will work for employers after the war; about 8 per cent plan to attend school on a full time basis, and another 13 per cent expect to be self-employed after their discharge.

Expect to Resume Jobs

On the basis of the survey, about 2,500,000 men expect to go back to their pre-war jobs. This means, the department said, that they are expected to exercise their rights to their old positions under the selective service act.

Shipped by Groups

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—The army today emphasized its demobilization by the point system is operated on the basis of individuals rather than units.

Men destined for discharge, however, will come back to the United States in units rather than as individual soldiers who merely climb onto the first available boat.

The way the system will work out can be given in the example of divisions.

Assume that there are four divisions. Military plans call for the retention of a force equal to three divisions in a certain area of Europe or their immediate transfer to the orient.

Men Are Reshuffled.

But scattered thru those four units are a number of men—perhaps equaling the 15,000 strength of a full division—who have the required 85 points needed for discharge.

The personnel of the four divisions is shuffled. Into one division go all the men with the high score points. Into the other three divisions go those who will continue for a while in the army. The first division is embarked for the United States, where the men pass thru the demobilization procedure here and leave the army.

How Plan Will Work

The substance of this is:

If a GI with a score of 85 is in the umpty-ump division and word is passed along that his division is going to remain with the occupation army or go to the Pacific it doesn't mean that he is fated to remain with it. He will be transferred to a division being reconstituted for return to the United States.

AFRICA-EUROPE GIs EXEMPTED FROM JAP WAR

Japanese tactics, equipment, and uniforms.

Drilling in both France and Germany, these troops will be under an experienced battle general already in the theater whose name cannot be revealed.

He is expected to have the assistance of a number of Gen. MacArthur's junior officers from the Pacific theater. Japanese equipment also will be brought here.

"We've seen here what the application of overwhelming force did in defeating Germany in a short time," said Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy military governor of the United States group control council.

"Now we face the problem of applying overwhelming force to bring war against Japan to a quick end."

That, he added, was the reason the Pacific war came first in the whole vast redeployment program.

12 Months' Redeployment

This program, which also must deal with redeployment for the occupation of Germany and the return home of troops released thru the point system, will take probably the next 12 months.

"The maximum troop lift coming over here was 210,000 by water to England in any one month," Eyster said, "and we expect to exceed that in shipments by water out of France."

But it was pointed out that it is 14,500 miles from here to Manila—two months by convoy—and there are the further delays for retraining, staging, furloughs, and reequipping.

[Gen. Eyster likened the troop transfer from the European theater to the Pacific to moving the whole population of Chicago to the Philippines.]

Mediterranean Shift

Allied headquarters in Rome estimated that possibly 11,000 American soldiers would be returned from the Mediterranean theater this month. If shipping facilities are adequate, 15,000 more will follow in June and at least the same number in July. At least 2,000 United States 5th army troops with at least 15 months overseas, two years in the army and some combat experience already have been selected.

American troops thruout the European theater under Gen. Eisenhower's command checked their adjusted service rating forms today. Communications zone headquarters said the army would be able to announce the final score necessary for discharge within 45 days.

Under present plans, the vicinity of Reims will be the main staging area for the flow of troops out of France.

44 Score for WACs

WACs in the European theater with a score of 44 will be returned to the United States as soon as the theater quota of 10,800 is filled and adequate replacements are available, communications zone headquarters said.

There are 8,000 WACs in the theater now who will be considered essential until they can be replaced. Wacs whose soldier husbands have been returned to the United States for discharge will be able to apply for immediate release, however.

REDS FREE 6,000 YANKEE FLYERS AT BALTIC CAMP

LUNEBURG, Germany, May 11 (AP)—Six thousand American flyers have been liberated by the Russians at Barth on the Baltic, where the fleeing Germans left their prison camp in charge of the Missoula, Mont., ace, Col. Hubert C. Zemke. Besides the Americans 300 royal air force flyers were liberated.

Col. Hubert C. Zemke.

Zemke was commander of the top scoring 56th Thunderbolt group. He had gone on a mission to Hamburg and was shot down a mile inside the German lines on Oct. 30, 1944. He had been credited with destroying 28 German planes and was known as the "fightingest" American pilot commander in Europe. Two weeks ago a German officer approached him and said:

"We are all leaving. The Russians are coming. The camp is in your hands."

Among the prisoners arriving from Barth today were Sgt. Ben Hill, Sturgis, Mich., and Sgt. Henry W. Abelmann, 6247 Kenmore av., Chicago.

GERMANY KNEW IT COULDN'T WIN, SAYS GENERAL

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, May 11 (AP)—Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst surrendered to the 42d division yesterday, declaring Germany had "fought the most insane war in history" and was "thru as a world power."

Gen. Von Falkenhorst.

The general, who was commander of German forces in Norway until last December, adopted a line of many another German officer, captured or surrendered, venting his wrath on Hitler and the Nazi party.

"Germany is thru now as a world power, and you need never fear she will rise again to wage another war," he told Maj. Gen. Harry Collins, division commander.

"Never at any time could Germany have beaten the United States. The army knew it."

Two Midwest Soldiers Guard Liner Europa

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, May 11 (AP)—The 60,000 ton liner Europa, which has been moored here during the war, was under guard today of Sgt. Richard Ramer, Rockford, Ill., Pvt. Stanley Martin, Ironwood, Mich., and 20 navy men.

GERMANY WON'T START 3D WAR, SAYS GOERING

destroying all factories connected with the manufacturing of airplanes and component parts," he asserted.

The raids against Coventry were carried out because "I had definite news that there were at least three important plants in that town manufacturing parts for airplanes; therefore we had to bomb it. The raid against Canterbury was carried out as retaliation for a British raid on some German university town—I don't remember which," said Goering, nervously pulling at his dove gray gloves.

All that was left of his fancy medals were long rows of eyelets criss-crossing the left side of his chest, which he tapped occasionally as if wanting to feel them. Blood red shoes provided a touch of color for the field marshal who formerly was so deeply concerned with sartorial matters.

Goering asserted that no invasion of England was attempted by the Germans during the war because they failed to obtain air superiority and because they never had enough shipping to attempt it. "As the war went on," he said, "my basis of operations shrank, and that handicapped us, too."

Puts Blame on Hitler

In the old days Goering referred to himself as the "most loyal paladin of the fuehrer," but this time he tried to throw as much responsibility on Hitler as possible.

"We tried to reason with the fuehrer for a negotiated peace, but he had become very abrupt in his dealings with others. He reacted negatively to any suggestions of a compromise, and finally it was forbidden to mention the subject."

But after April 22 Hitler finally realized the war was lost. Generals Keitel and Jodl, Propaganda Minister Goebbels, and Martin Bormann convinced Hitler there was no sense in fighting on, said Goering, and he decided to "seek death in Berlin."

Goering heard one version, according to which Hitler suffered a hemorrhage of the brain. According to the other, he shot himself. "I am certain," he said, "Hitler was dead a while before his death was announced, because they wanted to remove his body out of reach of the Russians."

Bormann Named Doenitz

Goering believes Adm. Doenitz was appointed fuehrer not by Hitler, but by Bormann, who was the successor of Rudolph Hess in charge of the Nazi party.

"Because Bormann was around him every day," the marshal said, "he attended to much of the business which Hitler could not handle because of his illness." He said Bormann came to great power and blamed him for much of the terroristic policy of Germany.

Goering's final conflict with Hitler came April 22, when he telephoned Hitler suggesting that he, as Hitler's heir, should start surrender negotiations. Three hours later schutzstaffel [SS] men arrested Goering, his staff, and his family, and carted them to a small village. The next day Goering was informed that he had been sentenced to death, but that he "was spared because of his service to the party."

Goering insisted that he warned Hitler not to declare war on Russia. "I showed 'Mein Kampf' to Hitler, reminding him of passages in which he said Germany must never fight a two front war," he said.

He denied abandoning the battle of England because he felt the battle was helpless. "We stopped bombing England," he said, "because I had to throw the whole of my air force against the Russians."

Makes Plea for People

Goering tried to plead for the German people.

"I have had only one thought and that was to help my people. They have a right to feel deeply disappointed, and I am deeply grateful to them for the loyalty they have shown me in almost six years of war. The Germans must be able to retain their faith in the future and their own survival, otherwise I foresee a black future, not only for them, but for others."

Activities of the werewolves would, Goering said, "depend greatly on future developments. If the Germans find themselves hungry they may coöperate with those who want a 'werewolf' policy."

GERMANS HAVE ACTED LIKE IDIOTS, FORMER CROWN PRINCE SAYS

LINDAU, Lake Constance, May 11 [Reuters]—Former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm, eldest son of the late kaiser, gave his impressions today of Hitler and of the German people. Captured by French troops at his hunting lodge in Mittelburg, he is now lodged in Lindau.

"The German people have behaved like idiots—I mean been stupid," he said. "First they followed Ebert, then Hindenburg, then Hitler. This war has been madness. I always told papa before 1914 that we ought to have an understanding with France. But fathers don't like taking advice from their sons."

The crown prince appeared pained and surprised at being made prisoner. "Fancy having men with tommy guns at my door!" he said. "All I was interested in was hunting and a quiet life where peasants live happily with five or six cows. I have kept away from the war."

LEOPOLD PACKS IN AUSTRIA TO GO BACK TO THRONE

STROBL, Austria, May 11 (AP)—King Leopold III. of Belgium packed his belongings today preparatory to returning to his homeland under conditions not yet disclosed. It was certain, however, that Leopold had rejected any demands for immediate abdication that may have been presented.

He has held long conferences with Paul Henri Spaak, deputy premier and foreign minister, who flew here yesterday from Belgium to outline the Belgian political situation.

BAVARIANS ONLY ONES TO REBEL AGAINST HITLER

Action Group Tried to Seize Munich

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Germany, May 11—The only uprising against Hitler of which accurate details are available to date was attempted by "Freedom Action, Bavaria" [Bavarian freedom movement] on April 27, when it seized radio stations and sought to compel Gen. Ritter von Epp to surrender to the allies. The general, who had promised coöperation with the anti-Nazis, got scared at the crucial moment, the attempt failed, and Bavaria was freed from Nazi rule by Americans two days later.

But Freedom Action, Bavaria, continued its work. Despite threats and anonymous letters from the werewolves, its members, headed by a 30 year old lawyer, Dr. Rupprecht Gerngross, are trying to organize a big movement to "help restore mutual confidence among Germans and to facilitate coöperation with the occupation forces."

Cardinal Coöperates

The group's spokesman, Dr. Walter Puchwein—a former army interpreter—told THE TRIBUNE that Cardinal Michael Faulhaber, who enjoys great prestige in Germany because of his resistance to the Nazis, promised to coöperate with Freedom Action. The Catholic and Socialist labor unions also were contacted by Gerngross.

The movement started on a small scale in 1941 when Gerngross returned to Munich from the Russian front where he was severely wounded. He was convinced that Germany could not win the war and when he was placed with the reserves he sought anti-Nazis in the army. He found them in "the interpreter's command of the 7th military district of Germany," which is Bavaria. The interpreter was in direct touch with the 7th command staff headed by Hitler's friend, Gen. Kriebel.

General Disappears

Younger officers succeeded in winning Kriebel to their side a year ago, but the Nazis grew distrustful of the general, who disappeared into a sanatorium and has not been seen since.

When the young officers saw city after city in Germany destroyed by our air forces they decided it was time to act to save Munich. Soldiers of two infantry battalions and a tank destroyer battalion rallied their friends the night of April 27. A small group seized the army's radio station at Starnberg and destroyed it. Other shocks troops destroyed the transmission center at Pullach in the Isar valley. Another group tried to raid government buildings in Munich, but met a barrage of hand grenades and lost about 40 men.

Nevertheless, the insurrectionists occupied two newspaper offices and radio stations Freiman and Erding. They abandoned Freiman when SS [elite] troops turned out in force, but operated the Erding station. Gerngross went to Gen. von Epp and appealed to him to offer to surrender and to issue an order to cease fire, but at the last moment Von Epp refused.

Hunt Nazi Officials

Thruout Bavaria the friends of Freedom Action obeyed the order to "hunt pheasants"—the golden pheasant being the Bavarians' nickname for the Nazi power holders in their gold braided uniforms. One of those seized was Christian Weber, one time horse dealer whom Hitler showered with titles and honors because of his talent for organizing gaudy parties. He was chased ignominiously thru the villages of the Freising region but escaped when the Bavarian action movement gave up the struggle Saturday morning, two days before the Americans entered Munich.

Freedom Action is organizing for "constructive coöperation" among the southern states of Germany. Its members are seeking to bring about a closer union of Bavaria, Wuerttemberg, and Austria, and assert that they are "anti-Prussian." They sidestepped the issue when asked whether this meant that they were working for the establishment of a predominantly Catholic association of German states, including Austria.

KELLY TO SEEK EARLY START ON PLANE TERMINAL

Asserts Rise of Aviation Demands Quick Action

Sensational progress in commercial airplane operations is coming soon and Chicago at once must see that adequate facilities for the new era are built if the city aspires to be the world aviation center, Mayor Kelly said yesterday.

As a first step, he said, he would immediately press for priorities on materials and man power to build at the airport a suitable terminal to cost from $550,000 to $600,000. Such a building, he added, would greatly increase the number of planes that can use the mile square field.

"I have just returned from New York," the mayor said. "While there I had luncheon with officials of Pan-American World air lines. They had the blueprints for a plane that could carry 120 passengers from Chicago to London in 10 hours.

Ready to Fly Within 90 Days

"These gentlemen assured me the planes could be built and be ready to go into service in 90 days after the government gives them the green light. They also said such planes could land and take off on the present field at 63d st. and Cicero av. With a suitable terminal we can be all set for this great international line."

The lines using the airport now have entered into a contract under which the city would build the terminal, 1,500 feet long, and would be reimbursed by rents and fees paid by the companies.

Public Works Commissioner Hewitt gave in detail some of the things a modern terminal would accomplish. The long runways, he said, could accommodate several times the 234 in and out movements of planes now possible. The greatest number of plane movements in one hour now is 17, he said, and with a wholly adequate terminal more than 100 could be handled in good weather.

Adequate for Present Planes

The longest landing strips are about 7,000 feet, of which the government rates 6,000 as usable. Aviation experts have many but vague notions of future requirements in runway lengths, Hewitt said. He asserted the present field can care for any planes now flying.

"We are not claiming that only one field will be required, but plans for more are being kept in a flexible state," Hewitt said. "The voters are to be asked to authorize a 15 million dollar bond issue on June 4, the proceeds to be used for some additional port when it is needed. There is always the possibility we can get federal funds which can be matched by the bond money."

Other Sites Recommended

The Chicago Regional Planning commission, of which Robert Kingery is director, has recommended several sites for more ports, the most promising being the army field adjoining the Douglas plant at Park Ridge. The army's post-war plans for this field have not been divulged.

Kingery said the Illinois-Michigan canal highway, if built, would cut 10 minutes from the motor running time from the loop to the airport. Hewitt said the present trip takes about 31 minutes. On top of this the air lines give loop originating passengers nearly 20 minutes for weighing in and taking their seats at the port.

The loop-Douglas trip, Kingery estimated, now requires 55 minutes' driving time, but this will be cut to 30 minutes if a northwest superhighway is constructed.

STUDENTS TOLD FREEDOM WILL OPEN NEW WORLD

If government regulation of business is kept to a reasonable minimum and the enormous creative energy of America is utilized thru a free, competitive economic system, science and industry will build a marvelous post-war world in which phones will answer themselves and take messages, tires will run 100,000 miles, women will be freed from the drudgery of sweeping and dusting, and a man can carry on his person a communications device which will enable him to take directions from his wife all day long.

This prediction was included in a talk which Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, pastor of the Marble Collegiate church, New York City, gave before the Executives' club in Hotel Sherman yesterday.

The Executives' club was host to 98 outstanding students of Chicago high schools and junior colleges who had been chosen on the basis of character, leadership, scholastic record, and participation in student activities.

This was the 19th central civic assembly and marked a climax in the celebration of Youth week.

George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent of schools, announced awards of college scholarships to eight of the students.

DENOUNCES BAN ON PRESS, TRADE IN GERMAN ZONE

Assailed by Gov. Green

East St. Louis, Ill., May 11 [Special]—Gov. Green in an interview today assailed the OWI ban on the distribution of American newspapers, magazines, books, and films in even that portion of Germany occupied by our armies. "One of the fundamental principles of our Constitution is the right to free speech and to a free press," he said. "We have been fighting to extend that right to peoples thruout the world. It seems to me that the enforcement of the OWI ban is violative of that fundamental principle."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 11—Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.] today denounced what he termed "the joker" in the OWI directive to ban all American newspapers, magazines, and books from Germany.

Shafer called attention to the restrictions against American business in Germany announced along with the banning of the American press in that country.

"Here again is the New Deal tactic of concealing one evil under another," Shafer said. "The ban against the American press and the reversion to the controled press of Hitlerite Germany is most reprehensible.

"Equally bad is the decision to bar American business, a move which will deprive American investors of hundreds of millions of dollars in income.

Investments of Widows

"What is to become of such American enterprises in Germany as International Harvester, General Motors, and American Cyanamid? What about insurance companies who have invested millions of dollars belonging to widows and orphans in foreign enterprises?

"Who is this Elmer Davis, who commentator, who was brought to the New Deal in a deliberate campaign to suppress the press and, I assume, other free enterprise."

"More Than Coincidence"

Shafer said it is more than a coincidence that the plan to stifle American capitalism was announced at the same time the treasury department is seeking to fasten the Bretton Woods monetary plan on the country.

"Under this plan," he said, "the United States would be out voted 43 to 1 among the participating nations and 11 to 1 on the executive board. By such votes it could be decided that our contribution could be wiped out because we are not contributing enough to foreign countries.

"This is fantastic finance. Under Bretton Woods the government would compel American investors thru employment of tax money to invest more money to protect investments. Under the OWI program American investors would not be permitted to invest their own funds in foreign investments.

"There is only one answer to this. Davis and Bretton Woods must both go. Maybe sanity will return."

Fined $200

Bert K. Naster (right) with his attorney, George Crane, in the county building yesterday.

Bert K. Naster, 46, who recently drew a fine of $100 for knocking down a wounded paratrooper in the Drake hotel, yesterday drew an additional fine of $200 for violation of a fire prevention ordinance. The first fine was levied on Naster by Municipal Judge Frances Borrelli; yesterday's by Municipal Judge Erwin J. Hasten.

Naster, husky head of the Superior Electric company, 1255-59 S. Campbell av., lives in the Belden Stratford hotel. He had been charged with five fire prevention violations and at first demanded a jury trial, but after waiting some time for the court to finish its call of other cases and a conference with his attorney, George Crane, he waived a jury.

After his client was fined on the one charge, Atty. Crane, assuring the court that conditions had been rectified at the electrical plant, won a continuance on the other charges until May 23.

U-BOATS WARNED TO GIVE UP OR BE DESTROYED

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—While reporting that some German submarines already are carrying out surrender instructions, a naval spokesman warned today that any U-boat that does not comply with instructions and indicates hostile action will be destroyed.

"Instructions have been sent out telling them what to do," he said. "They are to surface, remain surfaced, fly the surrender flag, and report their position.

"Some have reported, and some have already made contact with escorts sent out by the British and United States navies."

Those in the western Atlantic, he said, are expected to come to American ports.

CIO Begs U.S.: Call Army Out of Ward's or Obey WLB

Undersecretary of War Patterson was importuned yesterday in a letter sent by Irving Abramson, national director of the Montgomery Ward organizing committee of the CIO, either to enforce war labor board directives or call the army out of Ward properties.

Abramson's letter characterized army control of Ward facilities as "military shackles" and asserted that the control had reacted to the disadvantage of the workers, whom it was intended to help, and had benefited the company management.

"Miscarriage of Justice"

It struck at the helplessness of New Deal bureaus to enforce, thru the army or otherwise, the government's own directives and said that the workers' attitude had grown "bitter, restless, and determined to end this miscarriage of justice."

The letter recalled to Patterson a conference between Abramson and Patterson in Washington, D. C., at which the two went from one government agency to another.

"Each [agency] in its own way assured us of its appreciation of our problem while it professed utter governmental impotence to enforce its own [the government's] order," the letter stated.

The letter said Abramson tried to explain to union delegates the multitudinous reasons tendered him in Washington as to why the army was powerless to enforce the directives or wage increases, back pay, and maintenance of membership. The result, the letter said, was unpleasant.

Abramson contended the union has "coöperated in every possible way" with the army in maintaining labor stability. "The company has made more profits under army operation than it has been able to make without it," he said.

In the instances where facilities have been restored to the company, with the army maintaining only a "token possession," the situation is even worse, the CIO leader asserted.

Union "Stripped of Power"

"Where this has occurred," Abramson said, "the workers have been divided and compelled to work under different conditions in plants supposedly under army seizure. The union in this case has not only been deprived of the benefits of the directives but has been stripped of its power to do anything about it."

The union leader asserted that a ruling Jan. 27 by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, holding the army seizure illegal, was meaningless as far as the workers were concerned. All that happened was that the army kept things in status quo. The Ward plants were seized by Presidential directive Dec. 28, 1944.

MARTHA LANDS IN ENGLAND ON WAY TO NORWAY

Washington, D. C., May 11 [Special]—Crown Princess Martha of Norway, a Washingtonian for the last three and a half years, arrived in England yesterday en route to her liberated land, it was announced today by the Norwegian embassy.

The day before she left Washington, V-E day, Martha called on President Truman and thanked him for the hospitality she and her children had enjoyed in the United States during the German occupation of Norway.

The White House was a familiar place to her. She and her three children had been counted in as part of the family party on President Roosevelt's fourth inauguration day and she came along to the Roosevelt funeral services. She had also frequently visited the Roosevelts at Hyde Park. It had been at President Roosevelt's invitation that she had come to live in this country.

Her three children, the Princess Ragnhild and Astrid and Prince Harald, will remain here temporarily.

A PROGRAM OF TAX CUTS

Sen. George, chairman of the senate finance committee, told newspaper men the other day that work was being started at once on post-war tax legislation. "We can't hope for the restoration of peace time business unless we have the courage to revise the tax laws," he said. He was led to take the step by the discovery that many business concerns were hesitating between retrenchment and expansion, not knowing how much of post-war profits, if earned, was to be taken by the government.

It is well that action is being started, tardy tho it is. As long ago as Feb. 15, 1944, Bernard Baruch and John Hancock sent to the White House the report on "War and Post-war Readjustments," which James F. Byrnes, then OWM director, asked them to prepare. The report, which was widely acclaimed, urged that the post-war tax law be immediately enacted, to be effective at the end of the wars. "Until it is definitely known that post-war taxes are to be reduced, the launching of new enterprises and the expansion of existing ones will be deferred," Baruch said. Now one war is already over, and a bill hasn't yet been drawn.

Of course, the first step is to determine how much money is to be raised. In these columns, on May 7, we pointed out that the necessary total expenditures of the government after the war would not exceed 15 billion dollars. This would give the army and navy four times as much as they got after the last war, and meet the nation's obligations to our war veterans. It would not, however, allow anything for priming the pump, social experimentation, or grants to states made on the theory that money comes easy to the federal government.

All of the outgo must be obtained by taxation. In 10 years of depression and four years of war we have run the debt from 15 billions toward 300 billions. The government owes a debt which may not be much less than the total wealth of the country. The annual interest charge is equal to the total income of every one in the United States earning over $20,000 a year. More debt cannot be added without endangering the nation's solvency.

The 15 billion dollars for necessary expenditures can be raised by taxation if the country is prosperous. Such a sum would be impossible in a depression, such as was experienced in the '30s.

While the amount that can be obtained by taxation is determined by the state of our national economic well-being, the latter in turn is largely determined by the nature of the taxes that are imposed. Some taxes, by their very nature, prevent high employment and production, which are the essence of prosperity. Increasing such taxes reduces the collections. The Baruch report to the White House in 1944 stated that as follows: "Lower rates, which stimulate a high volume of business and a high national income, will yield greater total receipts than would high rates, which depress business volume, employment, and income."

During the '30s we had precisely the kind of taxes which prolonged depression. They were levied frankly to bring about a redistribution of wealth and income. Whether they brought this about is open to question. But one thing we know the taxes did: They halted industrial growth. For the first time in our history there was a decade of interrupted progress and stagnation. A group of experts representing every shade of economic thinking and including several New Dealers made a report to the committee on economic development last year in which the conclusion was reached that "if the deliberate aim were to hold down peace time employment, our present tax system would go far to accomplish it."

THE TRIBUNE proposes that all taxes which hold down peace time employment be repealed, or reduced as far as possible. At present the tax rate on the profits of corporations runs up to 95 per cent, with a provision that no company shall pay more than 80 per cent of its total income. The normal rate on companies not subject to the excess profits tax is 40 per cent. Before the war that rate was 18 per cent. The pre-war rate should be restored.

On the assumption that high business activity will result, the tax will yield about 2 billion dollars. There are good grounds for eliminating the corporation tax entirely, because it is a levy on earnings which are taxed again when disbursed as dividends, but the excess profits tax, which constitutes the largest part of the revenue from corporations, should go first of all. It was justified only as a war measure. It encourages wasteful expenditures and inefficiency. It makes tax avoidance the principal goal of management. It discriminates against new and growing enterprises and is unequal in its application to two concerns making the same product and with the same volume which happen to have different tax bases.

Individual tax rates, which at present go to a maximum of 94 per cent on upper incomes, should be cut to a maximum of 50 per cent. It is impossible for persons subject to the present rates to take any risks. It is the people in the upper income brackets who, in the past, have supplied the venture capital for untried businesses. When these people were able to perform this necessary function there has been prosperity in this country, and when they have been prevented from doing so we have had depression. The loss of revenue by the government with a top rate of 50 per cent, instead of 94 per cent, would have been 250 million dollars in 1942, the last year for which figures are available. Instead of a loss there would probably have been a gain, since the persons affected would have made investments on which a return would have been received, half of which would have gone to the government.

Income taxes in the high brackets should be reduced as part of a general reduction. The total revenue of the government was 45 billion in the last fiscal year. Of this amount, taxes other than income and employment taxes yielded 5¼ billion dollars. If these are retained and corporations paid 2 billions, with an additional half billion from customs, there would remain 7¼ billions to be raised by the individual income tax, which produced over 18 billion dollars last year. A 50 per cent cut in all income taxes would leave 9 billion dollars, which is more than enough to make up the needed 15 billions.

Such a budget provides nothing for reducing the principal of the debt. We would use the surplus each year for this purpose. If expenditures are held at the 15 billion dollar mark, taxes would more than balance the budget. The debt could be reduced further by the prompt sale of war equipment and of the hydro-electric projects, in which investments of hundreds of millions of dollars have been made by the government.

The reconversion of the government from war to peace is the first step in getting the country back to a peace footing. It will be much more difficult than was the conversion from peace to war. It is always hard to economize. It is terrifically important, if only because jobs for returning soldiers are at stake. There should be no delay in tackling it.

AN INFAMOUS PROPOSAL

Elmer Davis, head of the office of war information, has announced that American newspapers, books, and magazines are to be kept from the German people for the indefinite future. The only newspapers which Germans will be permitted to buy will be those published by the OWI. There will be seven of them at the start and, eventually, twenty. About a thousand Americans will be employed in getting out these newspapers, of whom perhaps 250 will be OWI payrollers and the rest military men.

This is all but incredible and the excuse by which it is justified explains nothing. Mr. Davis says that "Germany is a sick man" who "can have only what the doctors prescribe." The doctors, to borrow his figure of speech, are to be, besides the OWI, the psychological warfare command at allied headquarters, the office of strategic services, the British foreign office, our state department, and their Russian counterparts.

Mr. Davis' explanation is childish. Germany isn't a man, but a nation of some 70,000,000 diverse people, but if they were all of the same age, sex, social position, and education, and if the minds of all of them were filled to the same extent with the same dangerous obsessions, Mr. Davis' collection of quacks and placemen would not effect a cure in ten thousand years.

The program for Germany, viewed together with the latest revision of the censorship regulations governing the American press, invites the conclusion that our burocracy is engaged in an experiment looking toward the destruction of the free press in this country. Men who really believe in the value of a free press, as the authors of our Constitution did, do not qualify their belief with weasel reservations. If Americans tolerate action by their government denying freedom of expression to people in one place, these justifications can be stretched to cover other places, not excepting America.

Hitler committed a great crime against the German nation when he put the press in chains. The remedy is to break the chains, not to forge new ones. Mr. Davis' actions in this matter, if in no other, mark him as an evil man and his OWI as an evil institution, without a parallel for infamy in the history of our country.

MR. STETTINIUS HIRES SOME PRESS AGENTS

Glenn Griswold, who edits a little news letter for the press agent trade, reports that "the biggest educational propaganda campaign in history" has been undertaken by the administration to sell the Bretton Woods confidence game and Dumbarton Oaks to the people of the United States. American taxpayers are not only supposed to put up our gold for foreign paper money under the Bretton Woods plan, they're already paying press agents to suck us in on the racket.

"The precedent breaking step of hiring public relations counsel for the state department was just a beginning," reports Mr. Griswold. "The new consultants, Lee and Losh of Los Angeles, were promised a sideline seat in all, but the most sacred of policy making meetings and were told, initially at least, they were to serve the department just as they would a private client."

The promoters, taking a leaf from the Commy book of tactics, have organized a series of fellow traveler outfits to supply synthetic sentiment on behalf of the state department program. The local outfit calls itself Build for Peace.

On the floor of the senate, Sen. Taft charged that these activities are a direct violation of federal criminal statutes. There is no doubt, he asserted, that the propaganda campaign is designed to influence congressmen to vote for Bretton Woods, Dumbarton Oaks and the reciprocal trade agreements. He pointed out that under a 1919 statute, any one who uses an appropriation to an executive department to pay for any service designed to influence votes in congress is liable to a $500 fine and a year in jail.

The greater crime is against the American people. The New Dealers are not content to let the people of America weigh their program on its merits. By their propaganda campaign, paid for by the taxpayers, they are ballyhooing their schemes with high pressure methods that would make even the proprietor of a fake cancer cure blush.

12th May—Worked on V-E days 1 and 2 as usual, and felt no desire to tear up the telephone directory or join a snake dance of bobby sock girls and boys. Did not go into the loop, where there was some milling around of the populace, chiefly at street corners where photographs were being taken. On my own route for both days, things seemed like a quiet Sunday in Lent.

Understand that people who had to find meals downtown on the day of official victory proclamations were often out of luck, because supplies were eaten up at the lunch hour and most of the restaurants were closed at dinner time. I outguessed this state of affairs by telephoning my club to verify my suspicion that dinner had been canceled, without notice to steady boarders. So went home instead of consorting with my cronies, and dined heartily on the fag ends of stuff that butchers call meat nowadays. Opened a small bottle of wine to make it festive.

Will now drop my studies of the geography, history, and folklore of Germany and turn to similar aspects of Japan. Do not expect to make much progress, however, for thus far in my dabbling I have found that human ant heap a wearisome subject. Perhaps the mysterious soul of the far east is beyond my grasp, for whenever I go farther than "The Mikado," by Gilbert and Sullivan, I am lost in a yellow fog of boredom. If the Japs are smart, as alleged, they will surrender before I can say "Bushido," and such is my devout hope.

SOLDIER TO MOTHER

Yours is the silent courage of the mind
That watches thru the endless hours alone;
A bravery that waits, a different kind
Than that of flaming beach or mission flown.

Yours not the comfort of bright blade in hand
Nor rifle stock tight gripped in sweaty palm;
Yours is a valor born of no command,
A gallantry displayed in studied calm.

Monsieur Inspects a General

[Memoirs of a Yank in Alsace.]

One afternoon we dropped in at the Ehrmanns and found Monsieur and Jean-Claude just returned from watching an American general inspect his troops in the square. Jean-Claude's eyes were still dancing to the tune of martial music, and he enthusiastically told his mother that the Americans didn't play oompah-oompah-oomp, like the Germans; they played dance music. After a bottle of wine had materialized from thin air and a plateful of cookies had been rushed from the kitchen, Monsieur settled back and looked at us quizzically.

"Is it usual for a general to come around and inspect the troops?" he inquired. We assured him that while it was not an everyday affair, it did happen.

"And does he always look at every one's rifle?" he asked. With the memories of a general's inspection in the days of basic training behind us, we answered that he did.

Monsieur was thoughtful for a moment, his mind turning back to his term in the French army, prior to the war. "When I was in the army," he said, "we were always inspected by a sergeant—a sergeant who barked comme un chien at the least speck of dirt or dust. But a general? Never!"

We were pleased to note that sergeants were sergeants, even in the French army, but were surprised that he'd never had to spend a week preparing for a general's once-over. Monsieur was just as surprised at us, however, and muttered, "Un général! Un général!" as if he couldn't get used to the idea. "And he inspects every fusil?" Yes, we said, he looks at every one.

Monsieur considered this a little longer; then his puzzled frown relaxed and he grinned. He had apparently solved the oddities of the U. S. army. "I see," he said, eyes twinkling, "the general inspects the rifles, while the colonel inspects the potato peelers—and the sergeant goes out and fights the war!"

It is a statement which has been whirling around in my mind ever since. Pvt. Cholly

FOR WAR TIME MOTHERS

We thought, when this was just a peaceful land,
That if we honored mothers once a year
And told them all how good they were, how dear,
Then for the rest, well, they would understand.
That was before the swiftly running sand
Brought bursting bombs, and bugles ringing clear
Called all our sons, and mothers heard with fear
Brave music of a regimental band.
But since December seven, 'forty-one,
Instead of coming once a year, in May,
Our tribute to her love is never done
And every day, in truth, is Mother's day—
To know our love, with every rising sun,
To sacrifice, and look to God, and pray.

P. M. Z. asks: "What was the maximum amount of the World War I. bonus paid by the federal government and the state of Illinois?"

The United States paid a maximum bonus [adjusted compensation] of $500 to men who did not serve overseas and $625 to those who did. The state of Illinois paid a maximum of $300. The government bonus was computed at the rate of $1 a day for domestic service and $1.25 for foreign service. The state rate was 50 cents a day.

A. M. F. writes: "A soldier returned from the South Pacific and hospitalized was allowed to go home on a 15-day furlough. Four days after arrival at home he became ill and a physician ordered him into a private hospital, where it was found he was suffering from malaria. The army hospital commander was notified and he ordered the soldier to return to the government hospital when able to travel. Will the government pay the doctor and hospital bill?"

When soldiers are on furlough and there is an acute emergency requiring hospitalization and medical care, the government will pay the bill if no governmeht hospitalization is available. It also must be shown that travel back to the government hospital would have been dangerous for the soldier.

NERVOUS TENSION AND PHYSICAL DISTRESS

IT HAS been said that sickness affects the person and the person affects the sickness. To most of us, this is a logical statement. Disease certainly reduces the efficiency of the body and the victim's mental attitude may influence the progress of the malady. Physicians and nurses make every effort to encourage a speedy recovery and, in the great majority of cases, are successful.

Occasionally some unsuspected and well camouflaged nervous strain causes the patient to respond in a manner contrary to that which is expected. One of our prominent New York physicians tells of a woman who gave a typical history of peptic ulcer. A plan of treatment was recommended and the sufferer coöperated by adhering to the letter. After a few months, symptoms were essentially the same. This was baffling inasmuch as everything was correct [diet, rest, and medication] and she had followed orders with the greatest of care. Consultation was requested but nothing different could be suggested.

In time, the patient's general condition grew worse. Her husband had to prepare breakfast as she spent every morning in bed. The sight of food became nauseating and appetite was lost completely. Soon she became too weak to get up at all. Hubby had to cook all the meals in addition to doing the marketing and housecleaning. The couple did not invite company any longer because of her condition. The children were neglected and they, too, were changing for the worse because neither parent could give them attention.

Finally, the medical advisor reasoned that something else must be wrong. Ordinarily, a peptic ulcer should not disrupt the household. Besides, the prescriptions which had helped so many others were powerless to heal this lesion. He began to ask her about herself as a person, as a human being trying to get something out of life. At first she was surprised and considered this line of questioning foolish. But it suddenly dawned on her that this was the first time any one had asked her how "she" felt.

After several return visits, the physician finally obtained her complete story. This woman had always been frustrated. She had never been able to do what she wanted. In school, she crammed feverishly and was admired for her intelligence. It was all work and no play. Secretly, she hated this type of existence. She became taut inside, mainly in the stomach. This organ seemed to be knotted up. She lost her zest for eating and weight began to go down.

When she married, these manifestations disappeared. She became a dutiful wife but her husband was a driver and everything at home revolved about his desires. There was no time for the real enjoyments of life. She devoted all her efforts to her husband, children, and the house. The sense of pressure returned and, with it, discomfort in the area of the gastric pouch.

From this it was obvious that the usual treatment would not help. Tension had to be eased. Discussing it with the doctor helped in itself. Some of that pent-up steam was relieved and no longer did her emotions wreak vengeance on the stomach. Both husband and wife were taught to be human beings—not just machines.

'Well,' he said, 'we split a few years ago on one of the fundamental beliefs of my church, and there are two churches now, but I belong to the old fundamental branch.' He was asked, 'What is the difference between the two?' 'Well,' he said, 'the new branch claims that Adam was good when he was created, and that he fell in the Garden of Eden, but my branch takes the position that Adam was a damn rascal from the beginning and did not fall.'"

WASTING TAXES

Chicago, May 8—The proposed fiscal budget for the national OCD has been canceled by President Truman, but this will have no effect upon the Chicago organization, says Mayor Kelly.

As a volunteer block captain from the very beginning I, like many thousands of volunteers, have given many hours of time in OCD activities. I see no reason for the continuation of spending of this sum of the taxpayers' money to maintain swivel chair warmers at OCD headquarters on Wacker dr., or particularly, the division directors thruout the city, who also have been enjoying fancy salaries all during this time while over 200,000 volunteers, workers, community commanders, block captains, air raid wardens, and others have given freely of their time.

Now that the European war is over many community offices have been closed, while others keep open only a few hours in the evening each week, because of the lack of interest of the people.

The few remaining essential activities in OCD can be handled in the evenings, by volunteers. A BLOCK CAPTAIN

ACCELERATING THE CREATION OF SLUMS

Chicago, April 16—Considerable publicity has been given the advocates of public housing. I am of the opinion that something drastic should be done to clear our slums, but are low rents and high taxes not responsible for these dilapidated buildings because the property owner is left no funds to improve them?

There are many brick buildings in the city that could be made attractive by spending a little money to make them available to tenants, instead of having them empty, thus giving public housing advocates an excuse for tearing them down. The proposal to make public housing tax exempt leaves the private property owner to shoulder all the taxes, with even less money for improvements on existing properties.

By increasing public housing are we not creating more slums? With the lower rents the private property owner would have to charge to compete with public housing still more properties are bound to run down at an even faster rate. A VOTER.

Lanham, Md., May 8—With others, I'm a wee bit fed up on the continuous story, including today's, by Winston Churchill in which he talks about Great Britain "fighting alone" against the forces of evil, the totalitarian powers, or some other ambiguous generality. . . . Unless I read current history wrongly, China was in the war two years and two months before Great Britain got into it, and certainly against a force of evil and the totalitarian powers. Free France kept fighting in Africa. The Dutch never surrendered or permitted an armistice, and the Dutch fleet of destroyers, submarines, and cruisers sailed the high seas as part of their war effort all the time England was presumably "fighting alone." It seems to me, too, that the United States gave them 50 destroyers, convoyed a lot of their supplies, fed them, sent them munitions on lend-lease, and otherwise. I can't find a moment when England was doing all and the sole fighting against the totalitarian powers of Japan and Germany. Yet thousands of Americans swallow that canard.

HOTEL MURDER VICTIM NAMED; GIRL GIVES AID

Ex-High School Student Sought as Suspect

The mystery of the slaying of a 16 year old youth in the Stevens hotel early yesterday was partly lifted last night when the victim was identified. He was Morton Stein, 4932 N. Kedzie av. A bobby socks high school girl helped authorities establish identification.

Stein's slayer is still at large. Last night police said that they were searching for his hotel roommate known as Don Edwards, alias Levitus, also 16, a former Senn High school student of 1019 Bryn Mawr av. Up to a late hour no motive had been advanced for the crime.

Stein was stabbed eight times in the chest and head, and bludgeoned with a blackjack in a battle in room 733 of the Stevens, where he and Edwards had registered under assumed names last Sunday. Furniture in the room was broken and overturned.

Body Stuffed in Closet

When the fight ended, the murderer dragged Stein's body across the room and stuffed it into a closet where it was found about 9 a. m. yesterday by Lulu Mae Ray, Negro chambermaid of 5813 Indiana av.

Investigation showed that Stein had registered as Harold Gordon and Edwards as Robert Levitus. They had previously been to New York. For a time police thought that Levitus, as they then knew Edwards, was the victim. Incidentally, at least one other boy has used the alias Levitus, which is the real name of a boy in the navy.

First clews in the cases came when Coroner Brodie, Capt. Thomas Duffy of Central station, and Lt. Phil Breitzke, homicide detail chief, traced 14 telephone calls made from room 733. Two were traced to Miss Shirley Allen, 15, of 5327 Winthrop av., a Senn High school girl.

Girl Identifies Picture

She was questioned at Brodie's office in the presence of her mother, Ada. She promptly identified a picture of the victim as that of Stein, and later tearfully identified his body at the county morgue. Miss Allen said she had visited Stein at the hotel Thursday, but said nothing improper had occurred. She said she called his room at 7:30 p. m., but that Edwards, whom she had met earlier, answered, and "seemed agitated." Edwards, she said, told her Stein was not in.

Within another hour Stein's body was identified by neighborhood friends, including Robert Gayne, 15, of 5449 Magnolia av.; Galvin Costello, 16, of 5547 Winthrop av.; and John Travis, also 16, of 1260 Bryn Mawr av. Next Stein's mother, Cecilia, and his brother, Lester, a discharged wounded soldier, confirmed the identification. The father, Alfred, was notified later.

The family told Coroner Brodie that Stein was "not a bad boy," but had not liked school. Mrs. Stein had written him a letter while he was in New York last month, urging him not to seek an adventurious life. Stein in the Winthrop-Bryn Mawr section was known as "Flash" Gordon and John Bentino. Neighbors said he had once attended the Montifiore school for incorrigibles.

Identify Victim

(Story in adjoining column.)

Miss Shirley Allen, who identified body of slaying victim in Stevens hotel, and admitted visiting youth there.

Robert Gayne (left), who also aided in identification, and picture identified variously as that of Morton Stein, the victim, and as Don Edwards, believed to have been companion of victim.

FARLEY PAUSES HERE ON WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO

James A. Farley, former postmaster general and former chairman of the Democratic national committee, paused in Chicago yesterday while en route to the San Francisco conference. Farley said he will not attend the conference as a politician, but as head of the Coca Cola export division.

"We have done a lot of business in the past in Central and South America and in Europe," Farley explained, "The conference offers an opportunity for me to meet a lot of old friends in those countries and maybe later on we can do business there again."

Farley declined to discuss national politics or to comment on reports that he may become the Democratic nominee for governor in New York state in 1946. He will be joined later by his daughter and will visit in Los Angeles before returning east.

U. S. Judge Shaw Leaves to Assist Newark Court

Federal Judge Elwyn R. Shaw left yesterday for Newark, N. J., to aid the federal judges there in clearing the court docket. He will serve until June 2.

LEADING LADY OF 'OKLAHOMA' SEEKS SUICIDE

New York, May 11 [Special]—As the curtain went up last night on Broadway's hit show, the musical comedy "Oklahoma!", Edna Skinner, 22, the leading lady, was found hanging in her dressing room from a scarf attached to a steam pipe, it was learned today. She had attempted suicide.

Teddy Hammerstein, stage manager at the St. James theater, came in the door just a few seconds after she kicked a chair out from beneath her. He cut the scarf and revived her while the audience was applauding the opening scene.

Miss Skinner, in the role of Ado Annie, was to have gone on stage at 8:50 p. m., twenty minutes after the curtain raising. Understudy Vivien Allen was rushed into the part and the show continued without a hitch.

Friends of Miss Skinner blamed the suicide attempt on a broken romance with a lieutenant commander in the navy and rumors that she was out of favor with some of the persons backing the show. She was expected tonight to return to her role in the show.

HOME, SWEET HOME ISN'T TO BRIDE OF TWO

Portsmouth, O., May 11 [Special]—Mrs. Helen Goad MacDowell, the young wife of two service men, whose war time marital adventures boomeranged recently when No. 1 figuratively came back from the dead, was in the middle here again today between the blistering criticism of her mother-in-law and the fierce protective attitude of her mother.

Hoping to slip into the old home town quietly, Mrs. MacDowell arrived ahead of schedule, having left the Los Angeles Challenger at Geneva and proceeded to Portsmouth by plane.

"Always Liked Her"—But

"Yes, I hear that Helen is home, but she hasn't come to see me," Mrs. Harry Goad, stepmother of her first husband, Lt. Harold W. Goad, an army pilot, asserted. "If she wants to see me she'll have to come here. I'm a sick woman and I'm certainly not going over there.

"I always liked Helen and thought she was a nice girl until she married again so quickly. Lots of people think she is pretty but I always say beauty is only skin deep. It's kindness that counts."

This represented a slight change in attitude from last week, when she told reporters it was her stepson's wish that Helen remarry if anything happened to him.

Helen Has "Headache"

Meantime in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zuhars, the young bride of Ensign Robert MacDowell of Saugerties, N. Y., was said by her mother to have "a headache" and to be "resting."

Lt. Goad, who was listed officially as dead Oct. 31, 1944, a year after his bomber went down in flames near Rangoon, was found very much alive in a Rangoon hospital after 18 months captivity. Ensign MacDowell is now "somewhere in the South Pacific."

"It's romantic, all right, too romantic," Mrs. Zuhars bristled. "I don't know why my daughter's case is being made so public. Harold is certainly not going to like it. He was always a quiet boy and he shunned publicity even when he left here as one of the first pilots to go overseas. If people don't keep their noses out of Helen's business there may be no happy reunion.

She'd "Shoot" Reporters

"If I had been in California with Helen when this happened, no one would have got near her. I would have shot any reporters that tried to talk to her. That's all I'm going to say. Later on if she wants to, Helen can speak for herself."

Earlier in the day that is exactly what Helen did. To reporters who boarded her train in Iowa she avowed her love for her first husband, her high school sweetheart.

"Life must go on," she philosophized. "You never can forget the past and the past always will color the present. I'm sure Mac will understand. I have written him that Hal is my true love. Now I only hope that Hal will realize it."

LT. GOAD RECEIVES WIFE'S NEWS—AND IS HE A 'HAPPY GUY!'

CALCUTTA, May 11 (AP)—Lt. Harold W. Goad says he is "a very happy guy." He has just heard the news. The news is that his wife, who remarried after she believed him dead, wants him to be her husband again.

"The thought of getting back to my wife was the biggest thing that kept me going all the time I was imprisoned," said Goad, who was held for 18 months in a Rangoon jail.

"I am still pretty confused about it all, but there's one thing for sure, and that's that nobody is to blame."

His wife, Helen, of Portsmouth, O., married Ensign Robert A. MacDowell, now on duty in the Pacific, six months after the war department declared Goad dead.

"We'll work it out some way," Goad said today. "I have had only a brief cable [from Mrs. Goad-MacDowell] and that's not very informative. When I get a letter, or better yet when I get home, things will get squared away." The lieutenant expects to be flown home shortly.

COURT LEARNS A DOG IS A DOG UNDER ANY NAME

BY RICHARD JOINER

Spectators in Judge Joseph B Hermes' Grand Crossing court settled back yesterday to witness a demonstration of the classic courtroom method of determining ownership of a dog. This, as every one knows, is having the true owner of the dog call the animal by its right name. The dog always does the rest.

For a while the proceedings ran along according to form. Mrs. Mary Bokal, 35, of 12206 Lowe av., one of the claimants, mounted the stand and called confidently: "Here, Patsy!"

The dog, a black and brown Pomeranian, bounded across the courtroom to Mrs. Bokal, wagging its tail and giving every evidence of being tickled to death to see the witness.

"Here, Pudgy!" Also Works

"See, your honor," Mrs. Bokal said triumphantly. "Patsy is my dog. Her actions certainly should prove it."

Then the other claimant, Mrs. William B. Knox, 33, of 12026 Union av., spoke up:

"Here, Pudgy!" she called.

Patsy never wavered. She bounded back across the courtroom and fawned all over Mrs. Knox. Mrs. Knox's expression was triumphant, Judge Hermes was puzzled. This dog was violating all the sacred traditions of courtroom dogs.

Both Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Bokal said they hadn't bought the dog, and each said it had been given to her. As far as formal evidence went the contestants were about even on this score. Mrs. Knox said the dog had disappeared from her home a week ago.

A Great Day for a Dog

But Judge Hermes still had a legal problem to lick. "Here, Boscoe," he called. Obediently Patsy-Pudgy-Boscoe trotted over to him, waiting for her ears to be scratched. The judge obliged.

Then a spectator, in a moment of daring, called out softly, employing the name of "Puppie." It worked as well as the others. Soon the dog, enjoying herself tremendously, was licking the hands of half the court room.

But of all the people in the room, the multi-named Pomeranian seemed to prefer 9 year old Jimmy Knox. She wound up all her sorties at Jimmy's feet, altho he didn't call her anything.

It was enough for Judge Hermes. "She's your dog," he ruled, nodding to the grinning boy.

Look, dear. A letter from our dog in the army.

Mother Ordered to Jail When Son Plays Hookey

Pueblo, Colo., May 11 (AP)—County Judge Hubert Glover, after hearing the case of a boy, 14, who has been absent from school 60 days this semester, told his mother that in the future she must spend two hours in jail or pay a $2 fine for every day lad is absent.

CALLS FOR QUIZ BY COUNCIL ON NEED FOR OCD

Further expenditure of the city's funds to maintain Chicago's own office of civilian defense after the national organization has been killed by President Truman should be made the subject of a city council investigation, Ald. Waller [43d] said yesterday.

Waller said that he would demand at the next council meeting May 24 that a special committee be named to conduct a thoro investigation regarding continuation of the OCD. He said that proof should be supplied to the council that the OCD appropriation for 1945 is necessary.

The OCD in 1942, 1943, and 1944 cost taxpayers of Chicago more than one million dollars, the alderman asserted, and the appropriation for 1945 is $197,000.

Waller said he would urge that the investigating committee look thoroly into the "lend leasing" of two dozen city employes to the OCD while their salaries continue to be paid by city departments.

He asserted that the OCD, with small cost to the city and with volunteer workers, could help in bond sales and salvage campaigns.

HOMEWOOD BOY WHO HIT FRIEND IS HELD IN HOME

William O'Brien, 16, a Mount Carmel High school honor student, was being held at the Juvenile Detention home last night, pending his scheduled arraignment in Juvenile court May 28 on a charge of assault.

Juvenile authorities said that he will be given a psychiatric examination before arraignment.

O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. O'Brien of Clyde av. and Dundee rd., Homewood, is accused of striking a family friend, Horace P. Ramey, in the basement of the latter's home in Flossmoor May 1. Ramey is a sanitary district engineer. O'Brien, arrested Thursday in St. Louis, told Chief Joseph R. Dineen of Flossmoor that he attacked Ramey in an effort to steal his car to take friends to a school dance May 19.

The Inquiring Camera Girl — BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. E. C. Wescott, Wausau, Wis.]

THE QUESTION

What is the most unconventional thing you ever did?

WHERE ASKED

Morse av. "L" station.

THE ANSWERS

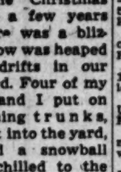
Louise Engels, cashier, 2612 Lincoln av.—My friend and I were walking down Morse av. one afternoon when we met a friend with a camera. He offered to take a snapshot of us. As we posed, my friend put his arms around me, kissed me, and said, "This would make a better picture." All thought we were newly weds.

Dorothy Kummings, student, 1744 Juneway terr.—I was one of a group of students on a double-decker bus headed for the museum. It was a warm day and all the windows were open on the top deck. About 15 of us took our shoes and stockings off and hung our feet out the window as we rode down Sheridan road.

Sheldon Paretskin, student, 1500 Lunt av.—During the Christmas holidays a few years ago there was a blizzard. Snow was heaped in big drifts in our back yard. Four of my friends and I put on our bathing trunks, went out into the yard, and had a snowball fight. We were all chilled to the bone when we finished.

Larry Cossoff, student, 1326 Estes av.—Dad, Buster [that's my dog], and I drove downtown together. Dad had to meet a friend and left me in the car. While he was gone I tried to smuggle my dog into a swanky restaurant. I sat down and everything was fine until Buster decided to sample food off tables. We were asked to leave.

Paul Nagel, student, 6636 Glenwood av.—I carried my portable radio to a ball game one afternoon and listened to the game while I watched it. It was fun to compare the announcer's analysis of the game as I watched. The people near me thought I was crazy, but it wasn't a bad idea. It made the game more interesting.



Mrs. Ellis M. Roberts, housewife, 7030 Sheridan rd.—In northern Wisconsin I went swimming in the nude with a girl friend. We thought the lake was deserted, but just as we hung our bathing suits on a raft four canoes started toward us. It was a hard struggle to get our suits on in the water.

FEDERAL JUDGE ASSAILS ILLINOIS PRISON RECORDS

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday termed Illinois prison records as "short of scandalous" after prison and parole officials testified incomplete records were responsible for George Loughren, 61, serving six years longer than his minimum term for a $13 robbery. Loughren was released from prison last February after filing a petition for a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Igoe. Judge Igoe had ordered the prison officials to present their explanation in court before he dismissed the petition.

DECORATE TWO WHO DIED TRYING TO SAVE THIRD

U. S. 8TH AIR FORCE HDQ., May 11 (AP)—The medal of honor has been awarded posthumously to two pilots of a Flying Fortress who gave their lives trying vainly to save a member of the crew. They were Lt. Donald J. Gott, 21, Arnett, Okla., and Lt. William E. Metzger, 22, Lima, O.

The flyers died last Nov. 9 after their bomber Lady Jeanette was hit by flak over Saarbruecken. The plane was ablaze from nose to tail by the time it got over friendly territory.

Gott, the pilot, ordered the crew to bail out. Among those who leaped was Lt. John A. Harland, Chicago, the navigator, who has returned to the United States.

The radio operator-gunner lost his right hand at the wrist and was hurt too badly to parachute. The pilots elected to stay with him and try to land. The plane blew up a few hundred feet off the ground, killing all three. All of the crew who leaped reached safety, except the tail gunner, who was killed when his parachute caught on the tail of the plane.

"He's carrying her books again. Guess her Mother got in a new supply of Wheaties."

Annie's got "It." Yes, Wheaties. Big flakes of good whole wheat. Roasted and toasted. And flavored just right to make a big hit with the younger generation. Give 'em lots of milk, fruit, and Wheaties, "Breakfast of Champions." And save a big bowlful for yourself.

Uncle Sam's Best Friends Are His Mothers

No question about it, essential war worker Number One is Mother. What a day . . . every day! All of the chores of peacetime and more—stretching ration points and still keeping the family well nourished . . . preparing bandages . . . salvaging paper, cans and fats . . . budgeting for War Bonds and holding onto them . . . tending her Victory Garden and preserving its surplus . . . ending a long day by writing morale-building V-Mail.

We've all made an important discovery in the last three years—that our nation is one big family whose every member is essential to our country's will to win. There's a new understanding of the other fellow's problems . . . a new appreciation of our individual ability and resourcefulness. We've seen with pride what our younger generation can accomplish . . . and we're determined to safeguard their right to opportunity in the land they call Home.

The women of America have proved their resourcefulness in the kitchen in countless ways. Many have discovered that a glass of cold, golden Budweiser makes their simple wartime meals taste better.

Hospital Auxiliary Plans Party

Mrs. Lefens Porter, who will come from Lake Geneva Tuesday for the annual benefit card party of the woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital, to be held at 1:30 p. m. in the nurses' home. Mrs. Porter is active in the auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Charles H. Wacker. Mrs. Walter C. Lefens is chairman of the party. [TRIBUNE Photo]

Chicago to Pay Tribute Today to Its Hospitals

Chicago's observance of National Hospital day will be climaxed at 8 o'clock tonight by a public meeting in Murphy Memorial hall, 50 E. Erie st., where citations will be presented to eight volunteers who during the year have given most hours of service to local hospitals.

The awards will be made in the name of the Chicago Hospital council which is sponsoring the gathering in coöperation with medical, nursing, and hospital organizations, including the Red Cross, the American College of Surgeons, Illinois Hospital association, Illinois State Nurses' association, OCD, American Women's Voluntary services, the Junior Army and Navy guild, Men's Volunteer corps, the army and navy, and the Chicago Plan for Hospital Care.

Dr. Frank V. Meriwether, district director of the United States Public Health service, will conduct an induction ceremony for cadet nurses representing 33 nursing schools in the Chicago area. Other speakers include Franklyn B. Snyder, president of Northwestern university; Col. Don G. Hilldrup, chief medical officer of the army 6th service command; Capt. C. W. Carr, medical director of the 9th naval district, and Dr. Irvin Abell, chairman of the board of regents of the American College of Surgeons.

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of Lying-In hospital of the University of Chicago, the American Medical association and the National Broadcasting company will present a dramatization of the life of its founder, the late Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, over WMAQ at 3 p. m. today. President Robert M. Hutchins of the university will speak, and certificates will be presented to 51 employes who have served the hospital for more than 10 years. Following the program there will be two tours of the hospital, and refreshments will be served in the Edna Corsant hall, with Mrs. Frederic Woodward and Mrs. Morris Fishbein in charge of arrangements.

Descendants of many pioneer families which helped to found St. Luke's hospital in 1864 will be on hand for the hospital's 80th anniversary celebration today, a reception from 3 to 5 p. m. in the Schweppe Memorial building, 1500 Indiana av. At 4 p. m. A. Watson Armour, president of the board of trustees, will present pins to 250 workers who have been connected with the hospital for 10 years or more. Students from the school of nursing will provide music, and Mrs. I. Newton Perry, Mrs. Allyn D. Warren, Mrs. Harrold A. Bachmann, and Mrs. George K. Fenn will pour tea.

Mount Sinai hospital, 2750 W. 15th pl., will hold open house for its friends today. At 2 p. m. visitors and volunteer workers will gather in the Kurtzon lecture hall, where Dr. Ellis B. Freilich, president of the medical staff, will give a talk on the hospital and its post-war plans, and Dr. Israel Davidsohn, pathologist and director of the laboratories, will discuss prospects for extending medical research.

Alumnae Reunion Today

Alumnae of the National College of Education will gather today at the college in Evanston for their annual reunion and spring luncheon.

Weddings

At 6:30 o'clock tonight Miss Shirley Jane Bacon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton Bacon of Wilmette will become the bride of Pvt. Robert Eugene Mountz of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer D. Mountz of Springfield, Ill. The Rev. Erskine Jeffords of the Wilmette Methodist church will officiate, and a reception and supper will follow in the Michigan Shores club. Pvt. Mountz is a member of the 356th army band stationed at Vaughan General hospital. He and his bride will live in Oak Park.

The Julian R. Norrises' home in Glencoe will be the scene of a small wedding at 4:30 p. m. today when Mrs. Norris' sister, Mrs. Donald Harmon Mann of Evanston, becomes the bride of Col. Burr P. Irwin. The bride is the widow of a Chicago lawyer. Col. Irwin is in charge of the army specialized training program at St. Louis and Washington universities.

Mrs. Robert J. Reynolds with some of the hats to be sold at a rummage sale the Kenwood center of the Infant Welfare society will hold Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at 1006 S. Michigan av.

Many Will Join Tomorrow to Honor Mothers

The city's church services, flower exhibits in park conservatories, and special events at service men's centers will all embody tributes to mothers tomorrow.

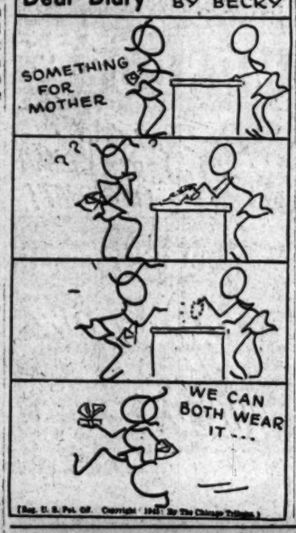
Brilliant blooms on display in the Garfield park and Lincoln park conservatories today and tomorrow have been designated as special Mother's day tributes by William C. Blaesing, chief horticulturist for the Chicago park district. Both conservatories will be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., and admission is free.

Morgan Park Military academy cadets will march in dress parade at 3 p. m. tomorrow on Abells field, 111th st. and Hoyne av., in honor of their mothers and the mothers of alumni who are in service. Following the parade, the mothers will present to the academy a portrait of Lt. Col. Haydn E. Jones, for many years assistant superintendent of the school, in ceremonies in the academy gymnasium. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker will speak.

Not a tribute to mothers but an appeal to them came from the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, 208 W. Washington st., with the invitation to Chicago mothers to observe Mother's day by mothering a homeless infant. At the same time, the society named Mrs. Clara Neumann, 810 S. 15th st., Maywood, as a good candidate for special Mother's day honors in recognition of her record of being a mother to 32 babies placed in her care by the society.

Mothers have been invited by Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of Mayor Kelly, to accompany their sons and daughters in uniform to the Chicago Service Men's centers tomorrow. The United Service Organizations' centers also are planning to entertain all mothers who can come with their sons and daughters to the regular Sunday breakfasts.

Dear Diary BY BECKY



White Collar GIRL
BY RUTH MAC KAY

Mother and Daughters

There are numerous father and son partnerships, not many father and daughter combinations. A few daughters have followed their mothers in some chosen field of work. But in the case of Kyle Adams Rodenbaeck, mother followed daughters! For when she first undertook the job of counselor of women for American Airlines, two of her daughters, Virginia and Kyle Jr., already were employed by the air line.

It was a July morning in Boston, two years ago, when Mrs. Rodenbaeck decided to write a letter to the personnel director of American Airlines!

"It was a pretty good letter," she says in restrospect. "I told him I had been counseling people of all ages all my life, but especially young ones, and I felt that American Airlines must need an older woman to do that for the girls now when so many of them are away from their homes and their families."

Within one week her letter brought an answer. It was a request for an interview.

What did she do at the end of that exciting interview? She went home and read the 23d Psalm, then broke the news to her children that mother had soaring hopes, too—that mother had a job with the air line.

Middle Westerner

Tho her office is in the east [and both stewardess daughters fly out of New York] Mrs. Rodenbaeck has many ties with the middle west. She is the twin sister of Chicagoan Robert McCormick Adams, a niece of Cyrus H. McCormick; her friends around Chicago are legion. She was maid of honor at the Veiled Prophets ball when, as Kyle Adams, she made her debut in St. Louis in 1909—was then president of her class at Mary institute. A good student, she later went to Columbia, and, after her graduation, taught for a while at Teachers' college, then took a position as student secretary for the national board of the Y. W. C. A.

Fruitful Years

No part of her life has been fruitless. Each has contributed to her wise understanding—the years of marriage when she brought up the girls [two pretty stewardesses and one, younger, still in school] . . . the years when she packed the household belongings and moved across the country to Claremont, Cal. [where Mexicans and Americans alike sought her help] . . . the long trip back east again with her family . . . a temporary position at the Chapel Hill School in Waltham, Mass., all the years until that summer day in Boston when she, then a widow, decided to make use of her experience in working with people.

In line with her job her home is "open house" to any American Airlines girl who cares to drop in. Every afternoon she serves tea to fleet service clerks, stewardesses, secretaries, and clerks.

A gracious mother who has created a fine position for herself—mothering!

OPA to Make Drastic Cut in Canning Sugar

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—The 1945 sugar quota for the home canning program will be reduced 40 per cent, from 1,000,000 tons to 600,000 tons, OPA officials disclosed today. They also said that industrial sugar users may be forced to take another 25 per cent reduction in their quota by midsummer.

The predictions were made by OPA officials appearing before the house food committee investigating the sugar shortage.

Industrial sugar users now are allotted 70 per cent of the amount they used in the base year of 1941. Bakers are allowed 75 per cent of the amount they used in 1941, while soft drink bottlers, candy makers, and similar sugar users get 65 per cent of their 1942 consumption.

Richard H. Fields, general counsel for OPA, presented a statement from Max McCullough, rationing administrator, which said:

"It appears that it will be necessary during the last half of the year to reduce the allotments of most industrial users to a level of 45 or 50 per cent of their 1941 use."

The allotment for sugar used in the manufacture of drugs also probably will be cut slightly, the statement said, but it will remain substantially at 90 per cent of 1941 usage.

Earlier in the hearing industrial users of sugar—candy makers, bakers, soft drink bottlers, etc.—testified that a further slash in their supply would hamper their business to the danger point.

The reduction so far this year, said John J. Riley, representing the bottled soft drink industry, "has resulted in a general increase in costs of production which is beyond the ability of most of the plants in the industry to withstand for any length of time." A cut to 50 per cent of the 1941 might force many companies out of business, he said.

Fields estimated that sugar flowed into the black market at a rate of nearly 100,000 tons a year in the first three months of this year. He outlined black market controls which are expected to shut off that drain on sugar stocks.

Freeze Cuba's Sugar Stock

HAVANA, Cuba, May 11 (AP)—All stocks of sugar held by producers, refiners, and wholesale dealers for domestic consumption in Cuba have been frozen for three days by Presidential decree, it was announced here today.

The measure was taken because sections of Cuba are suffering a shortage of sugar "despite the fact 250,000 long tons were set aside from this year's production to cover national sugar needs."

Pan-American Party Will Mark Founding of Peruvian School

A special program in commemoration of the founding of the University of San Marcos in Lima, Peru, on May 12, 1551, will be presented by the Pan-American council at 3:30 p. m. today in the Woodrow Wilson room of the International Relations center, 84 E. Randolph st. Miss Inez Acosta of Lima, who is studying at Northwestern university, will discuss "Women in the Social Structure of Peru," and Manuel G. Carrion and other Peruvians will tell of other aspects of life in Peru. Peruvian music will be provided by Miss Yvonne Angarola.

Aids Seeing Eye Member Drive

Miss Nancy Madlener, who is captain of a team seeking new members for the Seeing Eye school in Morristown, N. J. Her mother, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., is chairman of the 1945 drive to raise money for the school which trains guide dogs for the blind. As the new president of the Woman's Athletic club, Mrs. Madlener will receive at the club's 45th anniversary tea Tuesday.

Emily Webster Bride Today; Lt. Freeman to Wed in East

When Miss Emily Fabian Webster and Roy Patton Howell Jr. of Dallas, Tex., are married at 4 p. m. today in St. Mark's church, Evanston, Miss Webster will wear the wedding gown and veil in which her great-aunt, Mrs. Emily Fabian Fall, for whom she was named, repeated her wedding vows in 1875. The ceremony will be followed by a small reception in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Webster of Evanston.

Miss Anne Haviland Strong will be her cousin's maid of honor, and a younger cousin, Frances Sanders, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Sanders of Cohasset, Mass., formerly lived in Evanston, will be bridesmaid. After a short wedding trip Mr. Howell and his bride will be at home in Dallas where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howell, also live.

In a ceremony at 8 o'clock tonight in the Church of the Epiphany in Washington, D. C., Miss Virginia Chapin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Egbert Chapin of Stratford, N. J., will become the bride of Lt. John Edgar Freeman Jr. of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman of Winnetka. Present for the wedding will be Lt. Freeman's father, who left earlier this week for the capital, where he is the guest of his cousins, Comdr. and Mrs. Richard Bentley.

Lt. Freeman and his bride will stop in Winnetka next week for a short visit with his parents en route to his new post at the navy air station in Alameda, Cal. He has been stationed with the bureau of aeronautics in Washington for more than a year.

Included in Miss Eunice Thorp's wedding ensemble when she and Lt. Weston C. Pullen Jr. are married at 4:30 p. m. today in the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth will be an heirloom princesse lace veil worn by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Pullen, and a pearl pin given to the bride by Lt. Pullen's family. Mr. and Mrs. Pullen were unable to come from their home in Lyme, Conn., for the wedding and reception, which the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Thorp of Winnetka, will give in the Winnetka Woman's club. Lt. Pullen and his bride will go to Newport, R. I., where he will report for duty.

'Without Love' Is a Gay and Diverting Film

"WITHOUT LOVE"

By Mae Tinée.

Spencer Tracy, scientist and somnambulist, is definitely sour on women. Katharine Hepburn, a widow and the daughter of a scientist, is sure there could never be another man like her late husband, so she's not planning on any further romance in her life. The two meet and, after a bit of verbal sparring, decide that scientific research is their mutual love, and, since they make a good working team, they might as well get married. But it's to be one of those "in name only" affairs.

From this slightly threadbare plot, "Without Love" is developed, dressed up in modern guise, with a sleep walking gag thrown in for spice. It takes the green eyed monster to bring Mr. and Mrs. together, as inevitably happens, with a good deal of kidding which wards off any possible banality.

Any movie with Tracy in it is bound to be pretty good, as far as I'm concerned, and with the help of Donald Ogden Stewart's lines, it is, on the whole, an entertaining film. Keenan Wynn is a decided asset; his role as a hen-pecked playboy provides some of the best laughs, and he's a pleasantly droll inebriate. Lucille Ball also does a nice bit as a perky, sophisticated career gal who definitely wants love in her life, preferably from Mr. Wynn.

There is a decided unevenness about the film, however, and it varies between lines that are delightfully fast and funny and others that are just talk and too much of it. Nearly all the good lines are Mr. Tracy's, and delivered with his customary ease. Most of the bum ones are Miss Hepburn's, spoken in a clipped and breathless fashion, with a great deal of smirking. She frequently looks like some of her better imitators, and I suspect she's given them much material for future use. At one point, when Tracy blurts out, "Mrs. Rowan, you're nuts!" you can't help but agree with him.

In spite of a few pretty sticky moments, you'll probably find this a gay and pleasing love story.

Lake Forest Garden Club's Spring Benefit to Be May 26

BY JUDITH CASS

THE LAKE FOREST GARDEN CLUB'S spring benefit Saturday, May 26, in Market Square, Lake Forest, is to be more in keeping with the times than the organization's usual flower shows or garden walks of others years. It will be a Garden Mart from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Henry N. Rowley.

On sale in addition to plants, vegetables, annuals, flower arrangements, and home made and home canned foods will be the pet war time recipes of some of Lake Forest's most noted hostesses. These recipes will be sold individually, according to present plans, and will be well worth the price [as yet undetermined] in the saving of fats, sugar, and meats they will represent to the woman who wants to conserve these items and yet set an appealing table.

Mrs. Burford L. Porter is in charge of the recipe sale and, if possible, will have examples of some of the dishes made up for the gourmet housewife to taste. Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord is president of the club. The proceeds of the sale will be used to continue nature study classes in Lake Forest's public schools. The club has contributed to the planting at Vaughan General hospital and Fort Sheridan, and a committee takes flowers to Great Lakes each week.

On the committee for the benefit are Mrs. Albert D. Farwell, who will set up her now famed Herb House; Mrs. B. Botsford Young, Mrs. Ronald Boardman, Mrs. John Giles, Mrs. Roger Bronson, Mrs. Frank Priebe, Mrs. Albert Williams, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, Mrs. William A. P. Pullman, Mrs. Charles S. De Long, and Mrs. James B. Forgan.

Birth News

Maj. and Mrs. Morrison Waud [Anne Byron Smith] are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, their fourth child, yesterday in Good Samaritan hospital, Dayton, O., near Wright field, where Maj. Waud has been stationed for the last three years. Mrs. Harold C. Smith of Lake Forest was in Dayton to greet her newest grandson and to visit with Diana, 9; Ernest Waud III, 7, and Cornelius, 4. The children's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Waud.

On the Calendar

The annual concert of the Paulist Choristers will attract a large audience to Orchestra hall at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow. The John E. Colemans, the Edward A. Cudahys, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Fox, and the Leo J. Sheridans are among the boxholders.

Jean Joseph Viala, French consul, and Mme. Viala will be the special guests at the spring tea of the Rosettes et Rubans de France at 3 p. m. today in the Arts club. Mme. Claire Bluzat will give a talk on the most famous cathedrals of France. Pouring at tea will be Mme. Rene Weiller, and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter. Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis heads the organization.

The Evanston Junior auxiliary of the Mary Bartelme club will present a children's program, including a magician show and a clown act, at 10:30 a. m. today in Nichols school and at 2 p. m. in Haven school, both in Evanston. Mrs. John E. Utley is in charge of the benefit to raise money for the home, which provides guidance and normal life for girls from broken families.

Thru the Looking Glass

A new make-up duo, lipstick and face powder, has come to our desk and made a distinct hit with this department and with our fellow workers who are always eager to see the latest in beauty.

The combination is intended to accent the spring colors, black, navy, gray, and beige and the pastel hues for summer wear. Keyed to strawberries and cream, it's a luscious color feast that imparts a fresh, pretty look to the complexion and is just right for this season's fashions.

The lipstick shade is really a beauty. It's richly red in the manner of a sun ripened strawberry, devoid of any trace of blue, and has a faintly rosy tone to give it a bright clarity. It's the kind of shade that makes skin look clearer and teeth a bit brighter than they might actually be. There's nothing lacking in the texture and durability of the lipstick. Velvety smooth and creamy, it gives the lips a soft finish and stays put without slipping and smearing at the edges.

Many women will find the creamy beige tone of the powder immensely flattering. It's not dark as are some summer shades, but has plenty of depth and warmth to give the complexion a becoming glow. Light in weight and exceptionally fine, it clings nicely to the skin and doesn't make it seem heavily coated or made up.

Powder and lipstick come packaged together in a gay box reminiscent of a strawberry carton and is decorated with a design of red strawberries and an old fashioned cream pitcher against a blue background. You'll probably want both items, but if not, they may be purchased separately.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 11—Pat O'Brien opens in "A Bell for Adano" in London in June, if he can arrange to take his wife and children along. If he does, I'm betting that family won't come home for three or four years. I said, "Pat, if those arrangements can't be made, how about doing 'Harvey' in Chicago?" Then he gave me this line of Joe Laurie Jr., "I've seen men take rabbits out of hats, but this is the first time I ever saw a rabbit take a man out of a hole." . . . Gracie Fields and her husband shove off from San Francisco May 25 for the South Pacific. Won't be back until Christmas. . . . At the request of Gen. Eisenhower, Bette Davis will do a tour of the European camps when her present picture is finished. . . . Mrs. Ben Goetz soon will be en route to London to join Ben. . . . Did you know that beautiful actress, Ruth Shipley, is working in the passport division? Has been for some time. . . . Arthur Hornblow is New York bound. Takes a print of "Week-End at The Waldorf" along. Also will look for a girl to play in "Cass Timberlane."

It's Too, Too Bad

Bill Goetz is doing a slow burn over Orson Welles' antics. If Orson doesn't feel like it, he just doesn't show up for work on "Tomorrow Is Forever." His sponsor got fed up. That's why Herbert Marshall is doing "This Is My Best." Three technicians who've been devoted to him walked out on his last show. He'd rehearsed it all day. Just before going on—they were 12 minutes too long—he said to the boys, "Don't bother—I'll cut as I go along. Take my signals from here on in." After the show they took their own signals—they walked out. Too bad. He's throwing away a brilliant career by trying to be "The Man Who Played God."

One Man's Meat—

David Lewis is no longer with International. Claims too much supervision on part of top man. Yet Nunnally Johnson tells me working there is one of his greatest joys. Nunnally claims a preview is a place where ten top executives who get from five to ten thousand dollars per week wait anxiously to see what the kids will write in on a postcard about their pictures. . . . What do you bet Warners sue over the title, "The Marx Brothers in Casablanca"? . . . Groucho Marx, day before V-E day, looked at a map of Europe and cracked, "Why, the Germans are only 25 miles from Berlin!" . . . Lili Damita has six friends trying to locate a home for her and her son. She's anxious to get here for two reasons. First, to get more money from Errol; secondly, there's a handsome gent here she admires. No, his name is not Flynn.

Saying It with Music

Jimmy McHugh and Harold Adamson wrote "There's a New Flag on Iwo Jima" to help the campaign and make Iwo into a marine memorial island. The song was inspired by Joe Rosenthal's Pulitzer prize picture of the flag raising. . . . Since her twins are grown [they're 6 months old now], Susan Hayward is flirting with every studio. She starts "Deadline at Dawn" for Clifford Odets next week. Then watch her smolder. . . . Harry James is turning in a swell acting job in "Kitten on the Keys." Don't know why no one has starred band leader Henry King. He's really matinee idol stuff. . . . Bonita Granville may linger longer on the east coast and do summer stock with Victor Jory on Long Island.

They Seem to Learn Fast

Capt. Ben Jacobson, now in Paris, writes he can tell the GI's French is improving because they're getting slapped oftener. . . . Robert Hutton, currently playing the male lead in "Janie Gets Married," is trying to get his studio to buy "Break the News," written by a school pal, James Stratton, of Kingston, N. Y. Story is of a young correspondent who ferrets out the hiding place of a Nazi official. . . . That golf match between Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Johnny Miles, and Joe Kirkwood Jr. at Lakeside Country club should be a dilly. Latter two are Warner Bros. hopefuls.

Most coffee flavored desserts are made with left-over breakfast brew. They are economical but may not be as flavorful as desserts for which a special, strong, fresh brew of coffee is prepared. You'll see what I mean when you prepare this coffee pecan pudding, a blanc mange type of dessert.

Coffee Pecan Pudding

[Serves six]

1½ cups boiling water
⅓ cup sugar
1 cup ground coffee
¼ teaspoon salt
1/3 cup cornstarch
½ cup cold milk
1½ cups scalded milk
½ cup chopped pecans
2 egg whites

Stir sugar into boiling water. Add coffee, stir, turn off heat, cover sirup, and let stand 15 minutes. Let drip thru two thicknesses of cheesecloth. Add salt and cornstarch to cold milk and stir to smooth paste. Add strained coffee sirup to scalded milk and stir in cornstarch paste. Cook in the top of a double boiler until mixture is smooth and thick. Cover, and continue cooking for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool slightly, add nuts, and fold mixture into stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased mold or individual molds, and chill several hours. Turn out and serve with cream, whipped cream, or custard sauce.

Ever put salted peanuts into a stuffed egg salad? Eggs and peanuts both are protein foods, and such a salad would do nicely in place of meat for a luncheon or supper.

Stuffed Egg Salad

[Serves four]

4 hard cooked eggs
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons salted peanuts, chopped
1 tablespoon minced green onions [with tops]
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Greens, French dressing
2 tomatoes, sliced

Cut eggs in halves lengthwise, remove yolks, mash, and add mayonnaise, peanuts, onion, and parsley. If necessary, thin mixture slightly with milk to make it fluffy. Mix well, fill egg whites, and arrange two stuffed halves on crisp greens for each serving, garnishing with sliced tomatoes and accompanying with French dressing.

An appetizing jellied tomato soup to precede dinner may be made using bouillon cubes and hot water instead of the usual meat stock. The soup may be served hot, should it seem more desirable, but that would be a waste of good gelatin.

Jellied Tomato Soup

[Serves Six]

2 envelopes plain gelatin
½ cup cold water
2½ cups bouillon or meat stock
1 cup canned tomatoes
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt [amount depends on seasoning in stock]
8 whole cloves

Soften gelatin in cold water. Mix bouillon, tomatoes, onion, parsley, salt, and cloves, and simmer for 10 minutes. Add gelatin to hot soup and stir thoroly to dissolve. Strain and chill. Soup may be chilled in bouillon cups, then broken up somewhat before serving.

FLATTEN TIN CANS FOR SALVAGE!

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Sponge Drops

6 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¾ cup powdered sugar
1 cup cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, add lemon rind and juice, and continue beating until very thick. Add sugar gradually. Fold in stiffly beaten whites, then sifted flour and salt. Drop from tablespoon on cooky sheets covered with greased brown paper. Bake in 350 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes or until delicately brown. Remove from paper while hot. Recipe makes 48 small cookies.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"I have some vegetable shortening which has been on the shelf for almost a year. It smells alright, but I wonder whether it is advisable to use it. Would a fat of this type eventually become rancid?"

As long as the fat is free from rancid odor and flavor, it is safe to use. In time a vegetable shortening would become off-flavored, but this fat does not decompose nearly as rapidly as do most other fats and oils.

"My butcher often has chicken gizzards for sale. What is the best method for cooking these to tenderize them, and how may they be served attractively as a dinner dish?"

Cut the gizzards into cubes and simmer them, covered, until tender, 1 to 2 hours. Strain off the liquid and chop or grind the gizzards. To the cooking liquid add additional water and enough chicken bouillon cubes to make a flavorful gravy base. Thicken the liquid, add chopped gizzards, and season to taste with salt, pepper, and onion salt. Reheat and serve on boiled noodles or in mashed potato nests.

"In making mayonnaise with mineral oil, must a special recipe be used?"

A standard mayonnaise recipe may be used, with mineral oil substituted for salad oil in equal proportions.

"Why is it refrigerator doughs sometimes rise in the containers in which they are stored and sometimes do not?"

This probably is due either to the temperature of the dough when placed in the refrigerator or to the amount of sugar in the dough. Usually the dough rises in the container and tends to push up the cover. But if the dough is fairly cold when refrigerated, due to the addition of chilled eggs or some other ingredient, or if the amount of sugar in the rolls is small [sugar is a yeast food], the dough might not begin to rise until warmed to room temperature.

Over-the-Knee Discipline Out, Girl, 16, Is Told

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Out of the mail-bag of routine questions, such as, "When should a girl be allowed to date?", "How old must a girl be to wear lipstick?", and "At what hour should a girl get in from a date?", comes a new and surprising inquiry: "When does a girl get too big for the hair brush?"

The complaint, from a high school gal, gives out this way:

"I say that when a girl is big enough to have dates, she's too big to be spanked; that the end of the spanking age coincides with the beginning of the dateable age [and presumably the beginning of the age of common sense] but my big sister, who has reared me [and reared is the word], says that she is still spankable for several years after she is considered date bait. I am not quite 16 and have been dating for almost a yea., so I admit that my sister is broad-minded in some ways. Nevertheless, whenever I violate her curfew by even a few minutes, or commit some other very minor misdemeanor, instead of the usual teen-aged punishments, I'm due for an across-the-knees session with the hair brush. Since I've gotten too big for my sister to handle easily, my brother-in-law very unwillingly wields the hair brush but, as my sister supervises, the paddlings are still very sound.

"I live in a comfortable, upper-middle class, native American neighborhood where almost everybody owns his own home, but discreet inquiry shows that quite a few girls in our crowd have the same hair brush trouble. I'd like to know what other girls have to say."

Any girl is too big to be spanked [if she is ever spanked at all] while she is still in rompers and baby shoes—as soon as she is able to understand by word or even by the expression on her mother's face, the difference between right and wrong. A casual word to your "unwilling" brother-in-law might make him realize in what an undignified position he places himself [and you're not too comfortable down there either, are you?]. If he refuses to coöperate in re-educating your sister, just make yourself "unavailable" next time this spanking question comes up.

Bright Colored Slickers Click on a Gray Day

BY REA SEEGER

High colored slickers, fashioned with dashing smartness, take the gloom out of wet and sloppy weather. When the streets appear bright with orange, yellow, scarlet, giddy green, and bright blue raincoats, then you realize what a big difference liberal amounts of color can do for spring and summer showers. These are the days, too, shoppers can find sleek, streamlined coats of shimmering gray, white, black, and beige in satin sheened material which is thoroly water repellent, yet designed and fashioned like toppers and even dress-parade coats of costly wool.

Most of these are of the classic silhouette, with wide, easy-to-slide-into sleeves and raglan shoulders. Sleeves have wrist straps for snug going. Pockets are deep and capacious, and with the belt, a coat can be cinched in around the waistline or worn loose and easy over another coat or suit. But it's the lilting appeal of the brilliant colors that makes fashion impressions. No one can be morose because of rain and wet weather if the slicker or raincoat has the fresh-as-paint eye appeal of primary colors. Even the neutrals have a shine and gloss, to assure the pickup for dismal gloom and dark clouds.

Some very smart raincoats are fashioned like day time coats of wool. These are of checks and unusual plaid fabrics, the patterns copied exactly from surah silks and tweeds. These have the gathered back with narrow tie belt, soft sleeves gathered at the cuffs, and flattering turnover collar that can be worn buttoned high and tight or in convertible lines to form a deep vee. Subtle new materials available this spring and made of water repellent materials with a satin gloss, come in effective shades of pewter gray, caramel beige, oyster white, brown, and navy. The new gray shade is by far the smartest.

Make Friend of Adolescent, Mother Urged

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In this column I try to touch on all phases of child management, but sometimes I think that I pursue one particular point too constantly. Then I receive a letter like the following, and I realize that the question of how to gain obedience without punishment is a vital, ever present problem that confronts parents and troubles them.

"I've been having so much trouble with my 14 year old daughter that last night I gave her a good whipping. Now she's defiant.

"She thinks she knows it all and simply won't listen to what I say to her. I'm older and I know what's best for her . . ." writes this mother.

What the specific trouble here is I do not know; the mother doesn't give sufficient details. Whether it is in the home atmosphere, because of the influence of associates, or because the young daughter isn't allowed any freedom of action, I don't know, either. But I do know that subjecting a 14 year old girl to the humiliation of a spanking is not going to help make her the kind of a young woman she should be.

As a matter of fact, the mother admits that it has only served to make her daughter defiant. Such tactics cannot possibly establish between mother and child the close ties of love, understanding, and friendship that must exist for the happiness and benefit of both.

This girl, on the threshold of young womanhood, can no longer be considered a little child nor be treated as such, and that alone rules out the corporal punishment idea immediately. She needs helpful guidance and understanding. These young persons usually can be led, but they cannot be driven by scolding criticism. They crave a certain amount of freedom and, if they can count on your faith in them, usually can be trusted to handle themselves satisfactorily when away from home. They need and should have the companionship of other boys and girls.

Any one who wants to help a girl or a boy of 14 who is the cause of great worry will have to work out the problem along the lines of patience, kindness, understanding—and again, more patience. Punishment is futile. It will require much thought on our part, especially the angle of taking their side of the question into consideration, for this is an important aspect of the situation often overlooked.

'Midsummer Nightmare'

By Christopher Hale

[Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens]

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton, with her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupies a cottage on the Jennesma estate, cared for by Tillie. Olivia walks in her sleep. The Jennesma furniture factory, now making gliders, is managed by Dirk Adams, Winnie's fiance. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a car motor, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley, owner of a car body company. Sen. North, who is investigating the Jennesmas for Riley, is in love with Olivia. Jason Kimball, very fond of Winnie, handles Jennesma publicity. Hilda Jennesma Paradine is found murdered, a knife in the back of her neck. The evening before her death Hilda claimed money was missing from her cottage. Lt. French of the state police questions Olivia. Tillie has informed him Olivia went downstairs in the night and took a knife from the kitchen table—the knife. When the missing money is found in Winnie's bedroom, Kimball believes it is a plant. Eddie Paradine heard nothing during the night nor is he familiar with the terms of Hilda's will. Kimball believes Hilda had a rendezvous with some one she trusted. Dirk was with Hilda from 1:30 to 2 a. m. In Olivia's opinion, Mrs. Jennesma could not have met Hilda later, and bribed Tillie. Questioned, Winnie insists Olivia is innocent. Olivia finds herself turning to Sen. North, but there is a barrier, a secret marriage in her youth. Hilda's first husband, Jerrold Corbin, is upset on learning Hilda left him only $1,000. North wonders if Jennesma is putting pressure on Olivia to influence his decision. Tillie is poisoned. Olivia denies killing her. Arsenic is found in Tillie's chocolates. A box of chocolates with one layer partly gone is found in Olivia's room. North thinks some one is trying to frame Olivia. Dirk has an alibi. The Paradine maid tries to incriminate Eddie Paradine. To Kim's regret, Winnie forgets her quarrel with Dirk. Gerrit has received three anonymous threats. French questions Kim about four unsigned telegrams addressed to him. Sen. North is sure Tillie was lying for some one. Three days before her death Tillie deposited $5,000 in cash in her bank.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

HILDA'S WILL

"Meet Mrs. Paradine's lawyer, Mr. Wilber Oosterdyke, Lt. French." Jerrold Corbin's gesture was sweeping. The lieutenant was given three soft, resilient fingers to press. Corbin raced around setting chairs for every one in Miss Warburton's office.

"Boy! Have we got hot news, French. Sit there, Wilbur. Tell him about Hilda's last will."

"Of course, Jerry, we don't know it was her last will," Mr. Oosterdyke's voice was a sort of gasp. "She may have made another. But this one was executed just two weeks before her death. This is a carbon copy." He handed to French a blue bound sheaf of papers.

French kept a sober face. He laid a thousand dollar bet with himself that the will was in Corbin's favor and soon won it. Mrs. Paradine had again left her brothers $5,000 each, but had also included her present husband, Eddie Paradine, on this financial level of her esteem. The balance of the estate was left to Jerrold Corbin.

"Was the will signed, Mr. Oosterdyke?" French asked.

"Yes, in my office on the date noted on the carbon there. Three of my employes witnessed it. I gave it to Mrs. Paradine and that was the last I saw of it."

Corbin smiled grimly over his folded arms.

"How does Paradine look to you now, lieutenant? Where is this last will of Hilda's? He must be forced to produce it. I know that house intimately. Nothing could be hid in it that I couldn't find. I want a search warrant."

French said, "Why did she leave her money to you, Corbin?"

"Hilda never got over caring for me. In fact, she has always regretted her hasty divorce from me. It was her plan to . . . uh . . . rectify that mistake . . . in the not too distant future."

"You mean she was planning to divorce Paradine and remarry you?"

"Uh . . . yes."

French said briskly, "Where were you the night Mrs. Paradine was killed, Corbin?"

"I was home all evening. Went to be at 10:30."

"Who can corroborate that?"

"Why, my wife."

"Your wife?"

"Sure. The present incumbent and her daughter and her cook and housemaid. Isn't that enough?"

Corbin glibly furnished details. He slept in the other twin bed. His wife was a light sleeper.

"How would she feel about your accepting this legacy, Corbin?"

"O, she's used to women liking me. She can take it."

"You wouldn't expect Paradine not to put up a battle, would you?"

"O, yeah? If he wants to start throwing mud I can give him plenty of action. Why back in 1931. . . ."

Mr. Oosterdyke made a slight hiss. It was enough to stop Corbin in full flight.

French persisted, "But the exposures he might make in court might break up your present marriage."

Corbin was sulky. "You don't know my wife. She'd settle any day for a diamond bracelet. I'd have all Hilda's jewelry, I guess."

French thought of Mrs. Jennesma and her guardianship of the Paradine gewgaws and hid a dry smile. He went on briskly:

"Then you aren't planning to divorce your wife?"

Corbin looked blank. "Divorce her? Why, no."

"But weren't you going to do so?" French was carefully casual.

"I don't see where you got that idea, lieutenant," Corbin protested.

". How, then, were you going to be able to marry Mrs. Paradine?" French thundered at him.

Corbin gave a nervous leap. "O, O, I see. See what you mean. O, I'd have had to divorce her then but that was kinda far ahead."

French said nothing. Oosterdyke shifted in his chair.

At last French made a gesture of dismissal.

"Okay, Corbin. I'll look into this."

French's car slid to a stop in front of a drug store on Cherry st. It was an unpretentious little place.

French strode to the back of the store. A fussy little bald headed man, working at his accounts, looked up over his glasses.

"Yes, what is it?"

"You Mr. Hoogerstrom?" French presented his card. "You called me this morning?"

"What's on your mind?"

"Well, it's about the Van Slee woman. This Tillie Van Slee." The druggist produced a picture cut from the Grand Rapids Press. "I recognized her. Is it true she was killed with arsenic?"

French nodded curtly.

"Then," said the druggist sepulchrally, "she must have killed herself, once. Because she bought that arsenic from me."

"She did? You're sure?"

"You bet I'm sure." The man drew from a locked drawer a shabby ledger and opened it, halfway. "Here's her signature already. She bought two ounces of arsenic from me on that date, and you can see she signed her own name."

"Did she give you any reason for buying it?"

"Nope."

"Did you ask her what she wanted it for?"

The druggist was disgusted. "Certainly not. She signed the book. It's all the law requires."

French produced from his pocket a couple of examples of the maid's signature and compared them with the register. They certainly seemed to be the same hand, and of course the druggist's recognition of Tillie's picture clinched it.

"Thank you very much, Mr. Hoogerstrom. Do you keep that book locked up?"

"In my safe all the time."

"Good. We may need it, later on. And you may be asked to repeat what you have told me, in court."

"Sure. Sure. I know. Wait a minute, lieutenant. Is there any law says a United States senator is the same as a policeman, and has got to be told anything he wants to know?"

"Well, not exactly. Why?"

"There was a fellow in here this morning. Made me show him that poison book. Threatened me. Claimed he was a senator." The druggist glowered reminiscently. "Sen. North, he said. Was he a senator?"

"Now, Mr. Hoogerstrom, how could I know that," French retorted. "But I advise you to guard that book. Don't give it to any one without asking me, first."

He strode out to his car, leaped in and drove rapidly toward the Jennesma estate.

Mrs. Ken A., Milwaukee — We made our dog a mattress and stuffed it with cedar shavings. We were told this would help keep fleas out of his doghouse as the insects don't like the aroma of cedar. It seems to be doing the work.

Edna S., Chicago — To all new cooks, here is my method for making a smooth cream sauce, free from lumps: I melt butter and then sift the flour before adding it. After that I cook the mixture and remove it from the fire before adding liquid, a little at a time. I've always thought it was the sifting which kept the sauce or gravy free from lumps.

Mrs. J. K., Lansing, Mich. — I've learned never to put anything the least bit damp in my laundry hamper and always to iron everything within 10 or 12 hours after sprinkling. This is good insurance against mildew.

RECONVERSION PRICES FIXED AT 1942 LEVEL

OPA Sets Up Program to Prevent Inflation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 11—Most civilian goods returning to the market under the reconversion program will sell at 1942 retail prices, Price Administrator Bowles announced today in making public a reconversion pricing program which, he said, is designed to "smother the fires of inflation" under "an avalanche of goods and services."

He said it is essential that price control policies during the coming year enable business and labor to expand civilian production as rapidly as decreasing war demands make it possible.

Bowles said at a news conference that the present higher costs of labor and materials generally will not be reflected in prices of consumer goods; increased manufacturing costs, he explained, will be offset by huge volume, increased production efficiency, and some absorption of costs in distribution channels, which will be possible largely thru low sales costs.

Inflation Danger Acute

The price administrator said that OPA pricing policies must meet four major objectives during this period following Germany's surrender. These objectives are:

1. Continued prevention of inflation. Bowles said the danger of inflation is more acute now than at any period of the war, or at the end of the last war.

2. The fixing of prices so they will not hamper full production, which, Bowles said, is the "best answer to the inflationary forces."

3. Encouragement of full employment.

4. The relaxation of price controls as soon as danger of inflation disappears.

Bowles said the resumption of civilian production in volume posed four major problems for the OPA. These were how to price products a manufacturer produced before the war and which other plants have continued to make during the war; the pricing of goods made before the war, but largely or entirely out of production during the war; pricing of new models of the same goods the manufacturer was making when he turned to war work, and pricing of products a manufacturer was not making before the war.

Can Figure Own Ceiling

In all of the first three cases, Bowles said, it will be possible for the reconverting manufacturer to determine his ceiling price for himself. He will not have to wait for the OPA to fix the price. In the fourth instance, the manufacturer must apply to the OPA for ceiling prices in line with those of his competitors for the most nearly comparable products.

Bowles said small manufacturers will be given special consideration in that they will be permitted to set prices on their products themselves and later submit the schedules to the OPA for approval. In cases in which manufacturers are prevented from reaching volume production because of material shortages, special consideration in setting prices will be given, Bowles said.

NO MEAT TO EAT, 200 COAL MINERS REFUSE TO WORK

Charleston, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—A Logan county coal mine employing 200 men closed today because the men declined to do any more work until meat is available in the company store, William Blizzard, vice president of United Mine Workers district 17, reported. The mine is operated by the West Virginia Coal and Coke company at Earling.

"The men decided they could not work at their arduous duties unless meat is available," Blizzard said. "The company store has had no meat for several days and merchants in the near-by area also are out of meat.

"We are not placing the blame on any one for this shortage," the union leader added, "but miners cannot work without sufficient strength building food. In my opinion, there will be other shutdowns unless this situation is corrected."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

LIQUID filling for tractor tires, tried this week for the first time on one of the Fox river farm tractors, proved so effective that the farm manager plans to drain the air from all his tractor tires and refill them with tire solution.

The occasion for testing the liquid filling came when the men encountered heavy going in the job of plowing alfalfa sod. The three-share plows, with 16 inch bottoms, were covering only about three-fourths of an acre per hour when drawn by tractors with air in the tires, altho the wheels were weighted and heavy chains were attached to the tires. The main benefit of liquid tire filling is increased tire traction, and it is this advantage that the tractors needed for pulling the heavy plows over the thick, slippery alfalfa.

400 Pounds Per Tire

One of the five plows was taken to town, where a garage man pumped 400 pounds of solution into each of the two driver tires. This amount of liquid filled the tires to about three-fourths capacity, and the cost of the service was $18.

When the tractor was returned to the field, the farm manager and several workers took turns at the wheel, and all were satisfied that the extra 800 pounds of weight in the wheels provided added traction which gave steadier power and increased efficiency. No time tests were made, but the men who have spent years at tractor wheels believe the added traction permitted them to plow the heavy sod at about the same speed that they usually plow stubble land, which is about an acre per hour.

Gasoline and Time Saver

The farm manager also is satisfied that the cost of the tire solution will be more than offset by savings in gasoline and in man hours. He therefore plans to put the liquid in all the farm tractor tires.

The solution, a chemical, does not freeze, so it can be left in the tires permanently. In case of a puncture, the driver merely rotates the wheels until the leak is above the liquid level, then repairs the leak or removes the wheel.

★The GARDEN★

ADDITIONAL verbal ammunition for the gardeners' annual debate on the merits of early planting and late planting is being provided by the weather conditions this spring. Gardeners who prefer early May as the start of the planting season point to the fact that frosts and cool weather in April arrested the development of vegetables planted this year in late March and early April. Advocates of early spring planting point out that their hardy vegetables now are well established, altho they have not grown much in the last three weeks because of the cool weather.

The gardener on the Wheaton farm has pulled a few pea seedlings which were planted March 24. He noted that plants which have less than four inches of stem foliage have roots extending as much as seven inches into the ground. Leaf lettuce, head lettuce, beets, and carrots planted the same day also have good root development and should mature rapidly in the next period of warm weather. Radishes and green onions planted March 17 now are being harvested, and the flavor and texture of early planted radishes is better than usual because of the cool weather.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

The United States weather bureau forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

INDIANA: Cloudy with rain today, ending in north this afternoon and in south tonight; fair in north tomorrow and cloudy with occasional light rain in south; not much change in temperature.

LOWER MICHIGAN: Cloudy with rain today, ending in west in early afternoon and in east by late afternoon; partly cloudy and warmer tomorrow.

UPPER MICHIGAN: Cloudy today with rain in east in forenoon; cooler near Lake Superior; moderate to fresh winds; partly cloudy and warmer tomorrow.

WISCONSIN: Partly cloudy in west and cloudy in east today with rain in east in forenoon; partly cloudy and warmer tomorrow.

JUST A COTTAGE SMALL, BUT WPB DENIES PRIORITY

Can't Build Home to Boost Farm Output

Ralph O. Hall, Chicago war plant official, found that while 30,000 houses could be furnished to England, he could not obtain war production board priority to build a $3,200 house on his Michigan farm as a means of increasing food production there.

Altho he obtained approval of the local agricultural adjustment agency chairman, had made a down payment on materials at a Bay City lumber yard, and had workmen beyond military or war work age waiting to build the house, Hall's request was turned down by the regional WPB office in Detroit.

55 Acres in Cultivation

Hall, who entered war work at the outset of hostilities and now is factory manager of Radio Speakers, Inc., 221 E. Cullerton st., purchased 130 acres of farm land eight miles south of Bay City in 1942. His wife has lived in Hartland, Mich., with a married daughter, whose husband is overseas. The wife and daughter, with occasional help from Hall, have put 55 acres under cultivation, producing last year 25 acres of wheat, 15 acres of corn, and 15 acres of beans.

"The farm has no buildings," Hall explained, "and Mrs. Hall found it difficult to manage things driving four and a half miles from Hartland each day. She thought that if we could build a house there she could put the entire farm into cultivation and raise chickens.

"We found ready-cut lumber in Bay City and were told we could have delivery within 10 days. My wife made a down payment and we found carpenters and other workmen in Hartland, too old for war work but ready and willing to construct the house. Carl Grubb, Livingston county AAA chairman, approved the project, but when I sent it to Detroit it was turned down as unessential.

Nothing Critical, Except Food

"We cannot till any more acres than we have now without a house. I doubt if we can keep that much in production. The lumber is cut and waiting. It can't be used for anything but a house. There were no critical materials involved, no critical labor, and we thought the government wanted more food. If they can ship 30,000 houses to England, why can't an American build one farm home, particularly when it will mean the raising of more food?

"Hartland is a little town of 200, but from that town and the surrounding neighborhood 106 farm boys have been drafted, causing many of the older farmers to sell because they couldn't get help. The farm I bought had been idle for years. That doesn't seem to me to be the way to help feed the world."

$364 WHISKY STOLEN

HARRY E. PERRY, 53, MEMBER OF COUNTY BOARD SINCE '41, DIES

County Commissioner Harry E. Perry, 53, Democratic member of the county board since 1941, died yesterday in Passavant hospital of a heart ailment. He lived at 7817 Aberdeen st.

Harry E. Perry

Commissioner Perry was a graduate of De La Salle institute and a veteran of the first World war, having served as a sergeant with Gen. MacArthur when MacArthur was a colonel. He was assistant county treasurer from 1931 to 1932 and was alderman of the 18th ward from 1933 to 1939.

He was a political ally of former State's Atty. Courtney and was riding with Courtney when three gunmen fired on their auto in 1935. In his younger days he was a well known baseball and football player. He leaves his widow, Marie; a daughter, Anna Mae, and three sons, Edward, Raymond, and Roger. Services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday in St. Sabina's church. Members of the county board will attend.

Pedestrian, 71, Seriously Injured by Street Car

Jacob H. Slatter, 71, of 1634 N. St. Louis av., a baggageman for the American Express company, was injured seriously yesterday when he was struck by a Madison st. Surface Lines car at Wells st.

LOCKER OWNER FOUND GUILTY IN OPA MEAT PROBE

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday found Rudolph Malz guilty of contempt of court for failure to coöperate with the office of price administration's search for illegally hoarded meat in Malz' Dutch Dairy Frozen Food Locker company at 3318 Devon av., Lincolnwood.

The judge said he would rule Tuesday morning on punishment.

Malz had been cited by OPA attorneys for failure to deliver to the food rationing agency a master key to the plant and records of the firm listing the names and addresses of locker holders and the amounts of meat stored in the place. Malz denied the charge of lack of coöperation, and said he had given the key to OPA investigators. He denied withholding any records.

Suspected of "Covering Up"

Judge Barnes said Malz' conduct had been wholly inconsistent with his idea that he has been conducting a wholly legitimate business.

"Had he been conducting a business of renting lockers and nothing else, I don't see why he would have made himself a nuisance the way he did," Judge Barnes said. "The inference is inescapable that he has been doing something unlawful and that he has been trying to cover up for himself or others.

Orders Records Produced

"He might be buying meat thru the black market and selling it thru his delicatessen, or he might be buying meat and selling it to the locker holders. I don't know, but his conduct for the last two weeks has been such to force one to the conclusion he has been trying to cover up and has stood in defiance of the law."

The court ordered Malz to turn over to OPA investigators some missing records before the hearing Tuesday. Malz is at liberty on bond.

Butter, Lard, and Cheese Looted from Truck Load

Joseph Feuerstein reported to police yesterday the theft of 270 pounds of lard, 300 pounds of butter, and 90 pounds of cheese from his delivery truck while he was making a delivery at 1300 N. Western av.

TRUCKS PICK UP CLOTHING GIFTS AT CURB TODAY

Today is curb pick-up day in Chicago for the United National Clothing collection. To reach its goal of 9 million pounds of clothing, Chicago must contribute at least 5 million pounds in addition to the donations in the United States treasury warehouses, according to Mayor Kelly, general chairman.

"If every householder will place at least five pounds of clothing from each family member on the curb Saturday, we are sure to reach our objective," he said.

For today's curb service, 1,200 army and municipal trucks will begin collections at 9 a. m.

FARM ADVISER SEES NO MORE PLOWING UNDER

American farmers probably will never again receive payments for coöperation in government schemes to restrain production of grain crops, but the policy of reimbursing for soil conservation practices may be a permanent part of our economy. That was the contention of C. A. Hughes, Cook county farm adviser, in a speech yesterday before the agricultural council of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the La Salle hotel.

"The public, farmers as well as city residents, has accepted the practice of paying farmers for applying lime and other fertilizers, terracing, and seeding of legume crops," Hughes said, "because these practices are essential to maintainence of our valuable top soil."

He added that the policy of making similar payments for plowing under grain and cotton crops and destruction of meat animals was never acceptable to the American public because this practice denied the fundamental American belief in private enterprise.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox, who are on the hunt for adventure, found it yesterday in the person of Russ Christopher, the Athletics' one man ball team. The able Christopher just about made the skidding first placers forget the purposes for which bats are made, holding them to seven hits while the Mackmen were doing bigger and better things to Ed Lopat's southpawing for a 5 to 2 victory in the final of the series.

It was the fifth success of the season for Christopher, a total that speaks volumes in view of the fact Philadelphia won only three decisions without him. The A's have won only three of their last 11 games, and Christopher getting the three victories. And he probably apologized to his boss last evening for being slightly off form in the sixth inning when the Sox landed on him for three hits and two runs which were needed for a tie at the time.

Kell Gets Range Twice

Lopat was pushed around by almost everybody in the A's lineup, but he was particularly distressed by George Kell, who was in the league all last season but never had been able to hit a homer. Well, he has two of them now. He smashed No. 1 in the second inning to give Christopher a 2 to 0 lead. He picked off the other in the ninth, but by that time Christopher wasn't in need of help. He had been fixed up in the eighth when four hits off Lopat changed the 2 to 2 tie into a 4 to 2 lead.

The ease with which the Athletics hopped on Lopat in the second may have been due to the fact that Ed had been forced to burn up some of his reserve in the first inning as the result of messy fielding. Bob Wilkins led off with a double but it should have been caught by Cass Michaels, John Dickshot or Oris Hockett. Lopat escaped damage by flattening the next three men, two of them on strikes. But Dick Siebert opened the second with a single to right and with one out Kell cuffed his big league homer into the left field first story.

Dickshot Starts Sox Rally

Christopher's first pitch in the sixth apparently was just what Dickshot wanted. He used it for a triple to the center field wall, scoring a moment later on Bill Nagel's line single to right. Tony Cuccinello got into it with his single to right center, Nagel taking third, whence he counted the tying run on Roy Schalk's fly to Bob Estalella. This merry bit of business was broken up quickly when Michaels' tap to Christopher was turned into a double play.

Lopat fanned Christopher to open the eighth, but the winning splurge got under way immediately. Wilkins singled and was forced by Joe Cicero, after which Estalella singled, putting Cicero on third. Frank Hayes scratched a hit to Cuccinello, scoring Cicero and Siebert followed with a clean drive that counted Estalella. Then in the ninth Kell rounded out the assault against Lopat by pumping his second homer into the left field seats.

CODE experts in the National Football league office are trying to figure out the double talk in a recent letter received from Capt. Hal Van Every from a German prison camp. . . . The former Minnesota and Green Bay back, whose letter was postmarked Jan. 19, said he had just learned the Packers won the western division title. . . . But here are the puzzlers in the note: "I'd be a good scat back right now" and "Minnesota had a good season last fall." . . . In view of the starvation tactics used by the Nazis it is believed Van Every referred to losing weight, but that despite such disturbing factors he weathered the closing months of 1944 fairly well. . . . Mother's Day

For some their first time away from home,
Will realize now that they're far away,
The full inmost meaning of Mother's day.

That her nightly plea wasn't just a whim,
"Don't stay out too late, now will you, Jim?"

They once might have thought she fussed a lot,
Advising on this and that, what not?
When she'd ask them about the girls they met
And the fellows they chummed with you can just bet

It wasn't that she was just curious, no,
They understand now why she acted so.
Remember the deal 'bout the car that night?
Now you can see she was all the way right.

Yes, millions of boys away out there,
Will tenderly think of Dad, Sis Brother—
Then humbly thank God that He gave them Mother!

Day of Dedication

mothers of sons . . .
The mothers of mothers, too,

BY EDWARD BURNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 11—The Cubs, who indulged in a road rarity today — a morning batting practice—responded before 811 frosted spectators this afternoon by beating the Phillies, 7 to 1. The victory, which ended a three game losing streak, gave the Chicagoans undisputed possession of third place, shaking off a tie with the Cardinals.

The success was not as readily achieved as the final score would indicate offhand. A homer by Vince DiMaggio sufficed for a Philly lead for five innings, during which the Cubs frittered away chance after chance with woeful abandon.

Cavarretta Shows the Way

Hank Wyse went all the way, pitching a five-hitter for his second favorable decision of the season. He also has lost two.

The Cubs' freshened attack was led by Capt. Phil Cavarretta, who knocked four straight singles off Charley Sproull, then added a walk at the expense of Charley Ripple. Thus Phil boosted his season's average to .365.

Di Maggio Belts One

Di Maggio, who knocked a homer his first time up in the game here Wednesday, liked the idea so well he repeated his first time up today, this one being his fourth of the year. Coaker Triplett followed with a single to center but Wyse thereupon called a halt.

In the sixth, Di Maggio's homer ceased to stand up as a 1 to 0 Philly lead. Hughes led off with a pass and went to third on Nicholson's single to right. Cavarretta singled to center, scoring Hughes with the tying run, Nicholson stopping at second. Secory sacrificed, and when Sproull threw wild to first Nicholson scored and Cavarretta stopped at second. Don Johnson then lined into the third Philly double play and John Antonelli threw out Pafko.

The score became 3 to 1 in the seventh. Williams walked, and after Wyse had struck out scored on Hack's triple to left center.

Then Four Runs in Ninth

Kennedy was the Philly pitcher at the start of the ninth and Williams was safe on Nick Picciuto's error. After Wyse beat out an infield single, Hack, attempting to sacrifice, popped to Kennedy, Hughes walked, loading the bases. Nicholson also walked, forcing Williams across the plate.

Charley Ripple replaced Kennedy and walked Cavarretta on four pitches, forcing Wyse across the plate. Charley Schanz replaced Ripple and Secory singled to left, scoring Hughes and Nicholson, Cavarretta taking third, and Secory reaching second on the throw to third. Johnson bounced to Crawford and Secory was tagged for the out. Pafko popped to Crawford.

Eddie Prokop Signs to Play in All-America

Cleveland, O., May 11 (AP)—Ensign Eddie Prokop, star forward passer of Georgia Tech's 1942-'43 teams, has been signed for post-war delivery to the Cleveland All-America conference team.

Prokop is stationed with the Seabees at Port Hueneme, Cal. He was assigned to the second team in the Associated Press' All-America selections. The Boston Yankees made him their first choice in the recent National Football league draft.

Replying to recent charges made by Ohio State's coach, Carroll Widdoes, that Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, who will coach Cleveland, was attempting to sign Ohio State players now in service, Assistant Coach John Brickels said he conferred recently with the former Buckeye coach. Brickels said Brown has not changed his mind about the advisability of a boy finishing his college education.

"We have communicated with some Ohio State players whose class will have graduated by the time we are ready to play in 1946," Brickels said. "A boy can play pro ball and still go to college. It is up to him to decide. We're still talking education to the boys."

10,000 GOLFERS GET IN THE SWING AT 1ST TRIBUNE SCHOOL SESSION

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The 13th annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE opened last night on the four courses of the Chicago park district. A total of 10,000 men, women, and children took advantage of the gratis lessons given by members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Last night, thanks to the beneficence of that fine fellow, the weather man, the Illinois P. G. A. members who compose the school's faculty, found one of the dandiest climatic backgrounds and most enthusiastic classes they ever have encountered.

Phyllis Otto Helps

High in attendance in spirit were the 3,500 who came to school for the ABC's of the grip and stance at Diversey. Prof. Jerry Glynn of Knollwood and Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois section, reported they never had seen the like of the class at the north side location. The guest of the evening was Phyllis Otto, Northwestern university student, who not only hit the full repertoire of shots which brought her two Western Open finals but also found herself subjected to a quiz by pupils on her age, as to how she first took up the game, and how she learned to play it in championship style.

2,500 at Jackson Park

Joining with Cunningham, Glynn, and Miss Otto at Diversey were a hard working group of teachers including Bill Brown and Art Fladoos of North Shore, Don Cameron of Green Acres, Johnny Revolta of Evanston, George Smith of Onwentsia, present Illinois P. G. A. champion, and Lew Waldron of the Lloyd Voorhees practice range.

Jackson park, oldest of the four courses and the incubator of many of Chicago's ablest golfers, found 2,500 students greeting a faculty in which the official greeter was Elmer [Whitey] Schact of Ridge, an old hand at this school trade, who has conducted similar enterprises in Des Moines, Ia. Elmer spoke highly of the coöperation of Charley Penna of Beverly, George Knox of Calumet, where the Chicago Victory Nationals will open on June 27; Johnny Bird of South Shore, and his assistant, Bob Bousher; Julian Strud of Brookwood, and Bob Miller of the Green Diamond range.

West Siders Turn Out, Too

As usual, one of the better classes of the school's official opening was that at Marquette park, where the man in charge was Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley. An enthusiastic house of 2,000 attended the southwest side session, where Walsh, past National P. G. A. president and one of the co-founders of The Tribune school, introduced his brother Marty, now head man at Hickory Hills; Vic Soltz of Edgewood Valley, and Red Dennison of Midlothian.

West siders, 2,000 of them, got their grip-and-stance l'arnin' from an astute group of teachers, including Bill Gordon of Tam o' Shanter, Harry Adams of St. Charles, Jim Foulis of La Grange, Eddie Bush and Ed Phelan of Oak Park, Pete Thomas of Chicago Golf, Pete Wilcox and George Gammon of Riverside, Joe Jemsek of St. Andrews, Jim Gourlay of Glencoe, Pat McDonald of Rob Roy, and Hank Foley, the Columbus park professional.

LOU NOVA WINS TEN ROUND BOUT FROM BARLUND

New York, May 11 (AP)—Lou Nova, Van Nuys, Cal., heavyweight, overcoming the handicap of a cut over his right eye, gained a decisive 10 round decision over Gunnar Barlund, veteran Finn, in St. Nick's arena tonight.

Nova, weighing 202¾ to Barlund's 206, suffered the cut in the fourth round and at the time it looked like the bout might be stopped.

His seconds stopped the flow of blood, however, and he finished strong to nearly knock out Barlund in the ninth and tenth rounds.

N. U., MICHIGAN GOLF DUEL TOPS DAY'S SCHEDULE

The golf schedule for today calls for three important seasonal opening events. First of these is the dedicatory ceremony attached to the opening of the new Northwestern university course in Wilmette, which will be highlighted by a Big 9 duel between Northwestern's undefeated 1945 squad and Michigan's defending champions. The conference title meet will be decided on this same course on May 26.

In addition to the Northwestern-Michigan dual meet, an added attraction will be an exhibition foursome, including Chick Evans, Chicago's No. 1 amateur; Phyllis Otto of Northwestern, twice runner-up for the western open title; Lillian Townsend, one of the middle west's outstanding tournament players, and Don Heppes of Oak Park, captain of the 1925 squad which won the Wildcats their first Big Ten crown.

Butterfield and Acacia also will ignite their 1945 season today. Jack Grout will make his debut at Butterfield, where more than 300 are expected to test the west side club's 27 holes. Acacia, now returned to a private club basis, will entertain a similar field, with Eddie Bush of Oak Park scheduled as the exhibition star.

RECORD CROWD LIKELY TO SEE TURF REVIVAL

Inaugural Stake Heads Card

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

A crowd even greater than the record gathering of 22,463 which turned out for the first day of racing at Sportsman's Park last spring, is anticipated today as the Cicero half mile establishment brings back thorobred racing to Chicago. It also shares with Narragansett Park in Pawtucket, R. I., the distinction of being the first tracks in the nation to operate since the government ban went into effect last Jan. 3.

Requests for reserved seats began pouring into the offices of President John L. Keeshin immediately after restrictions on the sport were erased Wednesday by War Mobilization Director Vinson and the track is prepared to welcome the thousands of racing patrons who have had to forego their favorite sport since the Chicagoland season closed at Sportsman's last Nov. 11.

Eight Races on Program

The opening day throng in 1944, besides being the largest ever to visit the sporty half miler, broke all betting records at Sportsman's, even tho the total wagered that afternoon, $824,054, remained the high water mark only until the first Saturday of the fall meeting when $891,371 went thru the mutuel machines. That mark, in turn, fell on the last day of the fall charity week, sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., when $975,766 was bet.

Eight races have been arranged for this afternoon by Racing Secretary William R. [Duke] Dahlstrom, the feature of which will be the $2,500 Inaugural handicap which will be run in two divisions, the split being made necessary by an original entry list of 38. Ten thorobreds are scheduled to start in each division.

Bring Me Home Carries 122

The first division of the seven furlong race for 3 year olds and upward, sixth on the program, is topped by C. F. Martin's Bring Me Home which has been allotted 122 pounds, five more than Mrs. Robert McGarvey's speedy Night Shadow which is coupled as an entry with Henry Tikulski's Bolus.

Bring Me Home, a California importation, was out of the money only eight times in 25 starts last year, winning eight races and collecting $17,320 for his owner. Night Shadow started 15 times in 1944 and won on five occasions, earning $19,700 for her owner. Her principal victory was in the $9,350 Hawthorne Autumn handicap. She finished second to A. S. Higgins' Quizzle in the $5,000 Francis S. Peabody handicap and second to Gold Princess in the $15,000 Modesty handicap.

Quizzle Heads 2d Section

Quizzle heads the second division of the Inaugural with an impost of 112 pounds, one more than the Happy Hour farm's Rosy Brand and Tikulski's Holdall. Quizzle earned $12,010 last season with four firsts, six seconds, and four thirds in 23 starts. Rosy Brand had six victories in 28 starts and Holdall three in 19.

The minimum purse for the nine day meeting which closes May 23 will be $1,200. There are five claiming events on today's card and an $1,800 allowance race.

A $1,000 jockeys' war bond competition has been arranged, the leading rider of the meeting to get $500, second, $250; third, $150; and fourth, $100. Marcus Pena won last spring's riding honors at Sportsman's and Bruno Pucci collected first money for the fall meeting. Trainers of winning horses in races of a mile or more will be given a $50 war bond.

Today's first race will start at 2 o'clock. The week day programs will start at 2:15.

MICHIGAN HOST TODAY TO THREE TRACK SQUADS

Bluejackets, Buckeyes and Illini to Test Wolverines

BY WILFRID SMITH
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 11—Michigan's undefeated track team, which meets its final test here tomorrow on Ferry field in preparation for the Western conference meet May 26, anticipates the best weather of the season to gain full benefit from the competition with Illinois, Ohio State, and Great Lakes. If today's favorable forecast becomes valid, fans will see a series of races which may not be duplicated in the Big Ten games.

Great Lakes contributes two stars, Les Eisenhart and Grover Klemmer, who long since established themselves while competing for Ohio State and California, respectively. Eisenhart, national A. A. U. champion at 1,000 yards, will face Ross and Bob Hume of Michigan in the mile and Bob Kelley of Illinois and Ross Hume in the half mile. Klemmer, co-holder of the 440 yard world and holder of the 400 meter world records, will run against Marc Gonzales of Illinois and Dick Forrestal of Michigan. Bob Kelley, Illinois' 440 yard conference champion, probably will not compete in this race.

All Have Fine Times

There are obvious high lights of tomorrow's quadrangular meet but the 220 yard sprint and the 120 yard high hurdles offer equally thrilling competition atho no contestant is expected to approach the Ferry field records. In the furlong dash, Klemmer, Gonzales, and Julian Witherspoon of Michigan will battle for the first three positions.

George Walker, who won the high hurdle race in :15.3 last week for Illinois in the Champaign quadrangular, will receive major competition tomorrow from Charles Dykema and Ted Balogh of Michigan.

Ohio State's strength is principally in the field events and Capt. John Schmidt, who shared the 1944 conference outdoor pole vault title, is first choice to win tomorrow. Jack Dugger, veteran Buckeye three sport star, is outstanding in the shotput and discus throw.

Illini May Save Kelley

Illinois also may not enter Kelley in the mile relay, since Coach Leo Johnson is carefully preparing the Negro runner for the Big Ten games following an early season leg injury. Even without Kelley, however, Illinois has a team which should push Michigan's quartet of Orval Johnson, Bob Mann, George Shepherd, and Forrestel.

track has been closed to racing since the Pearl Harbor attack.

The Santa Anita meet, closing July 7, will be followed by a 40 day meet at Del Mar track, near San Diego, July 11 to Sept. 3; a 34 day meet at Hollywood Park in nearby Inglewood, Sept. 5 to Oct. 20, and a 47 day meet at Bay Meadows, near San Francisco, Oct. 23 to Dec. 15.

Gwynn Wilson, Santa Anita general manager, announced that the meeting will include 10 stages aggregating $405,000 added.

The four California tracks will donate a total of 37 days to war and other charities.

The first big stake race at Santa Anita will be the $25,000 San Gabriel handicap, May 19, Wilson said. The famed $100,000 Santa Anita handicap will be run June 30. There will be eight other stakes of $25,000 or more, including the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby, June 23; the $50,000 Santa Margarita handicap, July 4, and the $50,000 San Juan Capistrano handicap, July 7.

NARRAGANSETT READY

Pawtucket, R. I., May 11 (AP) — After completing its opening day plans in a matter of hours instead of days, Narragansett Park will open its gates tomorrow for a 25 day horse racing meet.

With almost 1,000 thorobreds in its stables, Narragansett looks forward to welcoming an inaugural crowd of 30,000, which is expected to provide a million plus betting handle for the nine race program.

JUDSON YIELDS 5 HITS; ILLINOIS BEATS N. U., 5-0

Howard Judson's five hit pitching, coupled with seven Wildcat errors, gave the University of Illinois baseball team an easy 5 to 0 victory over Northwestern yesterday in Dyche stadium. The triumph strengthened the Illini's hold on fourth place in the Big Ten standings. The teams will meet again this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Wildcats never seriously threatened after Bill Butkovich's sharp single in the first inning sent Judson off to a 2 to 0 lead. Center Fielder Bob Anderlick collected three singles in five times at bat to lead the Illini attack. Jim Neufeldt, Ed Planert, and Johnnie Johns all got two hits.

Illinois now has a 5-3 record, with one tie, in Big Nine competition, and may take over third place today if Purdue defeats Wisconsin in a double header in Madison. The defeat left the Wildcats with only one conference victory against four defeats. Score:

MICHIGAN WINS NO. 10

Ann Arbor, Mich. May 11 [Special]—Michigan's baseball team unleashed a 17 hit barrage this afternoon to score its 10th consecutive victory by defeating Notre Dame, 12 to 3.

The Wolverines knocked Jack Barrett, Notre Dame's starting pitcher, from the mound in a wild seventh inning during which 14 Michigan men went to bat and scored 10 runs on five hits.

The victory was Michigan's third over Notre Dame this year. The two teams will meet again tomorrow afternoon.

Notre Dame	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0—3	4	3
Michigan	0	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	*—12	12	2

Batteries—Barrett, Le Brau and Tracey; Louthen and Stevenson.

BUCKEYES WIN, 2-1

Columbus, O., May 11 (AP)—Lynn Biegler, second baseman singled in a tying run in the ninth inning and scored the winning run in the 12th as Ohio State beat Michigan State today, 2 to 1.

Ohio State	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0—2	4	3

Batteries—Page and Hudenko; Grate and Ernst.

INDIANA BEATS WAKEMAN

Bloomington, Ind., May 11 [Special]—Indiana's baseball team, undefeated this season, won its ninth game today, defeating Wakeman General hospital of Camp Atterbury, 7 to 6. Bob Johnson, soldier pitcher, forced in the winning run by hitting George Cherry, with the bases loaded and two men out in the last of the ninth inning.

Wakeman	0	0	0	3	2	1	0	0	0—6	9	2
Indiana	3	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	2—7	8	1

Batteries—Johnson and Munday; Kops, Desmond, Williams and Cohen.

PURDUE AT WISCONSIN

Lafayette, Ind., May 11 [Special]—The Purdue baseball nine will be seeking to break into the Big Nine victory column tomorrow in a double header with Wisconsin in Madison.

DE PAUW AT INDIANA

Greencastle, Ind., May 11 [Special]—The DePauw Tigers, with five victories in six starts and undefeated in Indiana conference competition, will go outside the conference tomorrow to meet Indiana university on the Bloomington diamond.

GOPHERS ROUT CYCLONES

Minneapolis, Minn., May 11 (AP)—Minnesota used 19 players in beating Iowa State, 17 to 7, in a baseball game today. Wayne [Red] Williams and Arnold Blairman led the Gopher attack with two hits each.

Alby Plain yesterday pitched no-hit ball as Todd school of Woodstock won 5 to 0, over University High on the latter's diamond in a Private School league game. He struck out 13 men.

North Shore triumphed, 5 to 2, in Winnetka to hand Luther its first loss in four games. Russ Stern, the winning pitcher, yielded three singles and struck out nine.

In the South Suburban league, Thornton moved a step closer to the league crown by routing Blue Island, 17 to 2, in Harvey. Argo stayed in second place by beating Lockport, 9 to 8, for its third victory in five games.

In the City league south section race, Fenger scored its fifth triumph in a row by beating Calumet, 7 to 2, in Foster park. The west section race remained in a deadlock when Kelvyn Park and Steinmetz each won their fourth game. Steinmetz beat Marshall, 7 to 4, in Humboldt park and Kelvyn Park defeated Wells, 6 to 1, in Smith field.

Harrison won its sixth straight in the central section by routing Phillips, 9 to 1, in Washington park. With the Schurz-Taft game in the north section postponed, Lane Tech moved into second place by beating Von Steuben, 6 to 1, on the Tech diamond.

IRISH TENNIS TEAM DEFEATS BADGERS, N. U.

Notre Dame's tennis team, paced by veteran Chuck Sampson, defeated Northwestern and Wisconsin yesterday afternoon in a three way, round robin meet on the Wildcats' courts. The Irish defeated the home team, 7½ to 1½, and Wisconsin, 8 to 1. The Badgers topped Northwestern, 6 to 3.

Sampson, who played a lot of tennis at Ohio State before shifting to Notre Dame as a navy trainee, defeated Dave White of Northwestern and Bill Rogers of Wisconsin in the top singles matches and teamed with Bill Tully to sweep a pair of doubles encounters. White defeated Rogers in the other number one singles contest.

V-E Prayers, Mother's Day to Be Combined

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Leadership of church and synagog has promised enthusiastic compliance with President Truman's V-E day appeal for the country to observe Mother's day tomorrow as a national day of prayer. Announcements from many pastors and spiritual leaders have been received. Another coincidence will be that of the day of prayer and the Sunday in the octave of Ascension in Roman Catholic, Episcopal, and Lutheran churches.

Archbishop Stritch's official archdiocesan journal, the New world, called attention to another coincidence when it stated that "by happy coincidence Sunday is the traditional Holy Name society Sunday," when "millions of Catholics thruout the archdiocese and nation will receive holy communion as they join with their fellow countrymen in the national day of prayer."

Dr. Harold W. Ruopp, president of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago, expressed approval of the dual recognition of tomorrow. Special services have been scheduled in many synagogs.

Lutheran Synod to Meet

The 25th anniversary of the founding of the Illinois synod of the United Lutheran church and a visit Tuesday by the new president of the United Lutheran church in America, Dr. Franklin C. Fry, will highlight the annual convention of the synod which opens Tuesday in North Austin church, Mason and Le Moyne sts.

The anniversary service Tuesday night will be led by Dr. Armin G. Weng, president of the Illinois synod, and Dr. F. W. Otterbein, pastor of the host church, with Dr. Fry the anniversary preacher. The convention will open Tuesday morning with Dr. Weng delivering the convention sermon. Among important agenda is the report of the nationwide church's executive board. Dr. Fry will outline the present work and program of the church at the afternoon session.

Church to Mark Birthday

Archbishop Stritch will preside at the memorial mass at 11 a. m., May 27, celebrating the 90th anniversary of St. James church, 2900 S. Wabash av. This was announced yesterday by the Rev. Francis J. Lavin, pastor, and the Rev. William J. Cogan, assistant pastor. The Rev. William J. Finn, founder of the Paulist choir, will conduct a special choir.

St. James, one of the few consecrated Catholic churches in America, when instituted in 1855 was the ninth in the city, and is the mother church of all those on the south side.

Religious News Notes

"God Is Honored Each Day in This Home, in Memory of the Holy Name' Holy hour, Soldiers' field, June 3." T. M. HOWELL, 'WIZARD OF THE GRAIN PIT,' DIES

Thomas Montgomery Howell, 63, multimillionaire capitalist and sportsman, died Thursday in Doctors hospital, New York City, after a lengthy illness. Services will be held in New York, friends here said.

Howell entered the brokerage business in 1907 and became a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, and later the New York stock, cotton, and produce exchanges. He became known as the "wizard of the grain pit" because of his spectacular dealings on the grain market. In 1935 he was charged with controling 85 per cent of the open position in corn and all the cash corn in Chicago during July, 1931, in an action brought by the government. As a result of the suit, he was suspended Aug. 16, 1935, but won reinstatement the next June.

Howell, well known for his interests in golfing, yachting, hunting, and fishing, was sued for separate maintenance in 1939 by his wife, the former Pauline M. Meyer, whom he married in 1907. Surviving in addition to his estranged widow, are one daughter, Mrs. Helen Strotz of Los Angeles, and one son, Lt. Thomas Jr., with the army overseas.

FOUR ARMY SONS OF REP. HUNTER ARE WOUNDED

Rockford, Ill., May 11 (AP)—Four sons of State Rep. Hunter [R., Rockford] have been wounded in army service, the family said today.

Notification was received yesterday that Pvt. Logan Hunter, 20, was wounded April 18 in Germany and that Pvt. Joseph Hunter, 22, was wounded April 20 in Italy. Both are now in an American army hospital in Germany where Rep. Hunter's son-in-law, Pvt. Wesley Tanner, is stationed.

Two other sons, Sgt. John, wounded in Germany last Thanksgiving day, and Sgt. David III., who lost his right eye in Germany, are both home on leave now.

Rep. Hunter himself is a World War I. veteran and holder of the distinguished service cross.

SIGN PACT TO GET TRAFFIC ROLLING AGAIN IN EUROPE

U. S., Six Other Nations to Revive Transport

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—A provisional agreement designed to coördinate traffic and help in rehabilitation of what is left of railways, highways, and inland waterways in Europe, was signed in London May 8 by representatives of the United States, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, and Norway, the state department announced today.

Charles P. Taft

It sets up a provisional advisory organization with temporary headquarters in London.

The announcement stated the western allies have been discussing with Russia and other European countries a draft agreement for a more permanent organization.

Russia Does Not Sign

Charles P. Taft, head of the state department's office of transport and communication policy, said Russia had not entered the provisional agreement because it had not yet approved the draft.

The function of the provisional organization is purely advisory and it has no authority to give orders to any government or occupying authority, Taft said.

The primary purpose of the agreement is to facilitate the movement of military forces and supplies. It is also expected to aid in the movement of civilian supplies and in the repatriation of the millions of displaced persons.

Provide for Abrogation

The provisional agreement may be abrogated by any member power upon three months notice, but the contemplated permanent organization would run for two years, with members able to withdraw on 18 months' notice.

Brig. Gen. Charles D. Young, deputy director of defense transportation, has been named American member of the provisional executive committee.

Taft said the agreement was important, not only from the standpoint of getting European transport functioning again, but also to forestall, by mutual agreement, member nations from grabbing what remains of the rail, highway, and inland waterway equipment for their own purposes.

GRAIN FUTURES IRREGULAR, RYE TRADE ERRATIC

Grain futures prices ended irregular yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after erratic shifting in rye. Rye rose 1⅞ to 2 cents a bushel early on buying induced by a bullish interpretation of a department of agriculture crop report, but broke 2⅝ to 4 cents from the high. Final trades were at losses of ⅛ to 1½ cents, May leading.

Weakness in rye was reflected in wheat which closed ⅝ higher to 1⅛ lower. Corn developed independent strength, May selling at $1.17, a new seasonal high and ¼ cent below contract cash corn. The market eased with rye but closed 1⅜ higher to ⅛ lower. Oats finished ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher and barley unchanged to ⅝ higher.

Professional traders who have been buying rye recently led the selling.

7,000 WALK OUT AT CONTINENTAL MOTORS PLANT

Detroit, Mich., May 11 (AP)—The Continental Motors corporation plant was closed tonight by a walkout of some 7,000 employes. The United States conciliation service said the strike resulted from refusal of some employes to accept job assignments ordered by the company, which manufactures engines for tanks.

A company spokesman said some refused to work, went home, and were discharged. Officials of local 280, CIO United Automobile Workers who attempted to arrange a back-to-work meeting, said the management persisted in assigning employes to jobs other than those they are supposed to do.

Standard Oil of Ohio Votes 25 Cent Dividend

Standard Oil Company of Ohio yesterday declared a 25 cent dividend on the new $10 par common stock. The payment is equivalent to 62½ cents on the old $25 par common which was split 2½ for one last month. Payments last year totaled $2.50.

C. & E. I. STRIVES TO INCREASE ITS TRAFFIC IN COAL

Common Dividend Is Held Unlikely in '45

Intensive efforts are being made by the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad to increase coal carrying operations, and because of the cash requirements for additional equipment it is unlikely that common dividends will be paid this year, Holly Stover, president, said at the annual meeting yesterday.

In view of the increase in volume of coal tonnage and other traffic, the road's outlook is favorable, Stover said.

D. W. Buchanan, president of Old Ben Coal corporation, was elected a director to succeed Chester L. Jones of New York, resigned. Other directors were reëlected.

Last of RFC Debt Retired

The C. & E. I. has retired the remainder of its indebtedness to the Reconstruction Finance corporation by purchase of $9,400,000 of its series A first mortgage 4 per cent bonds at 103.

Stockholders of Johns-Manville corporation were told by Lewis H. Brown, president, at the annual meeting in New York that because the company's preferred stock has been retired common dividends will be in an improved ratio of earnings.

"Tho we shall have no large reconversion problem, we shall have other heavy expenditures when the war ends," Brown said. "We are going to spend money for new equipment such as labor saving machinery, new research facilities, new products, and to improve working conditions of employes.

Earnings Must Assist

"We do not expect that the company's deferred expenditure fund plus depreciation reserves will cover this combined expense and so we are counting on our regular earnings to assist in this program."

S. S. Kresge company stockholders at their annual meeting in Detroit elected E. M. Plunkett and D. F. Valley as directors to succeed R. A. Bell and H. H. Servis.

PRICE CONTROL EVIDENCE GIVEN IN A. & P. CASE

Danville, Ill., May 11 (AP)—Earl Jinkinson, assistant government prosecutor, introduced a letter in federal District court today which he said quoted an A & P. food chain official as saying "we will do all we can to control prices" of two brands of canned peas and corn.

Jinkinson said the letter bore a rubber stamp signature of an A. & P. official. William Acton, a defense attorney in the anti-trust trial of the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and 28 officers and subsidiaries, told Judge Walter C. Lindley the official denied writing the letter.

Other letters read by Jinkinson said the A. & P. complained to the Minnesota Valley Canning company of Minneapolis that the King Cullen groceries of New York were selling these two pea and corn products below cost, and demanded that some action be taken.

NEW PACT GIVES AUTO MECHANICS RAISE OF 5 CENTS

A two year contract providing for a 5 cent an hour wage increase and including vacation provisions for 1,500 truck mechanics in the Chicago area was signed yesterday by the Illinois Motor Truck Operators association and local 701 of the Automobile Mechanics union [AFL], Walter McCarron, general manager of the association announced.

The agreement, which must be ratified by the war labor board, was signed by Anthony P. Nelson, president of the association, and William Fullerton, chairman of the association's labor committee, for the employers, and by Donald Burrows, secretary, and Frank La Furno, business agent, for the union.

The agreement raises the hourly wage to $1.20 from $1.15.

WMC RELAXES CURBS IN LABOR PLENTY AREAS

Chicago Restriction Is Unchanged

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 11—Gradual relaxation of man power controls in all areas except those where labor is scarce was announced today by the war man power commission in outlining plans to keep war plants staffed and fight unemployment caused by reductions in munitions production. Chicago, classified as a scarce labor area, will not share in the relaxation.

The WMC program for the period following German surrender will permit some workers to return to pre-war freedom in seeking jobs, but Chairman McNutt said general removal of man power controls was not likely until Japan is defeated. If lightening of WMC restrictions in any way jeopardizes war production, he added, more stringent controls will be restored immediately.

Revised Program Outlined

During the transition period to July 1, groups 3 and 4 or surplus labor areas may remove all man power controls. In group 1, or acute shortage areas, and in group 2, or areas where shortages are expected, restrictions will continue. Chicago is in group 1, where controls include the 48 hour week, priority referrals, and employment ceilings.

If unemployment should develop in group 1 and 2 areas during the transition period, WMC will permit workers to take any jobs and employment ceilings will be adjusted or removed temporarily. The United States employment service will solicit job orders from all employers to relieve unemployment.

Group 1 Areas to Decrease

As of May 1, 74 areas were in group 1, 111 in group 2, 84 in group 3, and 32 in group 4. McNutt predicted that within three months, the number of group 1 shortage areas would drop because of war production cutbacks.

McNutt said that after July 1 group 1 would include areas in which all man power controls will be continued, group 2 would include areas in which controls will be optional with area WMC directors, and groups 3 and 4 would be entirely without restrictions on employment. WMC was unable to estimate how many workers would be affected by the reclassifications and relaxation of controls.

Clear Way for Small Plants

The WMC chairman announced plans were being made to clear the way for plants employing 100 or fewer workers to resume or expand civilian goods manufacturing, and that a similar plan was being developed for larger plants in areas where labor was relatively plentiful. He said there would be some easing of man power restrictions on new and expanded civilian production after July.

The 48 hour week will be maintained on an industry wide basis only as long as required to meet labor shortages such as exist in the textile, logging and lumbering, and non ferrous metal mining industries. WMC announced, however, that the long work week will be revoked for the steel industry, thereby allowing steel plants to be subject to the same work week as other plants in the areas in which they are located.

Big Air Lines Report Larger Quarter Profit

United Air Lines and American Airlines yesterday reported substantially increased net earnings in the first 1945 quarter.

American Airlines reported March quarter net income was $980,643, or 76 cents a share, compared with $597,796, or 46 cents a share, a year earlier. Revenue passenger miles totaled 157,472,363, an increase of 54 per cent, and revenue miles flown were 10,106,544, against 6,626,608.

First quarter results of United Air Lines compared with a year earlier showed substantially increased net earnings, highest operating revenues of any March quarter, and marked gains in movement of essential civilian and military passenger and cargo traffic, said W. A. Patterson, president.

Operating Revenues Mount

Net income rose to $1,643,288, or $1.02 a share, from $1,110,083, or 66 cents a share, in the first 1944 quarter. Operating revenues were $9,392,593, against $7,235,615 a year earlier. Provision for federal and state income taxes was $1,135,000, compared with $742,000. Operating expenses and other taxes totaled $6,665,037, an increase of 21½ per cent.

Patterson told stockholders that air mail rate reductions proposed by the civil aeronautics board would have reduced March quarter net income to $766,215, or 43 cents a share. United and three other air lines named in a CAB show cause order are opposing the proposed cut from the present 60 cents per ton mile rate to 32 cents.

United's fleet on March 31 totaled 65 Douglas DC-3 planes, including 53 in service, 10 being reconverted, and two allocated by the government, but not delivered. The company is flying a record 108,000 miles a day, he said.

Seeks Army Flyers

The army air forces have indicated plans for releasing a certain percentage of flying personnel from overseas combat duty, and making them available to the air lines, Patterson said, and United has expressed its interest in interviewing 700 to 1,000 of these men.

Western Union Telegraph company reported March quarter net earnings were $2,382,483, or $1.93 a class A share and $1.43 a class B share, compared with $1,781,314, or $1.43 per A share and 93 cents per B share, a year earlier.

Certain-teed Products corporation reported first quarter net income was $212,092, computed after setting aside $10,000 for contingencies, compared with $195,257 in the corresponding 1944 quarter when no such provision was made.

McGraw Electric company reported net income in the 12 months ended March 31 was $837,626, or $1.77 a share, against $1,026,082, or $2.17 a share, a year earlier. Sales were $10,635,822, compared with $10,157,521.

REFRIGERATION FIRM MARKETS NEW PREFERRED

A banking group headed by W. E. Hutton & Co. yesterday offered 30,000 shares of $2.25 cumulative preferred of Hussman-Ligonier company at $51 subject to prior subscription by common stockholders. The company, manufacturer of commercial refrigeration equipment, plans to use proceeds to finance redemption of present preferred, increase working capital, and provide $500,000 for expansion of factory facilities.

Ten thousand shares of Scheller Manufacturing corporation common were offered by Ames, Emerich & Co. and Dempsey & Co. at $9.50. The company makes steering wheel assemblies and other automobile parts. Shields & Co. offered and sold 4,927 shares of Sterling Drug, Inc., on the New York Stock exchange at 72¾.

STERLING DRUG PROPOSES 2 FOR 1 COMMON SPLIT

New York, May 11 (AP)—Capital changes in Sterling Drug, Inc., involving a new preferred stock issue and a two for one split of common, will be voted on by stockholders at the annual meeting June 14, it was announced today.

One proposal would authorize the issuance of 12½ million dollars of preferred stock to be sold publicly to provide funds to pay off bank loans and provide funds for expansion, James W. Hill Jr., president said.

Another would result in issuing 5 million shares of $5 par common in place of the present 2 million shares of $10 par. The 1,874,763 shares outstanding would be exchanged for 3,749,526 shares, leaving 1,250,474 shares unissued and available for future sale as the company needed funds for expansion.

HOG RECEIPTS RISE, BUT HOLD AT PRICE LIMIT

Hog receipts at the Chicago stock yards yesterday rose to 11,000 head, largest for a Friday since March 9. Offerings were 13 per cent above the average of the last eight weeks.

The $14.75 a hundred pounds top price was paid for about 97 per cent of hogs received. The few stags and sows were sorted out and sold at $14, the ceiling for such kinds.

Virtually no price changes occurred on other markets for meat animals. Most cattle sold steady and the $17.90 steer top equaled the 1945 peak. The best lambs sold at $15.65, equal to the low since mid-January.

PEACE TO END INDUSTRY'S LAX VIEW OF COSTS

Control Imperative in Normal Time

BY THOMAS FURLONG

What has been described as expense account prosperity promises to be one of the early casualties of peace as industry gets back into competitive civilian production.

The extent to which manufacturing costs have risen during the war is not readily measurable because operations have been carried on under conditions wholly different from those in normal times. Every corporation financial officer will testify, however, that it has been difficult to keep costs under control, an imperative in a soundly managed business.

Starts Extended Argument

Early in the war production period industry was told in substance by WPB Chairman Donald Nelson: "To hell with costs, give us the goods and we will argue about costs later." The argument invited by Nelson has been going on since—every time the government renegotiators review a contractor's profits.

Whatever the purpose of the renegotiation procedure, the result in the opinion of many manufacturers has been to put all war production on a "cost-plus" basis. The latitude given the government renegotiation agents to reward efficiency and low cost production has been so slight that the immediate incentive for close cost control has all but vanished, manufacturers assert.

"We notice the results thruout our organization," said the official of a large manufacturing company that has had an excellent war production record. "There is the feeling it doesn't make any difference if costs are not held down, that we will get our profit anyway, perhaps a little bit more profit if our costs are higher.

Effect Held Demoralizing

"This cannot help but affect individuals. They do not watch expenses with customary prudence. The combination of abnormally high taxes and price adjustment has had a demoralizing effect on industry which presents an urgent problem as we move back into competitive operation."

Looking ahead to the return to the competitive fray, corporations are assigning their vice presidents in charge of the future to the task of getting costs back in line.

N. A. M. OPPOSES BROADER TARIFF CUTTING POWER

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers today asked congress to deny the President additional tariff cutting powers in reciprocal trade agreements.

F. L. Hopkinson, chairman of the trade relations subcommittee of the association's world trade committee filed a statement with the house ways and means committee saying a grant of additional tariff reducing authority at this time is "unnecessary and perhaps unsafe." He said the association favored extension of the reciprocal trade act in its present form for one year.

Claudius T. Murchison, president of the Cotton Textile institute, told the committee, "It would seem advisable that the powers granted in the present act be not extended and that the act itself be not renewed for more than one year pending further studies of the domestic objectives of the United States."

MINORITY GROUP LOSES ROUND IN PROXY BATTLE

St. Louis, Mo., May 11 (AP)—A minority group of security holders seeking control of the Missouri Pacific Railroad company board of directors lost the first round today when the counting of proxies gave management an overwhelming majority vote at the annual stockholders' meeting.

The minority group, led by F. Douglas Wilson, Plainfield, Ill., and Andrew W. Comstock, Evanston, announced it would file a protest with the securities exchange commission over "management's methods of soliciting proxy votes."

The proxy count gave the management one more seat on the board of directors—12 of the 15—with election of T. C. Tupper of St. Louis. The minority elected John V. Farwell of Chicago.

REMOVE ALL CURBS ON OUTPUT, DELIVERY OF NEW TYPEWRITERS

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—All restrictions on production and delivery of typewriters were removed today. Manufacturers who are producing war materials, however, cannot reconvert their facilities or transfer personnel to typewriter production until they have met their war production commitments.

In addition companies for the most part must rely entirely on excess and idle materials until July 1 when steel, copper, and aluminum, the so-called controled materials, will be released for civilian production.

3 Studebaker Aircraft Units to Shut in June

Three plants of the Studebaker corporation, all making parts for engines used in B-17 Flying Fortresses and other military aircraft, will be shut down by the end of next month, the army air forces announced yesterday. One plant in Chicago and one each in South Bend and Fort Wayne, Ind., will be the first complete war plant casualties of the reconversion period in the Chicago area, the army said.

Three thousand workers will be laid off at the Studebaker plant at 5555 Archer av. including 400 being discharged this week.

An additional 4,500 will be forced to seek other employment in South Bend and 1,000 in Fort Wayne.

22,000 Urgent Jobs Open

War man power commission officials said more than 22,000 high priority jobs were open in Chicago and that 1,800 in Fort Wayne and 4,000 in South Bend should take up the employment slack there.

Paul A. Jenkins, district manager of the war production board, and Lester Brown, area WMC director, in a joint statement said more than 100 million dollars in new war contracts have been placed in Chicago in the last two weeks, and that at the Dodge Chicago and Douglas Aircraft company plants alone increased production schedules call for adding double the number of workers laid off at Studebaker.

Joseph Balas, president of the CIO United Auto Workers union at the Studebaker plant, and Bert Fowler, plant manager, said plans have been completed to lay off the workers in the order of their seniority and to see that they are referred to equally good jobs in other plants.

FORD ORDNANCE CUT BACK

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—Ford Motor company today announced cutbacks have been ordered in a number of ordnance vehicles being made in its plants. Affected are "weasels," M-8 and M-20 armored cars, and jeeps.

Production of weasels, scheduled to start at the Somerville, Mass., plant in August, will be reduced approximately 50 per cent; M-8 armored cars, assembled at the Ford St. Paul-Minneapolis branch, will be reduced approximately 2,000 units, with the contract to terminate this month; 1,700 fewer units of the M-20 armored car will be assembled at the Chicago plant.

The company did not disclose the termination date for its jeep program, but said the cutback affected production at Louisville, Richmond, Cal., Dallas, Tex., and Detroit.

NATIONAL BANK TO OPEN TODAY AT 63D, WESTERN

Marquette National bank, 6316 S. Western av., will open for business today. The bank has a capitalization of $265,000 and will provide vault facilities, night depository, and general banking services. It is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and the federal reserve system.

James H. Corey is president and a director. Other board members are John F. McCarthy, south side realtor, chairman; Adam J. Riffel, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade; George E. Strachan, coal and building material dealer, and Daniel J. McCarthy, attorney.

People and Events

Mowry E. Goetz, Chicago district manager of Republic Steel corporation for the last five years, yesterday was appointed assistant to E. M. Richards, vice president in charge of operations. Goetz will have his headquarters in Cleveland.

Mowry E. Goetz

Leslie F. Crews was appointed controler of Montgomery Ward & Co., a newly created position, the company said. Crews became associated with Ward in 1928 and has since held positions in the merchandising, operating, and financial divisions.

George S. Channer Jr. heads the committee in charge of the Bond Club of Chicago's annual field day, which will be held June 8 at Knollwood club, Lake Forest.

The Purchasing Agents Association of Chicago elected Arthur G. Pearson of the National Broadcasting company president. Other officers elected were C. L. Otremba, Montgomery Ward & Co., first vice president; William A. Macnider, Hills-McCanna company, second vice president; L. R. Seen, Borg & Beck division of Borg-Warner corporation, secretary, and Harry H. Wise, Scoville Manufacturing company, treasurer.

Arthur G. Pearson

Policy decisions to be faced when war contracts are canceled will be discussed at a Chicago Association of Commerce war problems school forum Thursday in the Palmer House. Speakers will include O. J. Engle, director of terminations for Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company; Frank W. Jenks, International Harvester company, vice president and chairman of Harvester's war contracts termination committee, and L. F. Buckley, assistant director of terminations for Studebaker corporation. Karl J. Ammerman, assistant to the president of Borg-Warner corporation, will be moderator.

The Army-Navy E award was presented to the W. B. Conkey company, 601 Conkey st., Hammond, for printing in record time "1 million copies of a 160 page booklet containing phonetic explanations of commonly used Japanese phrases." The award was made by A. E. Giegengack, United States public printer. The Conkey company has printed more than 125 instruction manuals for soldiers and sailors since Pearl Harbor.

Comdr. Brian J. Ducey, former Chicago investment banker, was retired from active duty after five years in naval intelligence, the 9th naval district announced.

Crude Petroleum Stocks Fall 2½ Million Barrels

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—The bureau of mines reported today that stocks of crude petroleum totaled 221,019,000 barrels on May 5, a net decrease of 2,455,000 barrels for the week.

BETTER MOTOR, RIDE FORECAST IN NEW AUTOS

100 Improvements on 1942 Models

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., May 11.—When new automobiles start coming off the Detroit area assembly lines they will be much improved over the 1942 models that rang down the curtain on pre-war production, automobile executives said today. Many lessons learned in war production will guide output of the first models. Body designs will be little changed because the old body dies will be used to speed production. Style changes, however, will be sufficient to give the cars a different appearance from the 1942 models, they said.

At least 100 improvements will be made in the forthcoming models, a Ford Motor company engineer said. In his opinion there will be more improvements in the new cars compared with the 1942 models than were brought out in any year over a preceding year since 1932.

Extend Bearing Life

The new cars will have improved bearings. New bearing alloys and new manufacturing methods developed during the war have increased the life of connecting rod bearings approximately 250 per cent in military vehicles, the Ford engineer said.

Lubrication systems have been improved to extend engine life thru increasing the oil volume and the pressure in the systems. Improved water pumps and water jacketing have bettered engine cooling systems. New engine ventilation will prevent the excessive formation of sludge and will lengthen motor life.

War developed synthetic rubbers will be used in many of the 400 parts of cars made of rubber compositions because they do the job better than natural rubber.

The distributor and other parts of the electric system have been made more durable. Other improvements will include better oil filters and cleaners.

Improve Spring Design

More durable and efficient braking systems may be expected. Shock absorbers will be more efficient and lasting and a better ride will be obtained thru improvement in springs and suspension design.

The Ford engineer told of a new car jack that will remove a lot of the hard work of tire trouble.

He said the industry probably will be able to use more of less expensive steels because of war experience. Fewer high alloy steels may be used. The automobile companies probably will specify the degrees of hardness wanted closer to requirements. The war development of equipment that detects flaws in steel bars faster and more cheaply will make it possible to use the cheaper steels, he explained.

Steels much stronger and more ductible than pre-war material will be available which will enable the industry to make stronger and lighter parts.

ICKES STUDYING CAUSES OF HARD COAL PAY SNARL

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP)—Anthracite operators scattered tonight for the week-end as negotiations for a new contract with John L. Lewis continued in deadlock and the government took no action to break it.

The apparent stalemate did not preclude the chance of a major development before Monday, however. Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes was gathering statistics on anthracite production, and considering the reasons given by both sides for not coming to a settlement.

Truman Gives Congress Full Tax Authority

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 11—Congressional leaders were told at a taxation conference today with President Truman that the White House had placed responsibility for new tax legislation on congress. Congressional circles took this as an indication that Treasury Secretary Morgenthau no longer will be permitted to dictate tax policies to congress. It reinforced the declaration with which Mr. Truman began his administration, that he intended to coöperate fully with congress.

Chairmen George [D., Ga.] of the senate finance committee and Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee, who alternate the chairmanship of the joint congressional taxation committee, said after leaving the White House that they reviewed immediate tax problems with Mr. Truman.

"Sympathetic" to Program

George said, however, that the President was "sympathetic" to the five point program announced by the joint committee to aid business. Doughton said flatly the President was passing the tax ball to congress: "He has so many other problems right now he is leaving taxes to us for the present."

The recommendations did not provide any relief for the individual income tax payer nor any reduction of federal tax rates. But the proposals would improve the cash position of business generally by 5.7 billion dollars in the next two years.

Expect No Over-All Cuts

Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], ranking Republican on the house ways and means committee, said it was generally agreed there could be no over-all tax reduction until the end of the war against Japan.

With no serious opposition expected, the house ways and means committee probably will begin work on the program next week.

STOCKS EDGE HIGHER, ALTHO TRADE IS QUIET

Make First Upturn Since Saturday

New York, May 11 (AP)—Stocks edged higher today, recovering on a selective basis as many leaders were quiet and dealings were the slowest in a month.

Some buying orders were reinstated on the belief that four successive days of reaction should bring the list at least a temporary technical recovery. Issues of companies with fewer war-to-peace transition problems again were favorites, altho a number of armament shares held their own. Reconversion difficulties still restrained numerous customers. Dividends and earnings were helpful, but the unanswered question of profits under normal operations restrained buying.

The market steadied at the start and gains of fractions to more than a point predominated at the close. Transfers of 1,070,000 shares, compared with 1,510,000 yesterday, and were the smallest for a full session since April 12.

RAILS LEAD BOND RISE

New York, May 11 (AP)—Railroad issues gained fractions to more than two points today, leading a general rise in bond prices after several days of declines. Transfers totaled $10,700,000 face value, against $11,840,000 yesterday.

The industrial average slipped 0.1 and utilities also were slightly lower. In the foreign government list Brazil 8s rose 1½ and Buenos Aires 4¾s declined 1½.

Only 1 out of every 30 outlets can supply you with Old Poindexter
Bottled in Bond
Old Poindexter
Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whisky
BARDSTOWN, KENTUCKY

• It's our hard luck that there's not enough Old Poindexter to stock all of the good bars and stores that order it.

But it's your good fortune that a few of the best spots still have a little of this great Kentucky Sour Mash Bourbon. Poindexter outlets are good places to patronize. They're operated by men who realize what 40% small grains do for Old Poindexter. Such men know the best—and insist on the best for their customers.

So we suggest—look up one of these selected outlets—not only for Old Poindexter, but to be certain of getting tops in everything you order.
